Foreword

The United States entered “the war to end all wars” seventy years ago, but much may still be learned from a study of that vast military and diplomatic experience. Accordingly, the Center of Military History is now bringing back into print a series of volumes on the World War I period. The facsimile reprint of the Order of Battle of the United States Land Forces in the World War, in five volumes, provides a logical introduction to the series. It will be followed shortly by a newly formatted edition of the United States Army in the World War (1917-1919), a major collection of documents pertaining to the conflict.

The concise and unique data in the Order of Battle is central to any serious examination of the Army’s involvement in World War I. The Center’s predecessors—the Army War College’s Historical Section, and the Special Staff’s Historical Division—originally published this work in three volumes. The first two concentrated on the American Expeditionary Forces (AEF). Volume 1 covers the AEF’s general headquarters; the American Services of Supply; armies; army corps; and separate forces, including the three French army corps under American command in 1918 as well as American units in North Russia and Siberia. Volume 2 provides outline histories of the AEF’s divisions. The essays in these two volumes combine information about the command and composition of units with tables that offer the reader a broad survey of operations in both major and minor theaters and the rear areas. Volume 3, consisting of five chapters organized in two parts, presents an array of useful information on the zone of the interior. Part 1 includes the organization and activities of the War Department, the territorial departments, the divisions that did not deploy overseas, and data about posts, camps, and stations. Part 2 consists of a directory of troops, covering all organizations that made up the Army between 1917 and 1919. Each volume begins with a guide to the use of the material.

In publishing this facsimile reprint, the Center has made some formatting changes to assist the modern reader, but the original text is unchanged. Volumes 1 and 2 are reprinted intact. Volume 3, first published in two parts, is now divided into three, in three separate volumes. For the reader’s convenience, a new appendix, “Posts, Camps, and Stations Index," has been added to the new Part 2. The original Part 2, the directory of troops, is now Part 3. The volume's consecutive pagination remains the same. To all volumes the Center has added its own front matter and, after the half-title page, incorporated relevant pages of the original introductory material (indicated by brackets around original folios).

Any work that attempts to describe such a vast and complex subject inevitably includes errors of both omission and commission. The Order of Battle is no exception. No attempt has been made to correct any errors in the work. For those students who wish to pursue these matters, they will find most of the original source material in the custody of the National Archives and Records Administration. What remains of the original manuscript for the volumes is in the custody of the Center and is available for examination.

In increasing numbers, military historians are coming to realize that the Army's experiences in World War I offer students of the profession of arms a vast classroom in which they might study the many facets of their subject. The Order of Battle is not a definitive guide, but it is a fine place to begin any in-depth study of that mighty war.

PREFACE

This publication, "Order of Battle of the United States Land Forces in the World War", is an official War Department document prepared by the Historical Section, Army War College, for the purpose of making available an accurate digest of the principal facts concerning the participation of the larger organizations of the land forces of the United States Army in the World War.

It presents command rosters of such organizations, tables depicting their daily order of battle, their composition at important periods, and under "Record of Events" a chronological résumé of the principal events regarding the organization and its operations.

The work is planned as consisting of three volumes. Two volumes are devoted to the American Expeditionary Forces, one concerning itself with organizations larger than a division, the other with divisions. A third volume is contemplated, dealing with organizations in the United States and containing appendices pertinent to the entire series.

The work is based upon original sources, most of which are official documents of the War Department. They include war diaries, operation reports, journals of operations, reports on battle participation; historical reports of brigades, divisions, corps, and armies; field orders, operation orders, returns, rosters, cablegrams, telegrams, and numerous other papers, the majority of which had their genesis in the organizations described. Most of these documents are on file in the World War Division of The Adjutant General's Office or in the Historical Section, Army War College. A source book, for each unit described, has been prepared indicating the authority for statements made in the Order of Battle and is preserved in the Historical Section for reference.

Every effort has been made to achieve accuracy, but occasionally contradictory evidence and incompleteness of records made this task difficult. Before publishing these volumes, drafts of their contents were forwarded to officers who participated in the operations, whose first-hand knowledge made their cooperation valuable, and their criticisms were examined and included in this work where justified. Controversial and personal factors have been purposely omitted.

Incorporated in this work are outline histories of all divisions organized during the war, the army corps, armies, services of supply, and general headquarters, and the three French army corps which were under American command. In addition are the records of the American forces in North Russia and in Siberia, separate military expeditions, the American Forces in France, and the American Forces in Germany. The record of each American unit begins with the date when its mobilization or organization was ordered by the War Department or General Headquarters, AEF, and terminates with its demobilization or discontinuance. In the cases of continuing Regular Army divisions the records close with the return of division hq to the United States. The data on the French army corps cover the periods during which they were actually under American army control. Whenever convenient, each outline history in this work has been divided into three parts: command, composition, and record.

The following notes will explain the general arrangement and the meaning of certain standardized statements appearing in the text.

COMMAND

Under this heading will be found the commanders of all major units, including brigades in divisions, and chiefs of staff. In the army corps and higher units, the names of the heads of staff sections and deputy chiefs of staff have been added. Opposite each name appears the date of assumption of command or entry upon office, continuity as to time being preserved by the inclusion of all commanders ad interim and acting general staff officers. The rule in these lists has been to give credit for actual performance regardless of orders. They are terminated, in the case of organizations other than Regular Army, ordinarily with demobilization or discontinuance of the headquarters. Command lists of continuing Regular Army organizations are terminated upon arrival of their respective headquarters in the United States.

COMPOSITION

This table exhibits the military units assigned or attached during important periods to the higher organizations. As regards units permanently belonging to divisions the table is complete. Units, attached to or detached from divisions, are indicated in separate tables. In organizations larger than divisions—i. e., army and corps—there was no fixed organization, and although many corps and army troops remained continuously under the same headquarters, most of them were transferred from one larger unit to another as emergency demanded. Accordingly such troops are here grouped under higher organizations as of the most important dates. Care has been taken to make such lists complete, but omissions will be found, especially of small non-combatant units. No attempt has been made to determine actual period of service of the units listed, and the periods are fixed only in a general manner. Orders are the basis for including such units in composition for a particular period, and, with rare exceptions, the service recorded was actually performed. The composition for the SOS, all sections, is of the time of the signing of the armistice, and included in it is a list of the principal depots and installations operating under each section. A table of abbreviations appears in the back of this book.

TABLES

Tables depicting graphically the daily order of battle are published opposite record of events in army, corps, and division records. Thus an arrangement $\frac{\text{III—IV}}{78}$ in the army tables indicates that the III and

IV Corps are abreast on the army front, IV Corps on the right, 78th

Division in army reserve. Similarly an arrangement $\frac{42—3—80}{32—92}$ indicates that the 42d, 3d, and 80th Divisions are in line abreast, from left to right, on a corps front, with the 32d and 92d Divisions comprising the corps reserve.¹ As changes are made from day to day in the major units holding battle positions the corps and army tables record the changes in each case by new graphic representations.

In compiling these tables the rule has been to place a corps or division on the front line coincident with change of command, and its relief from the front is treated under a similar rule. A unit is placed in army or corps reserve only when competent orders so authorize it to be, and then only when its position in relation to the battle front makes such status logical.²

The arrangement discussed refers to only those divisions or corps serving on front line or in reserve. Additional tables, on the same pages throughout the army and corps records, include and show the status of the other divisions, part of the army and corps, namely (a) divisions, assigned and attached by orders or letter, but which have not arrived in the area of the higher organization under consideration;³ (r) divisions neither in line nor reserve, although the headquarters of such divisions are within the army or corps areas; (x) divisions controlled tactically by some organization other than the one under consideration (as in a case where an American division is in line or sector under a French corps or army), but whose administrative control is with the particular American corps considered.⁴

Fixing the location of an organization with respect to a particular army or corps area is difficult where such organization is moving, so the rule adopted for this publication was that the establishment of the headquarters of the moving organization would control. Withdrawal of the headquarters likewise would be considered removal from the area.

RECORD OF EVENTS

For each organization considered in this work, it has been the purpose, so far as possible, to include under this heading all the important facts pertaining to it, in as succinct a manner as practicable. This record does not purport to be a history of the organization, but is rather an outline.

For the sake of clarity and uniformity the record of each organization, where it could be done, has been broken up into subdivisions in order that all the facts pertinent to organization, movement overseas, training, operations, and post-armistice activities, might be grouped under respective heads. In the case of the higher units it is obvious that some deviation must be made from such a scheme, but as far as possible the general plan was so carried out.

Owing to the the nature of this work it has been impracticable to enter at length into the tactical or strategical maneuvers of each major unit; only facts pertinent to order of battle in operations have been included. Front line descriptions, in the matter of detail, vary naturally with the nature of the record under consideration, the army descriptions being very general, the corps less general, and the division descriptions still more detailed. Descriptions of boundaries and zones of action, shown in army and corps accounts, are extracted from orders. French 1:200,000—scale maps, "Plans Directeurs" form the basis of front line and boundary descriptions.

After the armistice disintegration of the American Expeditionary Forces began. Divisions were returned to the United States, as such, and, with the exception of Regular Army units, demobilized. Most of the higher units were abolished or discontinued abroad; so this record, although it relates the events to the point of dissolution or discontinuance, does not describe the return to the United States of corps, army, or higher headquarters, or their troops, excepting the General Headquarters, AEF. In the case of divisions the sailings of the first organic units and of the headquarters are recorded; no attempt has been made to account for all divisional units, but the arrival of the last divisional unit in the United States is regularly shown in order to establish the termination of the movement.

The terms "arrive", "disembark", "land", used in describing movements of units overseas, are used interchangeably to show actual date of arrival of transports, carrying such units, at overseas ports of debarkation.

HOW TO USE THE ORDER OF BATTLE

Given the information that the American First Army was responsible for the reduction of the St-Mihiel salient, the following concrete example is presented to illustrate how the Order of Battle may be used.

First step: Obtain the army information by turning to the First Army record, pages 91 to 109, and reading the record of events dealing with the St-Mihiel Operation. Next, study pages 98, 104, 106, and 108, the tables identifying the corps and showing their battle status during the operation. These tables show the order of battle First Army Sept 12, opening day of St-Mihiel Operation, to be $\frac{V-Fr\ II\ Cl-IV-I}{80\ 91\ 35}$, indicating that the V, Fr II Colonial, IV, and I Corps, from left to right were on the army front and that the 80th, 91st, and 35th Divisions comprised the army reserve. Turn to page 81, where may be obtained the names of the commander and staff of the First Army directing the operation Sept 12-16. On page 82 will be found a list of units serving the First Army, at times between Aug 20-Sept 16, most of them having direct relationship to the operation.

Second step: From the army record it has been learned that the I, IV, V, and Fr II Colonial Corps took part in the St-Mihiel Operation. Take each corps up in turn following the same procedure as in the army. The record of events, tables, command list, and composition for the I Corps may be found between pages 207 and 211. Similar data for the IV Corps may be found on pages 273 to 279, for the V Corps on pages 295 to 301, for the Fr Cl Corps on pages 349 to 355.

Third step: Study of the records of the divisions that participated in the St-Mihiel Operation may now be made. Turning back to the tables of the I Corps it will be noted that on Sept 12 the order of battle of that corps was $\frac{2-5-90-82}{78}$, which interpreted means that the 2d, 5th, 90th, and 82d Divisions, in that order from left to right, were in line on the front of the I Corps when the battle began and the 78th Division constituted I Corps reserve. Study of the records of each of these divisions, to be found in the volume of the Order of Battle devoted to divisions, will furnish additional data regarding the conduct of the St-Mihiel Operation.¹ Contained in the record of each division will be found the list of commanders, the composition, order of battle tables, and record of events, all having direct reference to the St-Mihiel Operation. After the records of the divisions forming part of the I Corps have been studied those of the divisions forming part of the IV Corps may be taken up, then finally, the divisions of the V Corps.²

This procedure will give a complete roster of the army, corps, and division commanders and their staffs, participating in the St-Mihiel Operation; a list of all important units that took part; the complete day to day status of all the higher units, together with the relationship of one to another; location of headquarters of all the higher units; and finally, in succinct summaries, extracted from the record of events, the principal facts regarding the activities of the First Army, the I, IV, V and French II Colonial Corps, and all the American divisions that took part in the operation.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, AEF

STATEMENT

The activities of General Headquarters, American Expeditionary Forces (GHQ, AEF), fall naturally into four classes—internal organization and development of the headquarters staff itself; plans for employment of troops; organization of the American Expeditionary Forces (AEF) at large; and the actual conduct of operations.

In the conduct of operations, no territorial or tactical command was exercised directly by GHQ. Such authority was delegated to subordinate units. Prior to the organization of the First Army, during the summer of 1918, the situation required use of American divisions in battle under other than American higher command. Not until July 1918 was it possible for the United States to exercise tactical command over its own divisions with American corps staffs; and Aug 30, 1918, marks the time when tactical orders first issued from an American army hq to its divisions on the battle front. However, GHQ directed and supervised very closely the administration and general employment of all American troops. During the early stages this was done through staff representatives. Later a number of corps staffs were established which maintained the proper liaison for GHQ. These staffs were sent into French and British areas where American divisions were being trained or used in battle, with complete administrative authority over such divisions and with coördinate authority, in the matter of tactical control, with the staffs of the foreign corps concerned. American corps staffs of this character, established in the zones of the Fr Sixth, Fr Seventh, and Fr Eighth Armies, maintained direct liaison for GHQ, with the American divisions serving therein. The American II Corps staff similarly administered American divisions in British areas. With the organization of the American First Army during August 1918 the necessity for this control disappeared; tactical control of American units thereafter, with few exceptions, was exercised, under GHQ supervision, directly by American army and corps staffs.

PLANS FOR EMPLOYMENT OF TROOPS

May 28, Chief of American Liaison Group with French Armies transmits to Chief of American Military Mission a program, prepared in French GQG, providing for reception, installation, and training of American troops. It proposes training troops in Lorraine as the logical location for battle participation. It suggests use of ports in southwestern France as debarkation points, utilization of the rail lines from such ports to the Lorraine region, installations to be grouped around Tours, Bourges, and Nevers. French coöperation in training is proposed.

June 10, Board of Officers from Hq AEF initiates investigation of ports in southwestern France for use as bases. June 21, Board of Officers proceeds to Lorraine to study suitability of region for development and employment of American Army. June 28, Board of Officers recommend that, with some modification, French plan of developing the American theatre in the Lorraine region be adopted. Negotiations begin to obtain the necessary facilities.

July 1, Gen Pershing and Gen Pétain, the French C-in-C, in conference, work out details necessary to institute action, and the plan is cabled to War Department for approval. July 3, staff at GHQ begins study of French military supply system with a view to modification of American system. July 6, the hq begins study of use of French methods and troops in American training. July 11, General Organization Project is approved by Gen Pershing.²

Aug 9, the hq opens conference with French Ministry of War regarding organization of communications and facilities for contemplated American front. Aug 15, French C-in-C embodies result of conference in formal proposal to GHQ.

Sept 3, Gen Pershing instructs staff to prepare strategical study of entire Western Front, with particular attention to locality between Verdun and the Swiss border, the object being to determine proper mission for the AEF. Gen Pershing, Sept 13, approves revised communications plan (see Aug 9 and 15 above), committing American Army to no permanent theatre of operation. Sept 25, the staff sends to the C-in-C its plan for future employment of the AEF. It proposes as a first step an attack, in May 1918, by Franco-American force, against St-Mihiel salient, conditioned upon arrival, in France, before that date, of at least 500,000 Americans. Entry of American troops is suggested, between Feb and May, along the south face of the salient, between Pont-à-Mousson and the railroad connecting

² The General Organization Project is the product of joint study on the part of a War Department Military Mission and staff officers of Hq AEF. May 23, 1917 the Mission, headed by Col Chauncey Baker, was sent to Europe to make a thorough study of the military establishments of the allied armies in order that it might recommend to the War Department a definite plan by which the American overseas army might be created. It completed its studies in about a month and early in July held conferences with officers of Hq AEF engaged in similar study. (See page 20 for additional data.)

RECORD OF EVENTS

Domevre-en-Haye with Thiaucourt; American troops to train in region west of Pont-à-Mousson, ready to aid the French Army, until Feb 1918.

Oct 7, GHQ transmits to the War Department, a "Priority Schedule" determining the order of shipment of troops. It divides the total force of 1,328,448, provided for in the General Organization Project of July 11, 1917, into six phases. A combat army corps of six divisions and corps troops is included in each of the first five phases. In the sixth phase, and also distributed throughout the other five phases, are army troops and troops for the Service of the Rear and Tank Projects.

Dec 23, French C-in-C initiates discussion with Gen Pershing for purpose of expediting training of American troops by attaching them to French divisions.

Jan 9, British open conferences with Hq, AEF, concerning transportation of American troops in British ships. Jan 11, agreement reached with French (see Dec 23 above) with stipulation that plan is for training only in sectors on stabilized fronts. Execution of plan begins at once. Gen Pershing agrees to use of 369th, 370th, 371st, and 372d regiments of infantry by French Army. Jan 30, "Six Division Plan" (see Jan 9 above) adopted, providing for transportation of six (later ten) American divisions, less artillery and trains, to France in British ships, for preliminary training in British areas.

Feb 5, agreement reached regarding training of American divisions in British areas (see Jan 30 above). Feb 19, Gens Pershing and Pétain, at Chantilly (Oise) further consider American plan of Sept 25 for employment of American troops in St-Mihiel region. Agreement is reached that Americans, with one of their divisions as nucleus, shall build up American sector in Woëvre region north of Toul; other divisions as they become available to be placed in line on right and left of nucleus division, and French to turn over command of army sector when four American divisions are in line.

Mar 25, success of German offensive, in progress since Mar 21, leads Gen Pershing to postpone plans for forming American army. At Compiègne (Oise), he offers to Gen Pétain full use of American troops in France for this emergency. Mar 26, at meeting of allied commanders, held at Doullens (Somme), Gen Foch is designated as coördinator of allied operations on the Western Front. Mar 28, offer of Mar 25 repeated by Gen Pershing to Gen Foch at Clermont (Oise), and accepted. Military representatives of Supreme War Council (Gen Bliss, American member) adopt Joint Note No 18, recommending temporary suspension of existing transportation schedule from the United States, and substitution of complete priorities for infantry and machine-gun units. Mar 30, President Wilson approves this plan, with modifications, retaining, through Gen Pershing, control over such units.

Apr 3, Gen Foch announced as Allied C-in-C on the Western Front. Supreme War Council, allied commanders, and premiers, in session at Beauvais (Oise) adopt resolution which formally recognizes potential existence of an American army in France. Apr 24, at meeting in London between Gen Pershing and British authorities the Jan 30 agreement giving transportation priority to infantry and machine-gun units is broadened to include engineer and signal troops, also headquarters for divisions and brigades, thereby enabling AEF to complete divisions for future employment under American C-in-C.

May 1-2, allied commanders and Supreme War Council meet at Abbeville (Somme). New priority schedule adopted. Contingent upon British transporting to France stated minimums of American troops monthly, preference in transport is given infantry and machine-gun units of six divisions to be trained with French and British armies. These units remain subject to recall by American C-in-C for use in forming an American army which it is agreed shall be formed under its own commander and flag at an early date. Excess shipping is to carry such other troops as Gen Pershing may designate. May 7, Maj Gen Eben Swift, as Chief of American Military Mission to Italy (established Mar 1918 near Italian GHQ at Padua), commands all American troops in Italy. May 19, Gens Pershing and Pétain, at Chantilly, take steps to put into effect Abbeville Agreement (May 1 above) as to early formation of American army. May 23, Gen Pershing notifies French that he intends, before June 20th, to extend sector held by 26th Div and replace that division by the American I Corps with the 3d and 5th Divisions in line. May 27, Germans resume their offensive again interrupting plan for forming American army. Gen Pershing, May 30, releases to Gen Pétain the 2d and 3d Divisions, which assist the French armies in the Marne region in stopping the German advance.

June 1-2, Supreme War Council and allied commanders, in session at Versailles, agree to further revision of priority schedule. On assumption that 250,000 men will be transported each month during June and July, an absolute priority is given, during June, to 170,000 combatant troops, then 25,400 railway troops; during July, to 140,000 combatant troops. Gen Pershing is to designate class of troops beyond priorities. (This agreement ends the extended series of conferences regarding troop shipments from the United States. In three months, May to July, twenty-one American divisions are transported to France, in all more than 829,000 soldiers.) June 3, decision is made to transfer American divisions, training in British areas, to the French field of operations; movement of five such divisions begins June 6.

June 6, agreement reached with Gen Pétain for immediate formation of American corps sector in Marne region. June 13, I Corps hq ordered to Marne region. June 21, I Corps hq opens at La Ferté-sous-Jouarre (Seine-et-Marne), and assumes administrative control over all American divisions in Marne region. June 23, French proposal, calling for eighty American divisions in France by April 1919, one hundred by July 1919, accepted by C-in-C.

July 4, American I Corps assumes command of sector on Marne front. Lt Col Hugh A. Drum selected as Chief of Staff for American First Army and directed to commence organization of that army in Marne region. July 14, Operations Section, GHQ, recommends definite action regarding selection of permanent battle sector for American Army, urging Lorraine but suggesting adoption of any selection made by Marshal Foch. July 21, agreement with Gen Pétain for formation of American First Army in Marne region under personal command of Gen Pershing; another American sector to be formed later between Nomeny and St-Mihiel, in Lorraine. July 25, American military expedition leaves France for Italy. July 26, Marshal Foch accepts "in principle" the GHQ plan for concentrating American divisions, not used in forming First Army, in St-Mihiel region. July 30, Gen Pershing designates AEF troops to comprise "Murmansk Expedition" to North Russia.

Aug 4, American III Corps takes over sector adjacent to I Corps, on Vesle front. Aug 9, in conference at Sarcus (Oise), Gen Pershing agrees with Marshal Foch to abandon plan of forming First Army on the Marne and revert to original plan of forming it in St-Mihiel region. Aug 10, Gen Pershing formally assumes command of the First Army and immediately thereafter orders it transferred to St-Mihiel theatre, its hq moving Aug 11-16. Aug 27, the American "Murmansk Expedition" organized from units of 85th Div leaves England to join the allied forces operating in North Russia. (See AEF, North Russia.) Aug 30, First Army assumes tactical command on front, relieving French armies in the sector from Port-sur-Seille (Meurthe et Moselle) to Watronville (Meuse) as initial step in St-Mihiel operation.

Sept 22, the front of the First Army is extended by relief of the First Second Army, between the Meuse River and the Argonne Forest, in preparation for the Meuse-Argonne Operation.

Oct 12, the American Second Army takes its place beside the First Army, relieving latter of command of front between Port-sur-Seille and Fresnes-en-Woëvre (Meuse), and continuing in line on this front until after the armistice.

Nov 11, the armistice line of the American armies extends generally northwest from Pont-à-Mousson to Sedan (Ardennes). (See Record of Events—First and Second Armies.) Nov 17, American Third Army, created Nov 7, marches across armistice line, passes through the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, reaches the German border Nov 23, and crosses, Dec 1, into Germany, where, as component of the allied armies of occupation, it occupies part of the Coblenz bridgehead and the district of Trier (Regierungsbezirk of Trier), with its reserves located between the rivers Moselle and Meuse, and the Luxemburg frontier. (See Record of Events—Third Army.)

Mar 17–Apr 1, the 167th and 168th Cqs Transportation Corps (the “Murmansk Contingent”) leave England for North Russia to participate in operations there. (See Record of Events, AEF North Russia.)

July 3, Third Army discontinued, its hq and units of American army of occupation redesignated American Forces in Germany. (See Record of Events—AF in G.)

PRINCIPAL ORGANIZATION ACTIVITIES1917

May 28–June 13, the staff studies organization systems of Allies, while en route from United States to Paris, seeking proper organization for AEF.

June 21, St-Nazaire (Loire-Inférieure) is established as the first of seventeen principal ports through which the AEF operates. June 26, first large contingent of American soldiers arrives in France, the initial convoy of the First Expeditionary Div, numbering 346 officers, 11,607 men. The Quartermaster Corps opens its first AEF depot at St-Nazaire.

RECORD OF EVENTS

July 4, an Advance Section, L of C, under the C-in-C, established. At the armistice this Section, under the SOS, numbers 4924 officers, 101,271 enlisted, and 1728 nurses. (See SOS record.) July 5, Commanding General designated for Line of Communications, with territorial command, directing supply, sanitation, and telegraph facilities and all construction in L of C. [Geographical limits defined Aug 13, Sept 17, and Dec 14, 1917. Jan 13, 1918, hq L of C transferred from Paris to Tours (Indre-et-Loire). Feb 16, the L of C is reorganized as Service of the Rear (SOR), and on Mar 13, redesignated Services of Supply (SOS). Nov 11, 1918, SOS strength: 662,312. (See SOS record.)]

July 11, Gen Pershing approves General Organization Project which provides for an army hq, army and corps troops, combat, depot, and replacement divisions; in all, a minimum force of 1,000,000. Five corps are to be organized each to comprise 187,000 men; each corps to have six divisions—four combat, one replacement and school, and one a base and training division. Corps base and training division receives, classifies, and gives preliminary training to troops arriving from United States. Corps replacement and school division receives replacements from base divisions, continues their training and forwards them to combat divisions, providing also troops for corps schools. Part of the artillery and auxiliaries of replacement and training divisions become corps and army troops. (Note: This basic plan developed the AEF into a force of nearly 2,000,000.)

Aug 5, GHQ forwards to War Department project for engineer service of the rear, including railways.

Aug 12, Signal Corps functions defined. Included in this organization are a field signal battalion operating with each army, corps, and division; a telegraph battalion for each corps, two for an army; a radio section for each army, an AEF meteorological section operating 33 forecasting stations; non-tactical personnel divided into sixteen service companies; a pigeon company; and a Paris photographic laboratory with field detachments assigned to armies, corps, and divisions.

Aug 13, Intermediate Section, base sections, Service of Military Railways, created by territorial organization of L of C. (See SOS.)

Aug 20, a General Purchasing Board is established headed by the General Purchasing Agent, and with additional representatives from the Quartermaster, Medical, Engineer, Aviation, Signal, Ordnance, Gas and Motor Transport Services, and from the United States Navy. The General Purchasing Agent represents the C-in-C in liaison with various allied governments and purchasing agents in matters involving economic and other matters of supply and labor. Branch offices outside of France in Great Britain, Spain, Portugal, Italy, and Switzerland, through which pass all purchases made by the AEF.

Aug 27, Corps organization changed; corps troops to be provided in each group of four combat divisions and army troops for each group of twenty.

Aug 28, Aviation Officer, AEF, and the corresponding officer in zone of advance, are placed under a Chief Aviation Officer, AEF (Col William L. Kenly). Sept 4, separate air service commanders provided for in Zone of Advance, and in Line of Communication. Winter 1917-1918: aviation schools open at Issoudun (Indre), Tours, and Clermont-Ferrand (Puy-de-Dome); program initiated that brings more than 25,000 American aviation mechanics to England, additional number to France. Air Production Center opens at Romorantin (Loir-et-Cher); construction begins on First Air Depot, Colombey-les-Belles (Meurthe-et-Moselle). Dec 12, reorganization. Jan 15, 1918, a joint army and navy aircraft committee organized. Feb 16, Air Service hq moves from Chaumont to Tours. May 29, Air Service separated from Signal Corps, new Chief of Air Service appointed; further reorganization effected. Aug 17, Air Service program calls for 202 squadrons, 133 balloon companies by July 1919. Hq moves back to Chaumont about middle of Oct, 1918. Branch offices are at Tours, Paris, London, and Rome; an American flying service is operating in Italy. Oct 14, Brig Gen William Mitchell appointed Chief of Air Service, Army Group, relinquishing lesser First Army command, Oct 21.

Sept 3, Gas Service, AEF, established.

Sept 8, School Project for AEF approved. Provides for establishment of army and corps centers of instruction, the organization of a General Staff College, and a system of troop training within divisions. GHQ retains direction. [Note: The Army Schools were established Oct 10, 1917, at Langres (Haute-Marne) and the full project was operating before end of 1917.]

Sept 14, Transportation Service, AEF, created as a separate service, under a Director General, with mission to construct, operate, and maintain all American-controlled railways and canals; also, in addition, to construct and maintain roads, wharves, shops, and other buildings for railway purposes. [Note: Beginning Feb 16, 1918 the Transportation Service is part of the Service of the Rear; on Mar 12,

RECORD OF EVENTS

1918 it is a section of the newly created Service of Utilities operating under Services of Supply; and on July 11, 1918 again operates under the SOS as a separate service. Beginning Dec 8, 1917 the Army Transport Service functions under Transportation Service. Strength of Transportation Service Nov 11, 1918: 1810 officers, 46,986 enlisted men.]

Sept 18, 1917 Remount Service, AEF, to be under QMC, authorized. (Reorganized July 26, 1918; Veterinarian Service placed under it, but removed Aug 24, 1918, to Chief Surgeon, AEF.) Service of Rear Project, AEF, approved. Provides minimum of 329,652 men for use in aviation, engineer, signal, medical, ordnance and quartermaster sections, to supplement General Organization Project of July 11.

Oct 2, Maj Gen Peyton C. March appointed commander of army artillery and is charged with supervisory control of the organization, training and equipment of such of the divisional and corps artillery units as are detached from their respective divisions and corps. At his hq, Le Valdahon (Doubs), action is initiated which secures artillery training areas at Libourne (Gironde), Limoges (Haute-Vienne), Clermont-Ferrand (Puy-de-Dome), Angers (Maine-et-Loire), Coëtquidan (Morbihan), Souge (Gironde), Meucon (Morbihan), La Courtine (Creuse), and Le Valdahon. Feb 26, 1918, Army Arty, First Army, is established at Bar-sur-Aube under command of Brig Gen Ernest Hinds. Apr 3, 1918, "Anti-Aircraft Service AEF" established at Hq Army Arty, and under the orders of the Army Artillery Commander. Apr 29, 1918, reorganization of artillery provides chiefs of artillery for AEF, armies, and corps. May 27, 1918, office of Chief of Artillery, AEF, opens at Chaumont. During 1918 five large centers for training tractor-drawn artillery, and another for railway artillery, are established in France; a trench artillery center is organized at Vitrey-Vernois (Haute-Saône).

Oct 10, 1917, anti-aircraft and trench-mortar schools, under Brig Gen James A. Shipton, are established at Langres.

Oct 18, 1917 Army Transport Service established. It controls all AEF port operations; combined with Transportation Service Dec 18, 1917. Employs 800 officers, 20,000 enlisted men, 2,509 civilians, and 900 German prisoners.

Nov 16, 1917 reclassification for Regular Army officers inaugurated in AEF; broadened Mar 25, 1918, to include National Guard, National Army, and Reserves; and later extended to students and temporary officers.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Dec 5, 1917 Ordnance Mission, AEF, arrives England to establish branch for activities there. [Note: Most AEF ordnance was bought in Europe, France and England supplying nearly all the artillery, ammunition for same, trench warfare matériel, auxiliary apparatus.]

Dec 8, 1917 Motor Transport Service, AEF, established as separate service, under direction QMC. It is charged with supply of motor vehicles, parts, tools, accessories, gasoline, and lubricants, and in addition maintains technical service of operation of motor transportation, air corps excluded; on Feb 16, 1918, it joins Service of Utilities; May 11, 1918, permanent personnel is assigned to it; July 11, 1918 made separate service again under SOS; its armistice strength: 1,135 officers, 26,957 enlisted.

THE SERVICES OF SUPPLY, AEF

STATEMENT REGARDING SOS ORGANIZATION

The Field Service Regulations, United States Army, formed the basis for the original organization of the Services of Supply, AEF. They provide that a Line of Communications shall be established for each important force about to engage in field operations involving movement from a base, and that the mission of the Line of Communications is to relieve the combatant forces from every consideration except that of defeating the enemy. The Line of Communications, AEF, through a series of reorganizations shown in accompanying charts and other data, gradually expanded into the AEF's supply army which was designated March 13, 1918, the Services of Supply.

Geographically the SOS included all of France and Great Britain. For administrative purposes this territory was divided into seven Base Sections, an Intermediate Section, an Advance Section, and two independent districts of Paris and Tours. Late in Oct 1918 an additional base section was organized to administer American troops in Italy, and in 1919 a base section was established to meet the needs of the American Army of Occupation on the Rhine, Holland and Belgium being included in its area. The principal facts regarding these Sections appear hereafter as subdivisions of this SOS record.

At Tours was maintained the Hq of the SOS, including the Commanding General, his general staff, and the chiefs of all the technical and supply departments with their administrative staffs. The different sections were for the most part commanded by general officers, each of whom, with his administrative staff, exercised absolute control over matters of discipline, policing, and sanitation and was responsible to the Commanding General, SOS, for the activities carried on within his section.

The District of Paris and the Arrondissement of Tours were exempted from the control of the Commanding General of the Intermediate Section in which they lay, and fell under direct control of Hq SOS.

The organization of the SOS comprised such vast enterprises, giving rise to so many decisions, enunciations of policy and problems of coördination, that it was impossible for the Commanding General himself to pass upon all matters that required attention. For this reason it was necessary to delegate a considerable portion of his executive authority to his general staff officers. To exercise this delegated authority, the General Staff of the Commanding General, SOS, was organized with three Assistant Chiefs of Staff, each of whom, under the Chief of Staff, presided over one of the three sections of the General Staff, designated as G-1, G-2, and G-4.¹

In general, G-1 exercised delegated authority over all matters of organization, administration, and the procurement of personnel and material from the United States and Europe; G-2 controlled problems of intelligence and counter-espionage; G-4 authorized construction, supervised transportation, and guaranteed the flow of supplies.

The following charts show the organization at different periods.

¹ This organization was modeled upon that of the General Staff at GHQ, except that the G-3 Section (Operations) was absorbed July 12, 1918 by G-4 Section.

THE LINE OF COMMUNICATIONS

May 31, 1917, while en route to England on the SS "Baltic", Gen Pershing appoints a board of officers from his staff to consider the advantages and disadvantages of such French ports as would become available for possible bases for the AEF.

June 12, "Board on Ports" leaves Paris to inspect ports. June 16, Marshal Joffre forwards to Gen Pershing a program for American co-operation, prepared by the French General Staff, which recommends that steps should be taken to send to France at the earliest possible moment, the personnel and material needed in organizing the bases and services of the rear. June 17, Chief of Staff cables Gen Pershing to report with minimum delay his requirements and recommendations for bases, line of communications, camps, and troops needed for their operation and maintenance. June 20, the "Board on Ports", having visited Nantes, St-Nazaire (Loire-Inférieure), La Pallice (Charente-Inférieure), Bordeaux, La Rochelle, Bassens, Pauillac, and Verdon-sur-Mer (Gironde) submits its report. Among its recommendations one is to the effect that a general officer of the line of the Regular Army with a competent staff be sent without delay to France for the duty of commanding the service of the rear of the American forces to whom all questions relating to that service can be turned over for settlement under such general instructions as Gen Pershing may see fit to give. June 21, St-Nazaire is designated as Base Port No 1 by verbal orders of the C-in-C; offices open June 22 in Grand Hotel. June 26, first ordnance depot company and first motor transport organization arrive in France.

July 1, Gen Pershing in a cable to War Department designates as available ports those on Loire and Gironde Rivers, and La Pallice and La Rochelle from which the main railroad lines lead northeastward through the district Orleans, Bourges, Montargis, and Nevers, favorable for supply depots; he also designates as general area for training Neufchateau (Vosges), Nancy (Meurthe-et-Moselle), Epinal (Vosges); and recommends the use of the ports selected as not interfering with the British bases. Furthermore he points out that the railroads would avoid the routes used by the French and British forces and that the location of the supply depots would facilitate supply. July 4, an advance section with hq at Nevers is created to function directly under C-in-C, AEF. July 5, the Line of Communications is established as a part of the AEF. The Commanding General, L of C, is designated as a member of the Administrative and Technical Staff of the C-in-C. The staff duties assigned to the Commanding General, L of C, in the zone of the L of C, comprise the Service of Territorial Command; the Supply, Sanitary, and Telegraph Services; and all construction work. July 10, the first American post office in France opens at St-Nazaire. July 25, Brig Gen R M Blatchford is appointed Commanding General, L of C, by verbal orders of the C-in-C.

Aug 1, Purchasing Office, under Chief QM, opens at London, England; embarkation office organized Southampton, England. Aug 2, Hq American Base, Le Havre, opens. Aug 5, Gen Pershing cables requirements for engineer troops for services of the rear and line of communications; wharf construction personnel, railway, forestry, labor, and general construction troops to be given priority in shipment in order named. Aug 9, first AEF telegraph line operates between Paris and Nevers. Aug 13, GHQ announces the geographical limits of the L of C as extending from the sea to the points where delivery of supplies is made to the field transportation of the combatant field forces, less such areas as may from time to time be excepted therefrom. Base Sections Nos 1, 2, and 3, together with an Intermediate Section and an Advance Section, are established.¹ The Service of Military Railways is established to include the operation, maintenance, and construction of such railways as may be turned over to our forces involved in the supply or transportation of the army, exclusive of light railways in the "Zone des Armées." Rail lines to be used by AEF designated. Aug 20, a General Purchasing Board is established in Paris under the General Purchasing Agent, who as the representative of the C-in-C will coördinate and supervise all purchasing agents of the AEF. Aug 21, GHQ directs the Commanding General, L of C, to make all arrangements for the reception and movement of American troops arriving in France from England at the channel ports of Cherbourg (Manche), Le Havre (Seine-Inférieure), and Boulogne (Pas-de-Calais) and for their rail movement to destinations. Aug 28, all troops, military establishments, and personnel in the zone of the L of C are definitely placed by GHQ under the control of the Commanding General, L of C, except such as may be specially exempted by orders of the C-in-C. Section

Commanders, L of C, are charged with duties of Assistant Chiefs of Staff.

Sept 7, as a measure of safety against submarine and other losses, Gen Pershing adopts policy of building up reserves of all classes of supplies for 90 days to be maintained by monthly shipments, this reserve to be distributed with 45 days' supplies near base ports, 30 days' supplies in the Intermediate Section, and 15 days' supplies in the Advance Section. Based on a 90 days' reserve supply for 300,000, construction of depot facilities in France begins. These facilities are capable of great expansion to meet increases in the AEF. Sept 14, a Transportation Department is established charged with the operation, maintenance, and construction of all railways and canals under American control and with the construction and maintenance of wharves and roads, and of shops and other buildings for railway purposes. Until such time as the number of construction troops in France warrants permanent assignment to the Transportation Department, all construction is to be done under the Commanding General, L of C. Sept 17, the boundaries of Base Section No 1, the Intermediate Section, and the Advance Section are modified. The hq of the Intermediate Section is located provisionally at Nevers (Nièvre) and the hq of the Advance Section at Is-sur-Tille (Côte d'Or). Sept 18, the Service of the Rear Project providing for a minimum of 329,653 men for the L of C is transmitted by the C in C to the War Department for approval. This project provides the necessary aviation, engineer, signal, medical, medical, ordnance and quartermaster personnel for an army of 20 combat divisions, 10 replacement and base divisions, with GHQ, army, corps, and L of C troops, a total of 1,328,448. It is the initial program and becomes the basis for the development and expansion of what later is to be known as the Services of Supply.² The Remount Service, AEF, is established with remount depots and hospitals in the Advance, Intermediate, and Base Sections where needed. Sept 21, the C-in-C cables War Department that careful study shows rail transportation should be organized as a separate department and coordinated with existing administrative staff and supply departments; the C-in-C requests the President to establish such an organization to be known as the Railway Transportation Corps.

Oct 4, 8, Gen Pershing cables War Department of the great shortage of labor, especially at base ports. Use of German prisoners of war, disqualified French soldiers, and French female laborers unsatisfactory. Until labor troops are received from the United States, it is necessary to use combat troops for this kind of work. Oct 11, C-in-C cables recommendations for the shipment of the next 1,191,000 men in six phases, of which 279,000 are to be troops for the L of C divided as follows: First Phase, 70,000; Second Phase, 73,000; Third Phase, 52,000; Fourth Phase, 41,000; Fifth Phase, 27,000; Sixth Phase, 16,000. These SOS troops to be sent even though it may delay divisions. Oct 18, organization of Army Transport Service is announced under QM administration.

Nov 27, Base Section No 3, with hq at Le Havre, established as the agency for receiving and dispatching troops and supplies arriving in France at channel ports, is redesignated as Base Section No 4. The former subagencies in England for receiving and forwarding troops and supplies are organized as Base Section No 3 under the Commanding General, L of C, with hq in London. The authorized facilities in the harbor and port of Brest, together with the authorized establishments of Supply, Sanitary, and Telegraph Service included in the Department of Finistère, are organized as Base Section No 5 with hq at Brest. All troops, military establishments, and personnel of the AEF, in the various sections of the L of C are placed under the control of the commanders thereof, except such as may be especially exempted by orders from GHQ.

² The apportionment to the several corps, departments, and services, and the main subdivisions in each of them follow: [See table on p. 39.]

Dec 1, 1917–Oct 21, 1918, Central Printing Office operating under General Purchasing Agent. Dec 8, 1917, the Motor Transport Service is created as part of Quartermaster Corps. This service is directed to establish and maintain depots, parks, repair and salvage shops throughout the L of C to provide the vehicles, personnel, units, spare parts and supplies necessary for the demands of the armies. Ass't Provost Marshal General offices established in Advance, Intermediate, and Base Sections.

Dec 12, GHQ divides the mechanism of supply of American troops in France into three phases: procurement of supplies, care and storage of same, and their transportation. It defines the responsibility for each phase. Chiefs of Supply Departments are responsible for procurement. The Commanding General, L of C, is responsible, through his several agencies, for care and storage and for the proper distribution among the depots. The Director General of Transportation is charged with the unloading and transportation. The regulating officer is stated to be a member of the coordination section of the general staff and as such his responsibilities are defined. Under GHQ definition, supplies are grouped in four categories and the procedure for obtaining and distributing each category is announced. [Note: These regulations were revoked by GHQ Mar 23, 1918 when new definitions of authority were made in GO 44, GHQ, AEF.]

Dec 14, the territorial limits of the various sections of the L of C are changed. The Advance Section comprises the Departments of Nord, Pas-de-Calais, Somme, Oise, Aisne, Ardennes, Marne, Aube, Meurthe-et-Moselle, Meuse, Haute-Marne, Côte d'Or, Vosges, Haute-Saône, Doubs, with hq at Neufchâteau. Base Section No 1 comprises the Departments of Morbihan, Côtes-du-Nord, Ille-et-Vilaine, Loire-Inférieure, Maine-et-Loire, Vendée, Deux Sèvres, Vienne, hq remaining at St-Nazaire. Base Section No 2 comprises the Departments of Charente-Inférieure, Gironde, Landes, Lot-et-Garonne, Dordogne, Charente, with hq at Bordeaux. Base Section No 3 comprises Great Britain, hq remaining at London. Base Section No 4 comprises the Department of Seine-Inférieure, with hq at Le Havre. Base Section No 5 remains the Department of Finistère, with hq at Brest. The Intermediate Section consists of all Departments in France, less those contained in the Advance Section and Base Sections 1, 2, 4, and 5. Its hq is definitely fixed at Nevers. Dec 18, GHQ transfers the Army Transport Service from the Quartermaster Corps to the Transportation Department.

HEADQUARTERS SOS

Tours, Indre-et-Loire
January 13, 1918

Jan 13, Hq L of C moves from Paris to Tours. French establish military mission at hq.

Jan 22, GHQ asks for recommendations from Commanding General, L of C, and heads of the various services, contemplating reorganization of AEF staff. Feb 8, a board is appointed at GHQ to study this matter, visiting thereafter principal stations of the L of C. Feb 16, recommendations of this board lead to the issue of GO 31, Hq AEF, changing staff organization of AEF. L of C becomes Service of the Rear (SOR). The Commanding General, SOR, is left directly under GHQ, but placed over all of the various Services and Departments, with the exception of the Adjutant General, Inspector General, and the Judge Advocate. All Services and Departments, excepting the three named, are to be moved to Tours, the new hq of the SOR. In addition, GO 31 groups the Transportation Department, Motor Transport Service, the Construction and Forestry Service, and the Division of Light Railways and Roads in a Service of Utilities. The General Staff, SOR is to consist of a Chief of Staff, Deputy Chief of Staff, a Secretary General Staff, and an Assistant Chief of Staff at the head of each of the following sections: G-1, G-2, G-3, and G-4. Their duties are similar to those of the corresponding sections of the General Staff, GHQ. During the last of Feb and throughout Mar, the various services placed under the Commanding General, SOR, by GO 31 move their hq to Tours.

Feb 16, within the QM offices, L of C, there is established a Graves Registration Service, to maintain accurate and complete records of location and identification of graves of all soldiers of the AEF who die while serving overseas.

Mar 3, offices of War Risk Insurance move from Paris to Tours. Mar 4, the General Purchasing Agent is charged with procurement of civilian manual labor in Europe for the use of the AEF, causing organization of a Labor Bureau which directs the feeding, housing, and care of such labor; operating depots at St-Denis (Seine), Nantes (Loire-Inférieure), Lyon (Rhône), Marseille (Bouches-du-Rhône), and Toulouse (Haute-Garonne) to receive and organize laborers. Mar 12, board of officers, having visited ports, SOR sections, depots, and regulating stations, make final recommendations regarding organization of GHQ, and corrected GO 31 is published embodying these recommendations. (See Chart, page 6.) Mar 13, SOR redesignated Services of Supply (SOS). An Effects Depot is established to handle personal effects and final statements for all deceased soldiers in the AEF; opens at St-Nazaire Apr 9. Mar 20, Paris and the Arrondissement of Tours are exempted from the jurisdiction of the Commanding Officer, Intermediate Section. Mar 23, GHQ defines the duties and authority of the Commanding General, SOS, revoking previous orders (see Dec 12, 1917) relating to this matter. The relationship of this commander to G-4, GHQ, the responsibilities and duties of the various Chiefs of Services, SOS, regulations regarding administration of supply and evacuation in the Advance Section, and the general regulations surrounding classification and methods of supply are outlined in this order. Mar 23, the General Purchasing Agent is charged with responsibility for keeping a consolidated record of the accounts of the United States in Europe and authorized to organize in his office an accountant service to be known as Bureau of Accounts. Mar 26, depot divisions and specified base depots are placed under SOS in a GHQ troops replacement organization. Mar 30, GHQ authorizes organization of a Renting, Requisition, and Claims Service (RR and C) to function under the CG, SOS, who is charged with renting and requisitioning of land and facilities in France, billeting, and with settlement of certain claims.

Apr 7, General Court Martial jurisdiction is given Commanding Officers, SOS, Intermediate and Advance Sections, and Base Section, Nos 1, 2, and 3. Apr 8, a Technical Board, functioning under General Purchasing Agent, is created to effect economies in the use of fuel and of power derived therefrom. Apr 16, construction begins on the Liffol-le-Grand (Vosges) regulating station. Apr 22, the Renting, Requisition, and Claims Service is established at SOS hq with branch offices at the hq of each SOS section (in France); other offices to be established later. Apr 24, work is begun on the Motor Transport Corps reconstruction park and main supply depot, Verneuil (Nièvre). Apr 25, remount depot is established at Montiers-sur-Saulx (Meuse) with capacity of 1400 animals. Apr 26, British military missions established at Hq SOS.

May 6, geographical boundaries of District of Paris defined as comprising Departments of the Seine and Seine-et-Oise. May 7, Graves Registration Officer assigned to Advance Section, initiating organization of this service there. May 9, a central post office for AEF is ordered established at Hq SOS. Bureau of Fire Prevention established as part of Service of Utilities; responsibilities and duties defined. May 11, GHQ directs that SOS organize Motor Transport Corps as a separate service, defines its jurisdiction, and responsibilities, and publishes regulations for its operation. With minor exceptions all motor vehicles and accessories bought by other staff corps and services are to be turned over to the Motor Transport Corps. May 25, administration of law granting indemnity for damages done by AEF to foreign property delegated by GHQ to SOS; regulations defining procedure are published. American debarkation camp opens at Cherbourg (Manche). June 28, new subdivisions of the SOS are announced, creating Base Section No 6 at Marseille (Bouches-du-Rhône) and Base Section No 7 at La Pallice (Charente-Inférieure); a subdivision named "Arrondissement of Tours" comprises that arrondissement with hq at Tours (Indre-et-Loire).

July 11, Service of Utilities abolished; the Department of Light Railways and Roads and the Department of Construction and Forestry are placed under the Chief Engineer, AEF; the Motor Transport Corps and the Transportation Service are established as separate services under the SOS. July 12, reorganization of SOS, see chart page 35; Fourth Section, General Staff (G-4) takes over duties of Third Section, General Staff (G-3) discontinued; Division of Military Engineering and Engineer Supplies formed under Chief Engineer, SOS; office of Financial Requisition Officer created in office of General Purchasing Agent. July 18, general court martial jurisdiction given Commanding Officer Base Section No 5. Depot Div, I Corps, becomes First Depot Div, with hq at St-Aignan-des-Noyers (Cher); the 83d Div becomes Second Depot Div with hq at Le Mans (Sarthe). July 19, hospital center at Mars-sur-Allier (Nièvre) operating. July 26, Remount Service reorganized; Veterinary Service attached to it; duties and responsibilities defined. Maj Gen James G. Harbord relieves Maj Gen Francis J. Kernan as Commanding General, SOS.

Aug 5, SOS charged with United States Army recruiting in Great Britain. Aug 6, GHQ announces basic principles governing future operation of SOS, amending existing policy of charging GHQ General Staff with matters of supply. New policy charges Commanding General SOS with matters pertaining to supply, under approved policies, thereby creating direct relationship between SOS and War Department. Commanding General SOS is specifically charged with (1) all questions pertaining to automatic supply, (2) requisitions from supply depots, (3) discharge and transportation of supplies by rail and water and construction of facilities therefor, (4) requisition and charter of vessels, (5) procurement of labor, (6) development of port and storage facilities and rail transportation, (7) allotment of tonnage, (8) new types of equipment for SOS troops. Under this policy he is allowed to communicate directly with the War Department in matters pertaining to supply, is authorized to requisition SOS personnel direct to War Department, and to publish his own general orders concerning SOS matters. Aug 7, reclassification and reassignment of officers at the Blois depot becomes a function of Commanding General SOS.

Aug 22, the Army Service Corps is established as a service in the SOS to furnish personnel for new and special services, and to provide organizations to guide and care for activities of individuals and small groups scattered throughout France, in many instances isolated from other organizations. Hq Bn SOS, Hq Det RR and C Service, RR and C Companies, cement mills companies, Hq Detachment Central Prisoners of War Enclosure, prisoners of war escort companies, administrative labor companies, the Labor Bureau, and the War Risk Section are transferred to it; other organizations of similar character assigned subsequently, such as stevedore regiments, graves registration units, fire trucks and hose companies, etc, totalling by 1919 more than 400 such organizations. In matters of administration and discipline the organizations of the Army Service Corps operate under commanders of the various sections in which they are stationed, the chief of the technical service to whom they are furnished directing their work.

Aug 24, Veterinary Service transferred to office of Chief Surgeon, AEF. Aug 28, duties and responsibilities of Transportation Service, together with definition of its relation to Section Commanders SOS, are announced in orders by Hq SOS.

Sept 2, a Bureau of Purchase Program and Classification is established. St-Dizier (Haute-Marne) Regulating Station operates, supplying First Army. Sept 7, certain engineer regiments and stevedore battalions are transferred to Transportation Corps in a reorganization of this service. Sept 10, a Bureau of Reciprocal Supplies established under General Purchasing Agent to centralize arrangements for importation of raw materials from United States. Sept 13, GHQ establishes Postal Express Service. Sept 23, general court martial jurisdiction given Commanding General, District of Paris. Oct 4, a Salvage Service operating under Chief Quartermaster maintains salvage depots, shops for recovery of fats and for kitchen economic activities; also laundries and disinfectors. Furthermore it organizes units for policing the battlefields.

Oct 15, Hq Provost Marshal General reorganized and ordered from Tours to Chaumont-en-Bassigny. Under SOS the Provost Marshal General is to supervise provost marshals and assistants located in cities and posts, and to administer leave areas and prisoner of war establishments. Oct 18, SOS directed to organize engineer forestry troops into one regiment (20th Engrs) to consist of a regimental hq, 29 bn hqs, and 145 engineer companies. The 10th, 41st, 42d, and 43d Engrs are transferred to the 20th Engrs and new designations are announced for the companies. Oct 23, Advance Section hq moves to Neufchâteau.

Nov 4, Base Section No 8 established, to comprise Italy, with hq at Padua. Nov 8, general court martial jurisdiction given Commanding General, Base Section No 8. Nov 9, GHQ directs the organization and assignment of military police companies and battalions to various sections of SOS.

Nov 11, armistice signed. Instructions issue to chiefs of services SOS to discontinue unnecessary construction and purchases and also to make recommendations to Commanding General SOS regarding projects which are no longer essential. SOS is charged with repatriation of American troops and supervises their movements and preparations for embarkation when released by GHQ for return to United States. Nov 12, Transportation Corps reorganized by Director General of Transportation; railway line of communications divided into grand divisions, each under a general superintendent who commands the railway troops assigned to his division. Railway shops at Nevers, La Rochelle, and St-Nazaire are organized as a grand division; transportation troops with Inland Waterway Service organized as unit under Chief of Inland Water Transport Service. Nov 14, first of a series of SOS orders issue; others follow Dec 3, 18, Jan 3, Feb 6 cancelling contracts and construction projects involving money saving of more than a billion dollars. Nov 15, SOS charged with return of sick and wounded to United States. Nov 16, SOS charged with inspection throughout districts and bases to assure issue of proper clothing and equipment to returning American soldiers. All combat troops, except thirty divisions and minimum of army and corps troops, are released for return to United States. Nov 17, supply functions of Advance Section SOS extended to include the zone of advance of the Third Army; jurisdiction of territory vacated by the American armies, including salvage and road work in the former battle areas, is taken over by the Advance Section, SOS. Nov 17, Finance Bureau organized at SOS hq under finance officer to standardize accounts and costs throughout all departments. Plans for repatriation of American soldiers outlined by Commanding General SOS for C-in-C. Nov 19, SOS, charged with repatriation of AEF, issues instructions for return of American troops to the United States. Transportation Department is charged with carrying out AEF agreements with Allies regarding operation, exploitation, and repair of railroads assigned to the AEF. Certain railway construction is transferred from the engineers to the Transportation Corps. 14th, 21st, and 22d Light Railway Regts, together with the 11th, 15th, and 16th Railroad Construction Regts, are assigned for duty with the Transportation Corps. Nov 27, an Advisory Liquidation Board is created to recommend policies connected with the disposition of war material, supplies, and equipment of the AEF. SOS given jurisdiction over AEF leave areas. Provost Marshal General is now a member of the staff of the C-in-C, moving to Chaumont Dec 1.

Dec 5, Baggage Service, with central offices at Gievres, organized; all personal baggage in AEF depots on June 10, 1919 to be returned to United States.

Dec 7, Technical Board transferred from control of General Purchasing Agent to Chief Engineer, AEF. Dec 14, a "Leave Area Bureau" functioning under SOS is established which administers some twenty leave areas maintained in France for members of the AEF. Dec 16, SOS directed to establish discharge camp within the First Depot Div so that officers and soldiers may be discharged in Europe. Dec 17, a General Sales Board under a General Sales Agent is created to supervise sales of surplus property in the AEF. Dec 18, certain engineer regiments are transferred to the Transportation Corps for reorganization. Dec 21, Division of Light Railways and Roads (created July 12, 1918) is replaced by the Division of Light Railways, under office of Chief Engineer, AEF. This new Division continues the maintenance and operation of light railways; the Chief Engineer exercises supervision over all road activities, using the Division of Construction and Forestry as the agency for such work in the Advance Section, SOS. Dec 26, First Depot Division is redesignated the 41st Div; organization of the First Replacement Depot in the St-Aignan-des-Noyers area is begun.

Jan 3, establishment of the American Embarkation Center at Le Mans (Sarthe) is announced. Jan 11, Second Aviation Instruction Center, Tours, closes. Jan 16, general court martial jurisdiction given commanding officers at Le Mans Embarkation Center and First Replacement Depot, St-Aignan-des-Noyers. Jan 22, representatives of GHQ and SOS investigate possibility of supplying American Third Army by way of the Rhine, using Rotterdam, Holland, as a base. Jan 27, Division of Military Engineering and Engineer Supplies (see July 12) abolished, an Engineer Purchasing Officer taking over its duties. Marseille is designated port for embarkation of American troops. Construction is started on Camp Covington (Marseille) to provide it with facilities for handling 2500 soldiers at one time.

Feb 4, Embarkation Service established as Section of G-1, Hq SOS. Feb 6, Rotterdam, Holland, is made an American supply depot in order to forward supplies to the American Army of Occupation in Germany. Feb 17, ports of La Rochelle, Rochefort, Marans, and Tonnay-Charente ordered closed.

Mar 15, the "Division of Light Railways" (created Dec 21, 1918) abolished, an engineer purchasing officer taking over its duties.

Apr 1, a "United States Liquidation Commission", War Department, created Feb 17, 1919, is designated by SOS as the central agency to supervise and direct disposition of (1) all war claims arising out of AEF activities in favor of foreign countries or their nationals, and (2) all surplus property belonging to United States in the AEF acquired in connection with the war. The procedure for handling these matters is outlined by Hq SOS. The Advisory Liquidation Board (created Nov 27, 1918) is dissolved. Apr 8, Base Section No 9 (to include that part of Holland where there are SOS activities, and Belgium excluding the Province of Luxemburg) is created with hq at Antwerp, Belgium, and with sub-base at Rotterdam, Holland. Apr 20, Base Section No 4 is discontinued, its troops and establishments passing to control of the Intermediate Section, SOS. Apr 25, Base Section No 7 is discontinued, its troops and establishments passing to control of Base Section No 2.

May 2, renting, requisition, and claims areas are established in (1) Le Mans Area, consisting of Departments of Mayenne, Orne, Sarthe, and Eure-et-Loire, (2) Tours Area comprising Departments of Loiret, Loir-et-Cher, Indre-et-Loire, Indre, and Vienne, (3) Le Havre Area comprising Departments of Seine-Inférieure, Eure, and Calvados, (4) Boulogne Area comprising Departments of Nord, Pas-de-Calais, and Somme, (5) La Rochelle Area comprising Department of Charente-Inférieure. RR and C Area officers designated by Commanding General SOS, reporting directly to Director of RR and C Service. May 20, Base Section No 8 is discontinued, its troops and establishments passing to Hq SOS. May 26, Brig Gen William D. Connor succeeds Maj Gen James G. Harbord as Commanding General SOS. May 30, SOS charged with general recruiting in AEF.

June 15, Base Section No 3 discontinued, its troops and establishments passing to Hq SOS; Base Section No 6 discontinued, its troops and establishments passing to Intermediate Section; Leave Area Bureau discontinued. June 30, activities of General Purchasing Agent and General Purchasing Board discontinued.

July 2, the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg is constituted a renting, requisition, and claims area. July 9, First Replacement Depot abolished, its troops and facilities passing to Intermediate Section SOS. July 16, American Embarkation Center (Le Mans) discontinued, this area passing to command of Intermediate Section.

Aug 7, United States and France having concluded agreement whereby latter purchases all American installations and surplus movable property of AEF, with specified reservations, SOS publishes procedure of turning over such property.

Sept 1, GHQ transfers all remaining AEF personnel and organizations in countries other than Germany to the American Forces in France, thereby abolishing the SOS.

will be the new hq of the Advance Section. Nov 1, Hq Advance Section moves to Neufchâteau (Vosges). Dec 14, area of the Advance Section is designated as comprising the Departments of Nord, Pas-de-Calais, Somme, Oise, Aisne, Ardennes, Marne, Aube, Meurthe-et-Moselle, Meuse, Haute-Marne, Côte d'Or, Vosges, Haute-Saône, and Doubs, with Section Office at Neufchâteau. Jan 20, 1918, Hq Advance Section moves to Langres (Haute-Marne). Feb 16, Advance Section becomes part of the "Service of the Rear," the new designation of the reorganized Line of Communications; this designation on Mar 13 is changed to "Services of Supply." June 15, Hq Advance Section moves to Nogent-en-Basigny (Haute-Marne). June 28, area of Advance Section is designated as comprising the Departments of Yonne, Seine-et-Marne, Haute-Marne, Côte d'Or, Haute-Saône, Doubs, Vosges, Meurthe-et-Moselle, Meuse, Ardennes, Aisne, Oise, Marne, Aube, and Territory of Belfort, Hq Nogent-en-Bassigny. Oct 23, Hq Advance Section moves to Neufchâteau.

The Advance Section delivers supplies received from the Intermediate and Base Sections forward, extending the service of territorial command of the Commanding General SOS to a point where delivery is made to field transportation of combat forces; here the Regulating Officer, a direct representative of GHQ, assumes responsibility, the Advance Section's authority ceasing. Located in the Advance Section are the regulating stations of Is-sur-Tille, St-Dizier, and Liffol-le-

Grand; advance depots with between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 sq ft of covered storage space; base and camp hospitals having a normal bed capacity of about 50,000 and an emergency capacity of more than 66,000; gas and oil storage for over 600,000 gals; bakeries having daily output of about 1,000,000 lbs; laundries at Nancy, Chaumont, Mandres, Vittel, Bazoilles, Baccarat, Langres, and Rimaucourt total output in Nov 1918 reaching more than 1,000,000 pieces laundered and more than 33,039 pieces repaired per month; salvage depots; overhaul parks at Dijon, and Langres which during 1918 repair more than 30,000 motor vehicles, issuing them at the rate of 100 to 150 a day; the First Air Depot at Colombey-les-Belles supplying all Air Service units operating on the American front; remount depots, which by Nov 1918 supplied more than 70,000 animals; forestry operations in the districts of Dijon, Besançon, Epinal, and Eclaron, furnishing products for the immense construction projects of the AEF. Construction throughout the Section includes airdromes, barracks, hospitals, water supply, storage tanks, railroad tracks, and many other facilities of similar type.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

After Nov 11, 1918, the work of the Advance Section is materially increased by the maintenance of additional territory and the repatriation of troops, necessitating an increase of operating personnel from some 125,000 to about 230,000 in Jan 1919. After January the activities gradually decrease. Feb 28, the Hq Staff is reorganized to facilitate the additional administration caused by extension of the American army operations. Oct 8, 1919, troops and establishments remaining within the Advance Section pass to direct control of Hq American Forces in France.

OPERATIONS

The Intermediate Section, largest of SOS sections, situated between the Advance and Base Sections, is organized in the manner of a clearing house, to accommodate traffic to and from base ports and the front. In it are storage depots with between 7,000,000 and 10,000,000 sq ft of covered shelter, under which are housed all types of supplies; this work is chiefly centralized at the great storage depot at Gièvres (Loir-et-Cher) and the partially constructed depot at Montierchaume (Indre). In the Section, also, are large hospital centers, bed capacity of more than 60,000, the largest hospitals being at Mars-sur-Allier, Mesves-sur-Loire, Allerey and Vichy; base hospitals at Châteauroux, Poitiers (Vienne), Orléans, Blois, Montoir, and Pruniers (Indre).

RECORD OF EVENTS

Twenty-eight camp hospitals also in Section. Total bed capacity of hospitals in Section: 120,000.

The First Replacement Depot located at St-Aignan (Loir-et-Cher) and at Blois is a depot for classification, and distribution of casual officers arriving from United States, and from organizations in the AEF. In the Intermediate Section are the training activities of the Air Service, the Third Aviation Instruction Center for training American pilots being located at Issoudun (Indre), the Seventh Aviation Instruction Center at Clermont-Ferrand (Puy-de-Dôme), with an air service production center, a supply depot, and an acceptance park, all located at Romorantin (Loir-et-Cher), the largest American aviation project in France. At Nevers, an important railroad center is maintained, a center for several hospital trains, Intermediate QM Depot No 1, and a locomotive repair shop for the AEF. Within the Section are facilities caring for more than 2,000,000 gals of gas and oil, bakeries producing 500,000 lbs a day, remount depots handling during 1918 more than 15,000 animals; a motor reconstruction park at Verneuil (Nièvre) which salvaged more than 10,000 vehicles; intermediate ordnance depot and ordnance repair shops at Mehun-sur-Yèvre (Cher); depots through which passed a total of more than 260,000 replacements and casualties during 1918; salvage depot at Lyon (Rhône); the American Embarkation Center at Le Mans, with 230,000 troop capacity, functioning for the embarkation ports of St-Nazaire, Brest, and others; a Central Records Office for AEF at Bourges (Cher). Construction included barracks, hospitals, warehouses, railroad track, roads and bridges, telephone and telegraph lines, shops for repair of automobiles, aircraft, and railroad equipment, water supply systems, power plants, and highways.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

After Nov 11, 1918, the load on the Intermediate Section is increased by operations incident to the repatriation of troops. On Dec 15, the replacement depot at Le Mans begins to function as an Embarkation Center. Sept 1, 1919 Intermediate Section operates under American Forces in France. Sept 25, 1919, the Intermediate Section is discontinued, remaining troops and establishments passing to control of Hq American Forces in France.

ORGANIZATION

June 21, 1917, the C-in-C AEF designates St-Nazaire as Base Port No 1, retaining in himself central authority over the base. June 22, base offices open in the Grande Hotel; three days later they are moved to corner of Rue de l'Hotel de Ville and Boulevard de l'Ocean. June 26, first American convoy arrives at St-Nazaire; Camp No 1 opens a short distance west of the town. June 30, Camp de Meucou is taken over from the French. Aug 10, the first American post office in France opens at St-Nazaire.

Aug 13, 1917, Base Section No 1 is organized, headquarters at St-Nazaire, as part of the Line of Communications, AEF. It comprises authorized facilities of the Loire river and the Port of Brest, and also authorized establishments of the Supply, Sanitary, and Telegraph Services in the zone bounded by Les Sables d'Olonne (Vendée), Poitiers (Vienne), Tours (Indre-et-Loire), Neuillé (Maine-et-Loire), Muzillac (Morbihan). Aug 21, Savenay hospital center opens. Sept 17, the area for the activities of the section is extended to include St-Malo and St-Servan (Ille-et-Vilaine). Oct 19, port of Nantes opens. Nov 27, Base Section 5 organized from part of Base Section No 1. Dec 14, the section now comprises the Departments of Morbihan, Côtes-du-Nord, Ille-et-Vilaine, Loire-Inférieure, Maine-et-Loire, Vendée, Deux-Sèvres, and Vienne. Jan 21, 1918, hq moves to new location in St-Nazaire. Feb 16, 1918, the base section becomes part of the Service of the Rear, when that designation is applied to the reorganized Line of Communications. March 13, the base section becomes part of the Services of Supply when Service of the Rear is so redesignated. Mar 15, an effects depot is established at St-Nazaire. Apr 25, Camp Montoir operating as camp. May 1, Nantes made separate port. June 28, the base section is reduced to the area covering the departments of Morbihan, Loire-Inférieure, Maine-et-Loire, Deux-Sèvres, and Vendée.

OPERATIONS

This Section develops around St-Nazaire and Nantes (Loire-Inférieure). Troops and cargoes come through these ports en route to the Intermediate and Advance Sections, supplies reaching peak of 350,000 tons a month in Oct 1918. Some 200,000 soldiers reach France through this Section. Its great storage depot is located at

RECORD OF EVENTS

Montoir-de-Bretagne, near St-Nazaire. Outstanding activities within the Section include: at Angers (Maine-et-Loire), the engineer officers' principal training base, a replacement depot for transportation of troops, and a base hospital; at Meucon and Coëtquidan (Morbihan), training camps for heavy artillery and schools for aërial observation; at Saumur, important railway activities and an instruction center for field artillery officers; at Savenay (Loire-Inférieure), one of the large hospital centers of the AEF; wharf construction 5000 feet in length able to handle 12,000 tons of cargo a day; railroad operation and guard maintenance involving trackage of 149 miles; storage supply under-cover space of 3,500,000 sq ft; a locomotive erection plant at St-Nazaire that delivers nearly 1000 engines; motor repair shops at St-Nazaire that deliver approximately 20,000 vehicles; a remount depot, through which more than 42,500 animals pass before 1919; evacuation through Section facilities of 60,000 sick and wounded; hospitals in the area capable of accommodating 35,000 cases; a salvage depot at Nantes; an assembly plant for 14" guns; cold storage facilities for nearly 30,000,000 pounds of supplies per month; bakeries capable of producing 80,000 rations a day.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

Nov 11, facilities for receiving troops and supplies from United States ordered reduced to a minimum, the principal mission of the Section now being to return American soldiers and property to the United States. Nov 27, the first American units embark for return to the United States, initiating a continued movement of troops through the Section back to the United States, more than 500,000 soldiers returning before the Section is discontinued. More than 100,000 tons of cargo is also handled for return to the United States. Theatrical organizations engaged in entertaining AEF during post-armistice days use the Section for their hq. July 19, 1919, Hq Base Section No 1 (St-Nazaire) is discontinued and its area, troops, and installations pass to the jurisdiction of the Commanding Officer of Base Section No 1 (Camp Montoir). Upon abolition of Hq, SOS, Sept 1, 1919, the Section functions under Hq American Forces in France. Oct 20, 1919, the Section is discontinued.

ORGANIZATION

July 28, 1917, the Massachusetts General Hospital Unit establishes a base hospital in Talence. In Aug, detachments of 15th and 18th Regiments of Engineers locate in Bordeaux at Camps Grange-Neuve and Gécicart, and are followed into Bordeaux by detachments of 5th and 6th United States Marines. Aug 13, GHQ publishes temporary organization of Base Section No 2 as part of the Line of Communications to comprise authorized facilities in the port of the River Gironde and La Pallice together with all authorized establishments of the Supply, Sanitary and Telegraph Service in the zone bounded by Les Sables d'Olonne (Vendée) (excl), Poitiers (Vienne) (excl), Guéret (Creuse) (incl); Arcachon (Gironde). Sept 8, temporary hq of Base Section 2 opens. Dec 14, the area for the activities of the Base Section is announced as including the Departments of Charente-Inférieure, Gironde, Landes, Lot-et-Garonne, Dordogne, and Charente. Section Headquarters: Bordeaux (Gironde). Feb 16, 1918, Base Section becomes part of the "Service of the Rear," the new designation of the reorganized Line of Communications; this designation on Mar 13 is changed to "Services of Supply." June 28, Base Section is extended to the area covering the Departments of Gironde, Charente, Haute-Vienne, Creuse, Corrèze, Lot, Tarn-et-Garonne, Haute Garonne, Ariège, Hautes-Pyrénées, Basses-Pyrénées, Landes, Dordogne, Lot-et-Garonne, and Gers.

OPERATIONS

Freight handling, forestry operations, hospitalization, and artillery training, are the Section's principal activities. It is the terminus of one of the AEF's main lines of communication. It has dock facilities at Bassens for twenty ships; can handle 14,000 tons of cargo a day; has covered dock storage space of more than 1,000,000 sq ft. Around the docks are grouped the warehouses of the Section; its principal storage depot is at St-Sulpice, with more than 2,000,000 sq ft of covered storage. About three times as much open storage space, and some 90 miles of trackage, are within the Section's limits. At St-Loubes (Gironde), provided with a 600 ft wharf extending into Dordogne river, is one of the AEF's principal ammunition storage depots, at which transatlantic ships unload. At Camps Gécicart and Grange Neuve (Bordeaux, Gironde) are rest and embarkation facilities that provide shelter for about 20,000 troops and at Bassens are stevedore camps to accommodate 13,000 laborers. Artillery training camps are at Souge and Le Corneau (Gironde); remount stations at Carbon-Blanc and Merignac (Gironde) through which pass more than 50,000 animals by 1919. Other installations within the Section are: a refrigerating plant with a capacity of more than 5000 tons; a coffee roasting plant with a daily output of about 10 tons; thirteen base and nine camp hospitals with bed capacity of nearly 40,000; reception parks at St-Sulpice and Lormont (Gironde) that operate more than 14,000 vehicles; thirteen saw mills operating in the forests around Mimizan, Pontenx-les-Forges, Castets-des-Landes, and Dax (Landes); bakeries; a salvage plant; extensive railroad trackage connecting docks, depots, and departure yards. The Section handles more than 50,000 troops during its operation, 25% of all cargo coming into France for the AEF (1,749,700 tons) passing through its ports by Jan 1, 1919. In 1918, 381 ships dock at Bordeaux.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

Nov 11, principal mission of the Section now is to return American troops and property to the United States. Nov 27, 1918–Oct 6, 1919 approximately 300,000 troops pass through the Section en route to the United States; also some 75,000 tons of cargo. Apr 25, 1919, control of troops and installations of Base Section No 7 pass to Base Section No 2 when Base Section No 7 is discontinued. July 4, 1919 Hq of Base Section No 2 is transferred to St-Sulpice (Gironde). Sept 1, 1919, when Hq SOS is abolished Base Section No 2 operates under American Forces in France. Sept 30, 1919, the Section is discontinued, its area, troops and establishments passing to direct control of American Forces in France.

ORGANIZATION

Aug 13, 1917, GHQ includes subagencies in England in Base Section No 3 created at Le Havre to handle American troops arriving in France through ports on the English Channel. Sept 24, the C-in-C directs that Brig Gen William Lassiter, about to be relieved as military attaché in London, remain in England, temporarily, as base section commander, to organize American troop-handling agencies. Sept 29, Commanding General, L of C, directs Brig Gen Lassiter to proceed with this organization both in England and at Le Havre. Oct 5, Maj Gen George T. Bartlett receives orders from Hq AEF to proceed to London and assume command of the American Forces in England. Oct 6, Brig Gen Lassiter informs L of C that he assumed command of Base Section No 3 on Oct 2, transmitting also description of American military activities in England together with a plan of organization for their proper administration. Oct 8, L of C adopts the viewpoint that Maj Gen Bartlett's designation as commander of all troops in England, or en route thereto or in transit therefrom, nullifies GO 20 of Hq AEF of Aug 13 creating base section together with instructions set forth in the Sept 24 letter of the C-in-C; accordingly L of C recommends that base section activities at Le Havre be separated from similar agencies in England. Oct 9, Maj Gen Bartlett assumes command of American Troops in England; hq London. Nov 27, agencies engaged in service of L of C receiving and forwarding troops and supplies to France, from England, are designated by GHQ as comprising Base Section No 3: hq London, coincident with announcement that similar agencies at Le Havre will be redesignated Base Section No 4. Dec 6, Base Section No 3 limits are expanded to include all of Great Britain. Feb 14, 1919, Section becomes part of "Service of the Rear" (new L of C designation) and Mar 13 of "Services of Supply."

The principal functions of the Section are the care of American troops training in England (principally Air Service and Tank Corps) and of troops passing through England en route to France; hospitalization; and the purchase of supplies. It has rest and embarkation camps capable of housing about 45,000 troops; hospitals with a bed capacity of over 11,000; supply depots at London, Winchester, and Liverpool; about 80 training stations; salvage plants; and a plant at Oldham for the assembly of aircraft. Over 1,000,000 troops reach France through this Base Section. Most American troops land in England at Liverpool, are transported by rail to British channel ports (Southampton and Dover) and cross the English Channel to Le Havre, Cherbourg, and Calais. Clothing, ammunition, artillery, aircraft, engineer material, and hospital supplies, totalling more than 2,000,000 tons, are shipped to France through Base Section No. 3. Construction in the Section includes twelve hospitals, depots, and camps. In Aug 1918, the "Murmansk Expedition" to North Russia is equipped and dispatched by this section. Military stores in great quantities and variety are obtained by purchase direct or from British depots for use of AEF. Coal is shipped to French ports for use by American transports returning to United States, also for use of American army in field, of greater quantity and importance than all other items.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

After Nov 11, 1918, the mission of the Section becomes the repatriation of troops and the return of certain stores to the United States. Embarkation of troops begins on Nov 22, 1918. Over 75,000 tons of cargo are returned to the United States, and nearly 40,000 troops are embarked. June 15, 1919, the Section is discontinued, remaining troops and establishments passing to direct control of Hq SOS.

ORGANIZATION

Aug 2, base hq opens at Le Havre. Aug 13, Base Section No 3 created by GHQ, hq Le Havre, to consist of agencies receiving and dispatching American troops and supplies, arriving in France at ports on the English channel, together with such subagencies in England of the same character that may be necessary. Section also includes movement and supply of such troops on railways until arrival in other sections of the Supply, Sanitary and Telegraph Service. Oct 6, sub-base opens at Rouen (Seine-Inférieure). Nov 27, agencies in England are separated from this base by creation of separate bases for each country; that in England retains designation of Base Section No 3, and the agencies receiving and dispatching American troops arriving in France at English Channel ports is re-designated Base Section No 4. Dec 14, limits of Base Section No 4 defined by GHQ as comprising the Department of Seine-Inférieure.

Feb 1, 1918, first American transport arrives at Le Havre. Feb 16, the Section becomes part of "Service of the Rear" (new L of C designation) and Mar 13 of "Services of Supply." June 28, Base Section No 4 limits expanded to include Departments of Somme, Nord, Pas-de-Calais, Seine-Inférieure, Eure and Calvados. Aug 8, jurisdiction of American troops with British Expeditionary Forces (army and corps troops excepted) given to Commanding General Base Section No 4. Aug 14, sub-base, port of Calais, officially opens as part of Section.

The mission of the Section is the receipt and dispatch of troops and supplies arriving at the Channel ports of France. With a strength of about 5,000 troops operating the Base Port of Le Havre (Seine-Inférieure) and sub-bases at Rouen (Seine-Inférieure), Calais (Pas-de-Calais), and Boulogne (Pas-de-Calais), the Section receives approximately one third of the strength of the AEF arriving direct from the United States or via England, the Section arranging for land travel and supply en route to other sections of the SOS. 700,000 tons of cargo are unloaded and forwarded by rail and barge at the ports of the Section by Nov 11, 1918. 185 ships dock at Le Havre in 1918, and at Rouen, 95 ships. American divisions serving with the British are supplied direct. Establishments in the Base Section include hospitals having a bed capacity of over 8,000; rest camps housing nearly 25,000 troops; a motor reception park at Le Havre issuing about 9,000 vehicles; a coffee plant at Le Havre having a daily capacity of 40 tons; and a salvage plant. Construction includes barracks, mess halls, warehouses, and utility buildings. Barge service is maintained up the Seine river from Le Havre to Paris.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

After Nov 11, 1918, there is a decrease in the tonnage received, and in the number of troops arriving from England. Dec 31, sub-base, Calais, discontinued. On Feb 5, 1919, the repatriation of troops through this port begins. Over 10,000 troops return to the United States through the Section. April 16, the Section is discontinued, remaining troops and establishments passing to direct control of the Intermediate Section.

ORGANIZATION

Nov 10, 1917, base offices open at No 30 Rue Voltaire, Brest, and the next day are moved to French barracks in the Depot de Cheveaux on Port du Commerce. Nov 12, the first American convoy (more than 12,000 troops) arrives at Brest, the base section officers supervising its debarkation and entrainment within few days to interior points. Nov 27, GHQ makes formal announcement of the organization of Base Section No 5, as part of the Line of Communications, AEF, and to comprise the authorized facilities in the harbor and port of Brest together with the authorized establishments of Supply, Sanitary, and Telegraph Services in Department of Finistère. Dec 10, hq moves to No 42 Rue Colbert. In Jan 1918 Pontanézen Barracks open. Feb 16, 1918, Base Section becomes part of the "Service of the Rear," the new designation of the reorganized Line of Communications; this designation on Mar 13 is changed to "Services of Supply." June 28, area of the Base Section increased to include the Departments of Finistère, Côtes-du-Nord, Ille-et-Vilaine, and Manche.

OPERATIONS

The activities of the Base Section center at the port of Brest, which has greater facilities for handling troops than for landing supplies. Brest is the most important port of debarkation in France as the only deep water port available to the AEF. Troops and supplies coming from England are received at Cherbourg (Manche). Coal is handled at the port of Granville (Manche). Activities in the Base Section comprise operation of the largest American camp in France, a rest and embarkation camp at Pontanézen, housing about 80,000 troops; hospitals having a bed capacity of about 5,000; water supply for camps in the vicinity of Brest; a leave area; a refrigerator plant having a capacity of 400 tons; port facilities capable of handling over 6,000 tons daily, and over 30,000 troops in 12 hours; railroad facilities capable of forwarding over 125,000 troops and over 25,000 tons in one month; a locomotive terminal and repair shops at Rennes; a bakery with a daily production of 85,000 lbs; a salvage plant; and camps for the housing of the personnel of the Base Section which exceeds 14,000. After the armistice, Brest becomes the principal embarkation port. During the operation of the port of Brest, Nov

RECORD OF EVENTS

1917 to include Dec 1919 more than 700 ships arrive, discharging over 800,000 troops and over 500,000 tons of cargo.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

After Nov 11, 1918, the Section is charged with the repatriation of troops, the homeward movement commencing in December. Over 1,000,000 troops are embarked for the US and about 10,000 tons of cargo are returned. Jan 4, 1920, the Section is closed with the departure of the operating personnel.

OPERATIONS

The activities of the Base Section center around Marseille, a port designated principally for the reception of freight. At the armistice 9,000 troops are in the Section; about 500,000 tons of cargo are handled at Marseille by May 1919. Port facilities at Marseille and Toulon include berths for 12 ships, with approximately 700,000 sq ft of covered storage, that can accommodate 3000 tons daily. Activities in the Base Section comprise a motor reception park at Marseille which handles during 1918 over 15,000 vehicles; a storage depot at Miramas utilizing nearly 250,000 sq ft of covered storage, and 790,000 sq ft of open storage; a labor camp at Marseille; hospitals having bed capacity of about 3,000; a hospital center along the Riviera controlling about 12,000 beds in hotels; and seven leave areas, including Nîmes (Gard), Amélie-les-Bains (Pyrénées-Orientales), Cannes (Alpes-Maritimes), Menton (Alpes-Maritimes), Nice (Alpes-Maritimes), and Monaco. Construction includes camp accommodations for 500 troops at Camp Covington, warehouse, and railroad track.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

After Nov 11, 1918, the Section is charged with the repatriation of troops, the homeward movement commencing Jan 20, 1919. About 80,000 troops embark for the United States by Oct 1919. OPERATIONS

The principal function of the Section is the operation of ports for the reception of general cargo and the storage of coal, gasoline, and oil. With a strength of about 12,000 troops, the Section receives nearly 1,500,000 tons of cargo during 1917-1918 through La Pallice and Rochefort, utilizing 15 berths, and handling more than 300 ships. Other activities in the Section comprise hospitals with a bed capacity of 755; remount depots handling about 15,000 animals; a cement mill with a daily capacity of 94 tons; motor reception parks issuing nearly 9,000 vehicles; a cold storage plant having a capacity of 800 tons; gasoline and oil storage of 5,000,000 gals at La Pallice; dock covered storage space of over 200,000 sq ft; camps housing 18,000 SOS personnel and 2,500 prisoners; car-erecting plants at Camp Pullman, La Rochelle, assembling more than 15,000 between Mar and Dec 1918. Construction includes railroad track, warehouses, barracks, an engine terminal and a car-erecting plant.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

The Base Section continues to receive supplies for the AEF after Nov 11, 1918. Activities are gradually curtailed and construction projects are cancelled. April 25, 1919, the Base Section is discontinued, remaining troops and establishments passing to control of Base Section No 2.

ORGANIZATION

Oct 11, 1918, the Commanding General SOS recommends to GHQ that a new base section be created consisting geographically of Italy and that the then Chief of the American Military Mission to that country (Brig Gen Charles G. Treat, since July 24, 1918) be designated as commander of the new base section. Oct 20, GHQ gives the Commanding General SOS such authorization. Oct 22, Base Section No 8 is created as part of the Services of Supply, AEF, comprising

SECTION HEAD- ITALY, personnel from the American Military Mission
QUARTERS to Italy being used to organize the Section. Nov 3, 365 officers and 5427 enlisted men, and 100 nurses, make up the American force in Italy.

Padua, Italy
Oct 22, 1918

OPERATIONS

The principal function of the Base Section is the administrative control of US troops serving in Italy, which include the 332d Inf, an aviation school at Foggia, hospital and ambulance units, motor transport corps companies, and a detachment of aviators in training and on combat duty with Italian Army. Utilizing the existing facilities, troops are supplied by requisition on the Intermediate Section, SOS Gièvres, France, and by local purchases. SOS personnel numbering about 3,000 operate two motor transport shops; bakeries at Genoa and Vicenza, producing about 4,000 pounds daily; hospitals at Genoa and Vicenza with bed capacity of about 700; and storage depots at Alessandria, Genoa, Mantua, Vicenza, and Treviso. Berths for 24 ships are available. A quartermaster depot operates at Villafranca di Verona, moving later to Alessandria where warehouses are taken over from the Italian Government. The 8th Aviation Instruction Center is maintained at Foggia until Dec 1918; a motor transport office at Mantua until Feb 1919. (See Record of Events, 83d Div, for activities of 332d Inf and other organizations comprising AEF, Italy.)

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

After Nov 11, 1918, certain SOS troops are sent to France and combat troops are embarked at Genoa for the US, the last unit leaving April 7, 1919. (See Record of Events, 83d Div.) About 5,000 troops are repatriated through the Section. May 20, 1919, the Section is discontinued, remaining troops and establishments passing to direct control of Hq Services of Supply.

ORGANIZATION

Apr 8, 1919, the Commanding General SOS establishes, for purposes of administration, a new subdivision of the Services of Supply, AEF, designated Base Section No 9, comprising that portion of Holland where any American SOS activities are functioning; also the Kingdom of Belgium exclusive of the Province of Luxemburg.

SECTION HEAD-QUARTERS

Antwerp, Belgium
Apr 8, 1919

OPERATIONS

The Section receives supplies from the United States, England, and from other base ports in France, and forwards them to the Third Army by rail and water. Establishments utilized by the Section include berths for five ships with facilities capable of unloading cargo at the rate of 1,000 tons per ship per day; nearly 500,000 sq ft of covered storage; gasoline storage for 2,000,000 gallons; a cold storage plant at Rotterdam having a capacity of 6,000 tons, and a daily ice output of 600 tons; coffee-roasting plants with daily output of 5 tons; and a camp hospital at Antwerp with bed capacity of 350. During the first two months of its operation the Base Section handles nearly 150,000 tons of cargo, the greater part being QM supplies. Over 20,000 tons of material are returned to the United States through the ports of Antwerp and Rotterdam. Stevedore services are rendered by civilian labor under contract. Aug 15, 1919, the Section is transferred to the American Forces in Germany.

ORGANIZATION

Aug 28, 1917, the Provost Marshal AEF temporarily assigned as commander of all American troops in Paris. Sept 1, Hq AEF moves from Paris to Chaumont, Haute-Marne; thereafter, until Dec 1917, the Provost Marshal General AEF, at Paris, not only exercises his regular functions, but in addition discharges the more local duties of Provost Marshal of Paris and commands American troops in Paris. He is charged with supervision of military police detailed to Paris for duty and maintains register of all officers below rank of brigadier general, and all enlisted men and US civilians, visiting Paris. Nov 3, an Assistant Provost Marshal is detailed as Commanding Officer of the "United States Troops in Paris." Dec 3, a separate commander is detailed for the "United States Troops in Paris", the Assistant Provost Marshal retaining charge of American military police in Paris. Jurisdiction of the commander extends to troops casually in Paris, to those working with technical and staff departments, and to those working or stationed close to the city. Dec 20, complete termination of the Provost Marshal General's jurisdiction over troops in Paris occurs when his offices remove to Chaumont.

Jan 13, 1918, Hq Line of Communications moves from Paris to Tours causing additional responsibilities regarding American activities in Paris to be included in the duties of the Commanding General "United States Troops in Paris." May 5, jurisdiction of this commander now includes all American troops in Versailles. May 6, District of Paris is created from "United States Troops in Paris" and comprises Departments of Seine and Seine-et-Oise; the new District, although it is located within the boundaries of the Intermediate Section, is exempted from latter's control.

OPERATION

During 1917 maintenance of discipline and general administration of American troops in Paris is the principal function of the Commanding Officer "United States Troops in Paris." With departure of Hq Line of Communications to Tours in Jan 1918, responsibilities increase as do the number of troops and militarized civilians (welfare organizations), over which the Section has jurisdiction (1,000 in Nov 1917 to approximately 25,000 in Nov 1918). Care of casuals, travel-order responsibility, maintenance of order and discipline, occupy much attention on the part of this hq. Hospitals with total bed capacity of more than 15,000, a motor transport overhaul park, medical-supply depot, medical-repair shop, and engineer depot, are some of the more than 150 military detachments and organizations controlled by the District.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES

After Nov 11, 1918 the work of the District of Paris is materially increased by administrative duties caused by the presence of great numbers of casualties, both military and civilian, in the city. Jan 1919, Clignancourt Barracks taken over from French and organized as a post. Sept 1, 1919, the District passes under control of Hq American Forces in France when Hq SOS is abolished. Oct 7, 1919 Hq District of Paris discontinued.

FIRST ARMY

STATEMENT

July 4, 1918 was the date when formation of the First Army as such began. On that day General John J. Pershing selected Lt Col Hugh A. Drum to be Chief of Staff, First Army, and sent him to La Ferté-sous-Jouarre, to organize the headquarters. La Ferté-sous-Jouarre was in the zone of the French Sixth Army, the American I Corps hq was located there, and it was the intention to have the American First Army, when organized, relieve the French Sixth Army of its existing command. Lt Col Drum proceeded rapidly with his work of organization and before the end of July the army was ready to begin tactical direction of operations. On July 24, 1918, General Headquarters, AEF, published General Orders No 12 announcing formally the army organization and the personnel comprising its staff, and stating that it would function beginning Aug 10. On Aug 10 General Pershing visited La Ferté-sous-Jouarre and assumed nominal command of the First Army. Actual tactical command of a sector was deferred until Aug 30, 1918, the day it assumed control of the St-Mihiel theatre.

In a broader sense, the organization of the First Army began with the declaration of war in April 1917, the joint effort of the War Department in the United States and General Headquarters, AEF, overseas, making the organization possible. The divisions that composed the First Army were organized in the United States; some were Regular Army, others National Guard, others National Army organizations. No permanent assignments to the Army were made. Most of the army and corps troops that served the First Army were organized in the United States and were drawn from the same sources as the divisions. Army and corps staffs, and most of the services that maintained the First Army after its formation, were organized in France by GHQ, AEF.

The General Organization Project of July 11, 1917, prepared in France, included detailed tables for the organization of an army to include an army headquarters, army troops, corps and divisions, and the necessary auxiliaries. In Sept 1917, Hq, AEF, on the recommendation of General Pershing, was designated by the War Department as an "army headquarters."

First Army Artillery had its genesis in the designation of Maj Gen Peyton C. March as army artillery commander Oct 2, 1917. Organization was defined by GHQ Feb 26, 1918, when Brig Gen Ernest Hinds, successor to Gen March, was ordered to organize specified units under Tables of Organization provided. Brig Gen Edward F. McGlachlin, Jr, became Chief of Artillery, First Army, when Gen Hinds was made Chief of Artillery, AEF, Apr 29, 1918, and was acting as such when the First Army was organized.

First Army Air Service existed prior to the First Army's formal organization. It began with the designation of Brig Gen Benjamin D. Foulois as Chief of Air Service, First Army, by GHQ, in General Orders No 81 of May 29, 1918, which also assigns certain air squadrons to the First Army.

One of the sections of the First Army General Staff, namely G-4, was organized at I Corps Hq, Neufchâteau, Jan 11, 1918, by Lt Col John L. DeWitt, under the designation "Coördination and Supply Section of an Army." This organization functioned continuously as a service for corps or groups until Aug 10, 1918, when it became G-4 of the First Army.

RECORD OF EVENTS

FIRST ARMY
ORGANIZATION IN AISNE-MARNE REGION JUNE 10-AUG 10, 1918

June 6, 1918, Marshal Pétain agrees to proposal of Gen Pershing that an American Army Corps be formed in region of Château-Thierry, thereby making possible formation of First Army on that front. June 18 the I Corps Hq moves from Neufchâteau in the Vosges toward Château-Thierry region, into Fr Sixth Army zone. July 4, Lt Col Hugh A. Drum, selected by Gen Pershing as Chief of Staff, First Army, to organize First Army hq in accordance with Tables of Organization June 27, 1918, begins this work at I Corps Hq (La Ferté-sous-Jouarre), using existing supply section and partially formed artillery hq as a nucleus. This day the I Corps assumes tactical command of a corps sector under the Fr Sixth Army on the Marne, the first corps sector to be controlled by the Americans. July 13, the III Corps Hq moves into the Fr Sixth Army zone to assume command of sector adjoining I Corps in Fr Sixth Army. July 15, chiefs of First Army general staff sections are designated. July 21, definite agreement reached to form First Army in Fr Sixth Army zone. July 21-30, Operations Section (G-3) First Army is being organized; chiefs of administrative and technical services reporting. July 23, Lt Col Drum arranges with French GHQ for relief of Fr Sixth Army by First Army. July 24, GHQ, AEF, formally announces organization of First Army, effective Aug. 10, Gen John J. Pershing commander. Hq First Army opens La Ferté-sous-Jouarre (Seine-et-Marne). Marshal Foch's plan for offensive operations contemplates American Army attacking St-Mihiel salient.

July 24-Aug 10, First Army Staff is engaged in study of the Fr Sixth Army situation, making daily visits to Hq Fr Sixth Army, arranging details of relief, collecting data, and preparing plans for concentration and organization of American troops within the zone it proposes to take over. July 30, reorganization of Army Artillery Hq to include General, Technical, and Administrative Staffs. July 31, First Army Staff is organized and is ready to function administratively. Aug 4, Fr GHQ directs First Army to relieve Fr Sixth Army Aug 10 along Vesle River from vicinity Ormont Fme to point 3 km northwest of Bazoches; First Army to comprise I and III Corps, then in line on Fr Sixth Army front with four American divisions; artillery supple-

Aug 9, Gen Pershing and Marshal Foch at Fr GHQ agree to transfer First Army to St-Mihiel theatre and relieve French armies holding front between Nomeny and Haudiomont; details to be arranged with Gen Pétain. Announcement is made in First Army Field Orders No 1 dated Aug 9 that command of Fr Sixth Army front will be assumed by Americans Aug 10; and final arrangements are made for transfer of this command. Aug 10, Gen Pershing arrives First Army Hq at 11 AM. Transfer of command from the Fr Sixth Army to the American First Army is completed. Gen Pershing thereupon informs the Army staff of his decision to move the First Army (excepting four divisions) to the St-Mihiel salient north of Toul where it will undertake reduction of the salient as its first operation. First Army staff initiates development of plans for the concentration of troops necessary for its execution. First Army Field Orders No 2 is issued dated Aug 10 revoking prior order. Aug 12-Sept 11, 1918, Arrangements and Concentration of Troops of the First Army in Preparation for the St-Mihiel Operation. Aug 12, 1918 Gen Pershing arranges with the French to shift the IV Corps Hq from Neufchâteau to Toul with a view to its affiliation with hq of the Fr XXXII Corps, the Hq First Army to be temporarily located at Neufchâteau. Aug 13, First Army Advance Hq opens in the Fr Eighth Army zone at Neufchâteau; the IV Corps Staff proceeds to Toul to become affiliated with the Fr XXXII Corps, Fr Eighth Army, which holds the sector on the south face of the St-Mihiel salient intended for occupation by the American I and IV Corps. There are stationed in the Fr Eighth Army zone the American 1st, 2d, 82d, and 89th Divs, all under tactical control of the Fr XXXII Corps. Administrative control over the divisions is given to the IV Corps to facilitate the interchange of command and for other purposes. Simultaneously the staff of the I Corps^{2a} is moving toward the St-Mihiel zone, having relinquished its command in the Aisne-Marne theatre. The 2d, 3d, 4th, 26th, and 42d Divs are withdrawn from the Aisne-Marne theatre and sent to training areas to receive special training and equipment preparatory to entering the Fr Eighth Army zone for participation in the operation. Aug 13, the C of S, First Army, submits to GHQ, AEF, a proposal recommending division of work between GHQ and the First Army in conducting the St-Mihiel Operation (see Aug 9, above). It recommends preparation of detailed plan by the First Army for the C-in-C's approval, and that the First Army put in the necessary installations and execute the plan of operations as approved. Aug 14, the C-in-C accepts Col Drum's proposal. Aug 15, First Army submits to GHQ, AEF³ its plan for reduction of the St-Mihiel salient. Aug 16, GHQ directs the First Army to be ready to attack before Sept 11, the freeing of the Paris-Nancy railroad, now in the enemy's hands, to be the minimum result to be obtained. Contained in this order directing the operation,

^{1*}As early as Sept 1917 the Operations Section of the American GHQ had recommended employing United States troops during 1918 in reducing the St-Mihiel salient; indeed Gen Pershing and Gen Pétain had agreed on the reduction of this salient at their first meeting (June, 1917).

^{2a} The First Corps is now assigned to the First Army.

are instructions that the main force of the First Army be used against the south face of the St-Mihiel salient between Fey-en-Haye and Richecourt; and that a smaller force be used in a secondary attack north of Les Eparges directed to the east and southeast, thereby causing the converging of enveloping forces so as to capture the entire salient. Minimum objective is defined as line Vandières, heights north of Jaulny and Thiaucourt, Vigneulles, and eastern edge of the heights of the Meuse River. Final objective defined as line Marieulles (east of the Moselle River), heights south of Gorze, Mars-la-Tour, Étain. Troops are assigned to First Army, control over the divisions to begin Aug 18, except in those cases where divisions are now in line on battlefronts or outside the Fr Eighth Army zone.⁴ Aug 17, as result of further agreement made today between Marshal Foch and Gen Pershing, more detailed instructions make the mission of the First Army to free the Paris, Avricourt railroad, with the line Bouxières-sous-Froidmont, Ruisseau de Gorze, Mars-la-Tour, Parfondrupt, Bezonvaux as the objective. This is to be accomplished by making a main attack on the front Lesménils, Seicheprey, against the south face of the salient, while simultaneously another would be directed against the west face on the front Tranchée de Calonne, Haudiomont; and a third from the west between Châtillon-sous-les-Côtes and Bezonvaux. The holding attacks are to be executed against the tip of the salient by a French force. The August Plan of First Army attack is thereupon perfected and promulgated in accordance with the revised instructions. Two French army corps of 3 divisions each are to attack north of Watronville under First Army direction. The whole attack contemplates employment of 25 French and American divisions and if successful would (1) eliminate the salient; (2) pierce the Hindenburg Line; and (3) threaten the defenses of Metz and the Briey iron region.

Aug 17-21, I Corps Hq and corps troops move by rail and motor into the Fr Eighth Army zone, taking station at Saizerais and vicinity, thereafter assisting in concentrating First Army troops. The 90th Div moves in. Aug 19, the French Mission informs Gen Pershing that the Fr C-in-C has directed the Fr Group of Armies of the East

⁴ The I, IV, and V Corps were assigned; also the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 26th, 33d, 42d, 78th, 79th, 80th, 82d, 89th, 90th, and 91st Divs. In addition the Fr II Cl Corps was assigned, including the Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav, Fr 26th, Fr 39th, and later, the Fr 15th Cl Divs.

Army. Aug 30, at Ligny-en-Barrois, Marshal Foch suggests to Gen Pershing curtailment of the First Army's plan of attack for the St-Mihiel operation, stating that a changed military situation along the western front requires use of the American forces in attacks to be directed toward Mézières; objective to be restricted to line Regniéville, Thiaucourt, Vigneulles, and attack to be made from south face of the salient only; immediately thereafter American divisions to undertake two operations in conjunction with French armies, some American divisions to be placed under French command. Gen Pershing desires to proceed with the St-Mihiel Operation immediately, expressing willingness to participate in general attack toward Mézières but insists that American Army be employed as a whole, either east or west of the Argonne Forest. Aug 31, Gen Pershing and the French C-in-C, Gen Pétain, meeting at Nettancourt, discuss limited objective and new plans as proposed by Marshal Foch; Gen Pétain expresses willingness to transfer entire battle front from the Moselle River to include the Argonne Forest to the American Army for its present and future theatre. Sept 1, members of General Pershing's staff visit Marshal Foch's hq seeking satisfactory agreement regarding future operations and Marshal Foch expresses desire to conclude same the following day at his hq.

Aug 30-Sept 11, the First Army occupies a defensive sector in Lorraine. Aug 30 (4 PM), the First Army relieves the Fr Eighth and Fr Second Armies of tactical command of the proposed St-Mihiel battle zone north of Toul, between Port-sur-Seille (west of Nomeny) and Watronville (southeast of Verdun-sur-Meuse). Holding this front and passing under command of the First Army are the I Corps (Hq, Saizerais), in line from Port-sur-Seille to Remenauville, with the 82d and 90th Divs; the IV Corps (Hq, Toul) in the adjacent sector to the west with the 89th Div in line from Remenauville to the Etang de Vargévaux; the Fr II Cl Corps (Hq, Ernecourt) with the Fr 39th and Fr 26th Divs in line from Etang de Vargévaux to east of Mouilly; the V Corps (Hq, Beno,tevaux) holding the extreme left of the army with the Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav Div in line from west of Mouilly to Watronville. Fr Eighth Army and Fr Second Army are to the right and left, respectively, of the First Army. Gen

Sept 1-11, various adjustments are being made by the First Army within its zone in anticipation of battle.⁷

Sept 2, Marshal Foch and Gen Pershing at Bombon agree to curtail the scope of the St-Mihiel Operation by limiting its objective to general line:⁸ Moselle River, Thiaucourt, Vigneulles-lès-Hattonchâtel, Les Eparges, and using eighteen instead of twenty-five divisions as proposed in the August plan. First Army revises its plan of attack. The main attack (Sept Plan) is to be made by two American army corps from the Limey-Seicheprey plateau, north, using seven divisions on the line and two in reserve; objective, the general line: Thiaucourt-Vigneulles-lès-Hattonchâtel. A secondary attack is to be launched against west face of salient by an American army corps (using two and one-half divisions on the line and the remaining half division as reserve) from the region Mouilly, Les Eparges, in a southeastern direction, toward Hannonville-sous-les-Côtes and Hattonville. These two attacks are to be joined by a holding attack around the nose of the salient, to be made by one French army corps using three divisions on the line. Army Reserve to be three divisions. To assure coördination between the French and American armies, Gen Pétain, at Gen Pershing's suggestion, embodies the First Army plan in directive from his own headquarters (Fr Group of Armies of the North and North-

⁷ Sept 1, the 1st Div starts toward the IV Corps zone; Sept 3 the 3d Div, training at Gondrecourt, is transferred from V to IV Corps, the 78th Div, training in Bourmont region, from the IV to I Corps, and the Fr 10th Cl Div units holding part of the V Corps front pass under the Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav Div. Sept 4, the Fr 15th Cl Div is assigned to the V Corps and the 3d and 42d Divs are moved. Sept 5-6, the 1st Div initiates relief of units along the IV Corps front, the 4th and 26th Divs begin entry along V Corps front, the 35th Div arrives in the First Army zone from Alsace to become army reserve, and the 33d Div is released by First Army to Fr Second Army. Sept 7, the 8th Inf Brig (4th Div) commands a front under the V Corps and the Fr 15th Cl Div is entering the line of that corps; the 80th Div is moving to southeast of Bar-le-Duc for service as army reserve. Sept 8-9, the 3d and 42d Divs assemble near IV Corps front in Forêt de la Reine, the 26th Div takes command of Rupt Sector from Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav Div so that latter may join Fr II Cl Corps in the adjoining Troyon Sector, a change in boundary being made between latter corps and the V Corps; the Fr II Cl Corps organizes its area into three divisional sectors, using the Fr 39th Div in the Commercy Sector, the Fr 26th Div in the Villotte Sector and the Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav Div in the Troyon Sector; the 4th Div (less 8th Inf Brig) moves toward Sommedieue and Haudainville to become V Corps reserve. Sept 10, the 2d and 5th Divs go into line of I Corps, the 42d into IV Corps line; the Fr II Cl Corps units take part of IV Corps front and V Corps hq moves forward to Ancemont. Sept 11, the 35th Div moves into Forêt de Hays. (See division and corps records for additional data.)

stationed behind the south face of the salient include the 35th (Traub), 80th (Cronkhite), and 91st (Johnston) Divs.⁹

Sept 12-16, the First Army engages in the St-Mihiel Operation. Sept 12, the First Army attacks, opening at 1:00 AM with artillery preparation along its front.¹⁰ At 5:00 AM, the six infantry divisions of the I and IV Corps attack from the southern face of the salient, between center of Bois le Prêtre and Xivray-et-Marvoisin, the artillery preparation now changing on this front to a rolling barrage. At 6:00 AM, that part of the Fr II Cl Corps to the west of the IV Corps advances as left flank protection for the southern attack. At 8:00 AM, infantry of the V Corps advances from the west face of the salient, its artillery preparation changing to a rolling barrage. At 9:00 AM, that part of the Fr II Cl Corps to the immediate south of the V Corps advances as right flank protection for the western attack. Along the remainder of the Fr II Cl Corps front, pressure is exerted against the enemy by means of deep raids at different points. By midnight the southern attack progresses beyond Viéville-en-Haye, Jaulny, Thiaucourt, and Nonsard, and the western attack advances beyond Dompierre-aux-Bois and Dommartin-la-Montagne; the enemy retires from the salient.

Night Sept 12-13, the IV and V Corps push forward to gain contact with each other and close avenues of escape to the enemy; during the early morning, the two corps establish contact near Vigneulles-lès-Hattonchâtel, 18 km northeast of St-Mihiel. Sept 13, by midnight, occupation of the limited objective is practically complete and stabilization of the front begins along the general line from the Moselle River north of Pont-à-Mousson, through Thiaucourt,

Vigneulles-lès-Hattonchâtel to Les Eparges. The 91st Div is released from the army reserve so that it may proceed toward the Meuse-Argonne theatre. Sept 14-16, the First Army advances its front west of the Moselle beyond the original objective by occupying the Bois des Rappes and extending northwestward from these woods to Fresnes-en-Woëvre. The 35th and 80th Divs, released from army reserve, proceed toward the Meuse-Argonne theatre. Sept 16,¹¹ the Fr II Cl Corps becomes the left of the First Army, relieving the V Corps by extending west to Watronville; the staff of the V Corps prepares to move to the Meuse-Argonne theatre.

Sept 17-25, First Army occupies a defensive sector in Lorraine. The St-Mihiel Operation terminating Sept 16, the First Army resumes its sector occupation along the new front line. Sept 17, Hq V Corps is attached to the Fr Second Army preliminary to relief of that army by the First Army; the 2d Div is withdrawn from line in the St-Mihiel Operation to army reserve. Sept 18, the IV Corps relieves the I Corps by extending its front to the east of Clémery thus enabling the hq of the I Corps to proceed to the Fr Second Army. The Fr Second Army takes over the Fr 15th Cl Div sector, located on the extreme left of the First Army.

initiating the attack and in addition to use any divisions that may become available by release from the St-Mihiel operation. The Fr Fourth Army is to attack in conjunction with and on left of First Army. Sept 3, Marshal Foch issues a directive ¹² to the Allied Armies for a general offensive of which the Meuse-Argonne Operation, by the American Army, is to be a part. Sept 6, First Army occupation of the Fr Second Army sector ¹³ begins with the arrival of the 33d Div in that army zone and entry into line. Gen Pétain embodies the First Army's plan of attack in a general directive from his hq (Fr Group of Armies of the North and Northeast). Sept 9-15, concentration of American divisions in this new theatre is continued by movement of the 28th and 32d Divs from region of Soissons, and of the 35th, 80th, and 91st Divs from the reserve of the First Army in the St-Mihiel region.

Artillery ^{13a} and air service units are released from the St-Mihiel theatre to proceed into the Fr Second Army area. Sept 10, the hq of the III Corps ¹⁴ is established at Souilly, south of Verdun-sur-Meuse, in the area of the Fr Second Army, to prepare for the Meuse-Argonne attack. Sept 13, the 79th Div, arriving in the zone of the Fr Second Army from training area, begins entering front line between

¹³ The Fr Second Army at this time holds a front between Watronville and the Argonne Forest. It has three army corps in line: the Fr XI, the Fr XVII, and the Italian II Corps. The divisions on its front line from right to left are: Fr 10th Cl, Fr 18th, Fr 120th, Fr 157th, Fr 73d, and Italian 3d. Several other divisions are in the rear area of the army zone. In order that the American Army might take over the Fr Second Army Zone, it is necessary to move more than 800,000 men in or out of it, 600,000 moving in and 220,000 moving out. Two corps headquarters, with their corps troops, eleven divisions, and some army units, make up the French and Italian troops that move out; three American corps headquarters and corps troops, fifteen divisions, and several thousand army troops are moved in; all movements are made under cover of darkness; by rail, autos, and marching. Large quantities of supplies, ammunition and hospital equipment also have to be handled during this period. The Fr Second Army arranges for the withdrawal of the French and Italian troops and receives and locates American troops in their zone before turning over command of the army sector to the First Army on Sept 22.

^{13a} The French are to loan artillery to the First Army. Sixty battalions of 75s, an equal amount of heavy artillery, and one hundred pieces of very heavy artillery (part of the latter in use in the St-Mihiel battle) and additional weapons are to be drawn from the Fr Fourth Army, Fr Group of Armies of the East, and Fr Group of Armies of the Reserve. The French artillery staffs, serving the I and V Corps in the St-Mihiel Operation, are to move with these American corps to the Meuse-Argonne.

¹⁴ Gen Pétain on Sept 11 directs the Fr Second Army Commander to give Gen Pershing every assistance in concentrating American troops, services and matériel within its area and officers of this French Army, with part of staff of First Army, execute plans for the new battle even while the St-Mihiel is being planned and fought.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Haucourt and Avocourt, to left of the 33d Div which continues to screen the front line of the 79th Div. The 91st Div, recently released from First Army reserve, is also arriving in the new theatre. Sept 14, the III Corps takes tactical control of the 33d and 79th Divs, holding the Fr Second Army front from the Meuse River opposite Samogneux to a point 800 meters west of Avocourt. Sept 16-21, the 77th Div from region of Soissons, the 37th and 92d Divs from the Vosges, and the 42d Div just released from the St-Mihiel Operation, move toward the Meuse-Argonne theatre. Sept 17, the first Army designates the troops for the initial phase of the Meuse-Argonne Operation.¹⁵ Sept 18, the I Corps Hq and the V Corps Hq open at Rarécourt and at Ville-sur-Cousances respectively, both within the Fr Second Army area, and begin preparations to assume tactical command of their sectors. The Fr XVII Corps, holding the right sector of the Fr Second Army, extends its front to the right to include the sector of the Fr 15th Cl Div, thus causing a change of boundary between the First Army¹⁶ and Fr Second Army.

First Army Boundaries: Right: No change.

Left: changed south of Lemmes so that it leaves the road connecting Bar-le-Duc with Verdun-sur-Meuse at Heippes, then turning northeast and following the road which passes Rambluzin-et-Benoitevaux, Récourt, Villers-sur-Meuse, Génicourt-sur-Meuse, Rupt-en-Woëvre, Bois Haut, and Mesnil-sous-les-Côtes (near Fresnes-en-Woëvre).

Sept 19, French GHQ establishes, effective Sept 22, a "Direction des Etapes" (Direction of Line of Communications), functioning under the direction of the commander of the Fr Group of Armies of the North and Northeast (Gen Pétain), which retains administrative control of the French military and civilian population within the American area. Sept 20, First Army issues Field Orders No 20, the attack order for the Meuse-Argonne Operation.

¹⁵ Corps assigned include the I, III, IV, V, Fr II Cl and Fr XVII. Divisions assigned include the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 26th, 28th, 29th, 32d, 33d, 35th, 37th, 42d, 77th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 82d, 89th, 90th, 91st, 92d, Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav, Fr 26th, Fr 39th, and Fr 69th. Temporary assignment is made of divisions to corps but revision takes place before operation begins.

¹⁶ The St-Mihiel front of the First Army is now between Port-sur-Seille and Fresnes-en-Woëvre and is held by the IV and Fr II Cl Corps. The Fr XVII Corps, Fr Second Army, is on the left of the Fr II Cl Corps. The front of this latter corps is held by the Fr 39th, Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav, 26th, and Fr 15th Cl Divs, in line from right to left, and the IV Corps sector on right of the Fr II Cl Corps is held by the 82d, 90th, 78th, 89th, and 42d Divs, also in line from right to left. The Fr Eighth Army sector adjoins the IV Corps on the right.

¹ Sept 21, the 35th and 37th Divs arrived in the army area. Sept 22, First Army relieves Fr Second Army and receives 3d, 4th, 28th, 33d, 77th, 79th, 80th, 82d, 91st, and 92d Divs by reason of the transfer.

RECORD OF EVENTS

The 2d Div moves to Toul. Sept 21, the I and V Corps assume tactical control of adjacent corps sectors to the immediate left of the III Corps; the V Corps takes the front between Haucourt and Vauquois held by the 79th and 91st Divs, and the I Corps between Vauquois and La Harazée held by the 35th, 28th, and 77th Divs which have just relieved French divisions. Hq of the First Army opens at Souilly. Sept 22, the First Army extends its zone to the northwest by relieving the Fr Second Army from Fresnes-en-Woëvre to La Harazée.¹⁸ Holding this front and passing under First Army control are the Fr XVII Corps from Fresnes-en-Woëvre to the Meuse River opposite Samogneux, with the Fr 15th, Fr 10th Cl, and Fr 18th Divs; the III Corps in the adjacent sector to the left, from the Meuse to east of Malancourt, with the 33d Div; the V Corps from east of Malancourt to Vauquois with the 79th and 91st Divs; and the I Corps from Vauquois to La Harazée with the 35th, 28th, and 77th Divs. The 1st Div, arriving in the region of Benoitveaux, is placed in army reserve. The front of the First Army now extends westward from Clémery, east of the Moselle, to Viennele-Château in the western part of the Argonne Forest.¹⁹ The Fr Eighth and Fr Fourth Armies, respectively, are to right and left of the First Army.

First Army Boundaries: Right: No change.

Left: north of Bar-le-Duc the new boundary passes Varney (excl), Neuville-sur-Orne, Revigny, Alliancelles (all incl), Villers-le-Sec (excl), Bettancourt, Nettancourt (both incl), Le Châtelier, la Neuville-aux-Bois, Ante, Verrières, Ste-Menehould, Moiremont (all excl), Viennele-Château (incl). South of Bar-le-Duc: minor changes only.

¹⁷ Advance P. C.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Sept 24, the 29th Div is arriving from Fr Seventh Army. Night Sept 25-26,²⁰ the First Army is ready for battle, its divisions having completed their movements into line along the Meuse-Argonne front. The right corps sector between Port-sur-Seille and Lachaussée is held by the IV Corps (Dickman) with the Fr 69th (Monroe), 90th (Allen), 78th (McRae), 89th (Wright), and 42d (Menohér) Divs; to the left, between Lachaussée and Mesnil-sous-les-Côtes, is the Fr II Cl Corps (Blondlat) with the Fr 39th (Pougin), Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav (Hennocque), and 26th (Edwards) Divs; between Mesnil-sous-les-Côtes and a point on the Meuse near Regnéville is the Fr XVII Corps (Claudel) with the Fr 15th Cl (Guerin), Fr 10th Cl (Marchand), and Fr 18th (Andlauer) Divs. West of the Meuse in the sector between Regnéville and point 1½ km east of Malancourt is the III Corps (Bullard) with the 33d (Bell), 80th (Cronkhite), and 4th (Hines) Divs; the V Corps (Cameron) holds the adjacent corps sector to the west, between points east of Malancourt and Vauquois, with the 79th (Kuhn), 37th (Farnsworth), and 91st (Johnston) Divs; and the left corps sector of the First Army, between Vauquois and La Harazée, is held by the I Corps (Liggett) with the 35th (Traub), 28th (Muir), and 77th (Alexander) Divs. The corps reserves are made up of the 3d (Buck) and 32d (Haan) Divs, both in the Forêt de Hesse, and the 92d (Ballou) Div in the woods northwest of Clermont-en-Argonne. The army reserves comprise the 1st (Summerall) Div near Benoîtevaux, the 29th (Morton) Div near Condé-en-Barrois, Fr 5th Cav Div, and the 82d (Burnham) Div near Clermont-en-Argonne. The Fr Eighth and Fr Fourth Armies,²¹ respectively, are to right and left of the First Army.

²¹ Tactical connection between Fr Fourth Army and First Army was maintained by liaison detachments. From Sept 26th to Oct 5th a combined Franco-American force carried out this task. It consisted of one French infantry regt with some French artillery, and one regt of the 92d Div, all under command of Fr XXXVIII Corps operating on right of Fr Fourth Army. Because of inability of the detachment to advance, the remainder of the 184th Inf Brig was turned over Sept 29th to the Fr Fourth Army for employment in the area between the two armies. After Oct 5th, connection between the two armies was maintained by flank detachments furnished by the divisions on the adjoining flanks of the two armies.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Sept 26–Nov 11, First Army Participates in the Meuse-Argonne Operation.²²—First Phase, Sept 26–Oct 3: Sept 26, at 2.30 AM the First Army opens the attack in the Meuse-Argonne operation with a general artillery preparation along its entire front.²³ At 5.30 AM, while the IV, Fr II Cl, and Fr XVII Corps hold the army front east of the Meuse River and raid the enemy's front, the infantry of the III, V, and I Corps, between the Meuse and the Argonne Forest, begins the assault, advancing toward Buzancy and Stonne in an effort to pierce the main position of defense.

First Army Zone of Action; Right Boundary: the Meuse River (excl).

The army right, III Corps (Bullard), carries the enemy's second position advancing to general line Dannevoux, Nantillois, and at the end of the day holds the left bank of the Meuse from Forges to the Bois des Moriaux. The army center, V Corps (Cameron), is held south of Montfaucon by enemy fire so that its front extends generally northwest from $1\frac{1}{2}$ km north of Malancourt to $\frac{3}{4}$ km south of Ivoiry, thence southwest to the northwestern outskirts of Véry. The army left, I Corps (Liggett), progresses in the valley of the Aire River through Varennes to $\frac{1}{2}$ km south of La Forge, but its drive through the Argonne Forest is checked by the enemy after an advance of about 2 km. Sept 27-28, the First Army continues its attack in the face of stiffer resistance; flanking fire from the Argonne Forest hampers the advance. The army right (III Corps) occupies the Bois de Dannevoux, Bois de la Côte Lémont, and Bois de Briulles. The V Corps, in the center of the attack, carries Montfaucon and pushes forward through Nantillois and Epinonville to an east-and-west line extending westward from north of Nantillois (where it connects with the III Corps) to Tronsol Fme (east of Exermont). The army left (I Corps) moves forward in the valley of the Aire to Apremont, but only small gains are made in the Argonne Forest. The 1st and 5th Divs are moving into the combat zone of the First Army from the St-Mihiel theatre. Sept 29-Oct 1, the Germans, having reinforced their front with new divisions, succeed in delaying the progress of the First Army beyond the general front: Bois de la Côte Lémont, Nantillois, Tronsol Fme, Apremont, Pont-a-l'Aune, Moulin de l'Homme-Mort (southeast of Binarville). Reinforcing its own front, the First Army changes a number of its front line divisions.²⁴ Oct 1, the 42d Div, coming from the St-Mihiel area to the region of Souilly in First Army area, is placed in army reserve.²⁵ The army issues instructions for renewing the attack.²⁶

Second Phase, Oct 4-31: Oct 4, the First Army resumes its attack at 5.25 AM without artillery preparation but preceded by a barrage which destroys most of the enemy's communications between his ²⁴ These changes involved the movement of about 150,000 men in and out of battle.

corps and lower units.²⁷ The army right (III Corps) and the army center (V Corps) capture the Bois du Fays and Gesnes but the flanking fire of the enemy from east of the Meuse, together with violent counter-attacks, prevents progress. The army left (I Corps), in that part of its zone of action east of the Argonne Forest, reaches its objective in the hills north and east of Exermont and pushes on to Fléville, but fails in its efforts to take the heights west of Romagnous-Montfaucon. West of the Aire gains are slight. Division changes are being made along army front and in its zone. On Oct 5, the attack is renewed but the resistance becomes so strong that decision is made to extend the active front by use of the Fr XVII Corps east of the Meuse. The Fr XXXIII Corps enters the line by relieving the Fr XVII Corps on the front held by the Fr 15th Cl Div east of the Meuse between Mesnil-sous-les-Côtes and a point ½ km south of Damloup.²⁸

Oct 7, the First Army, using the I Corps, attacks the eastern slopes of the Argonne Forest while holding along the remainder of its front and captures Hill 180, Hill 223, Châtel-Chéhéry and the east slope of Hill 244. For the next day, Oct 8, the First Army plans to attack with its V Corps and to secure relief from the fire of hostile artillery east of the Meuse, as well as to draw additional German divisions into the battle. In preparation the Fr XVII Corps (east of the river) extends to include the front of the 33d Div, west of the Meuse, in order to facilitate the operation. Oct 8, the First Army using the Fr XVII Corps begins its new assault at 4.45 AM along a 6-km front against the heights of the Meuse; the 33d Div crosses the river and connects with the 29th Div on the opposite bank; the corps front is pushed forward to the German main line of resistance located along

²⁸ The First Army front west of the Meuse is now along general line: Bois de la Côte Lémont, center of Bois du Fays, north of Gesnes, Côte 240 (Bois de Boyon), Fléville, Chéhéry, le Chêne Tondou, south of Etang de Poligny. A salient has been driven by First Army troops between the Bois de Mancy and Apremont toward Fléville and tomorrow it is to be made use of in attacking the enemy in flank in the Argonne Forest.

The Germans are rectifying their line in front of the III Corps by with drawing to the general line: Fme de la Madeleine, north of Brieuilles-sur-Meuse, retaining the latter town as an advance post in front of their main position.

the general line: la Wavrille, north edge of Bois d'Haumont, west of Ormont Fme, in Bois de Brabant-sur-Meuse, Hill 338, northwest of Hill 338, in the Bois de Consenvoye, east of Fme de Régivaux, north of Fme de Régivaux, south edge of Bois de Chaume, and north outskirts of Consenvoye. The Army left (I Corps) renews its assault against the Argonne Forest and reaches general line: east and south outskirts of Cornay, road from Pylône to Drachen, west of le Ménil Fme in Bois de Châtel, Etang de Poligny on the Army's extreme left. Oct 9, the Fr Fourth Army occupies Grand Ham; the First Army resumes the attack at 8.30 AM after bombarding the enemy's positions for 19½ hours. East of the Meuse the Fr XVII Corps gains; the IV, Fr II Cl, and Fr XXXIII Corps (also east of the Meuse) remain in place. West of the Meuse, the V and I Corps attack, the III Corps furnishing flank protection. The V Corps assaults from south of Cunel to the Aire river in an effort to secure the heights of Romagne-sous-Montfaucon and of Cunel; and reaches the hostile third line of defense (the Kriemhilde Stellung) along a front that extends from the north edge of the Bois de Cunel to south of Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, through Bois de Valoup and southwest of Fme du Transvaal, along Hills 269 and 263 to 1½ km south of Sommerance, and to the north outskirts of Fléville. The Army left (I Corps) continues its action against the Argonne Forest, advancing through the Bois des Quatrains and Bois de la Taille to south slope of Hill 209; at 1.00 PM, the Germans begin evacuation of the entire forest south of the river Aire.²⁹ The First Army issues a pursuit order with objectives unrestricted so far as operations west of Meuse are concerned.

Oct 10, evacuation of the Argonne Forest is being completed by the enemy while the First Army advances to a position where it is ready to resume its thrust from its center directly through the Kriemhilde Stellung between the Meuse near Brioules-sur-Meuse and Grandpré.³⁰ East of the Meuse, the Fr XVII Corps continues its attacks and is making progress. West of the river the army center (V Corps), aided by the III and Fr XVII Corps furnishing it flank protection, reaches a general front that extends from the north edge of Bois de ²⁹ First Army did not know of this until later.

Cunel, along southeast outskirts of Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, Côte Dame Marie, southeast and south of la Musarde Fme in the Bois de Gesnes, along north edge of Bois de Romagne, north slope of Côte de Maldah, point $\frac{1}{2}$ km southeast of Sommerance. The army left (I Corps) extends the front westward to Martincourt Fme, Marcq, southern limit of Chevières, south edge of Grandpré. Pursuit order issues holding the IV, Fr II Cl, and Fr XXXIII Corps in position east of the Meuse, but ordering an attack Oct 11 between Beaumont and the Aisne.³¹ Oct 11, west of the Meuse the First Army continues the attack with minor gains; Sommerance is taken. East of the Meuse, the enemy launches a futile counter-attack; the Fr XVII Corps consolidates its position. The front of the First Army extends along the general line: la Wavrille, Molleville Fme, Bois de la Côte Lémont, Bois de Briulles, Bois de Forêt, south of Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, Sommerance, Aire River to Grandpré, Grandpré (excl). Oct 12, the First Army reorganizes its zone; east of the Meuse the IV and Fr II Cl Corps sectors (between Port-sur-Seille and Fresnes-en-Woëvre) are transferred with their troops to the newly organized American Second Army. A readjustment of corps³² and division sectors is made along the army front between Fresnes-en-Woëvre and Grandpré in order to consolidate and strengthen it before renewing the assault. Along the army front, from right to left, there are in line the Fr XXXIII Corps from Fresnes-en-Woëvre to the region of Damloup; the Fr XVII Corps in the adjacent sector to the left between Damloup and a point on the Meuse west of Brabant-sur-Meuse; the III Corps, west of the Meuse, prolonging the front westward to southeast of Romagne-sous-Montfaucon; the V Corps extending this line to Sommerance; and the I Corps holding the corps sector of the army's left along the river Aire to south of Grandpré where connection is established with the right of the Fr Fourth Army.

³² Transfer of the IV Corps to the Second Army carries with it transfer of that Corps Hq, its corps troops, the 7th, 28th, 37th, 90th, and 92d Divs. Likewise, transfer of the Fr II Cl Corps carries not only the Cl Corps Hq but its corps troops, and the 79th, Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav, and Fr 39th Divs. For purposes of supply, the VI Corps is also transferred to the American Second Army. ¹ The First Army, from Oct 16, is part of Group of American Armies commanded by Gen John J. Pershing.

RECORD OF EVENTS

front is now along general line: Molleville Fme, Richêne Hill, through Bois de Chaume to point on the Meuse River east of Dannevoix, thence north along the river to opposite Vilosnes-sur-Meuse, turning west from there and crossing Hill 263 south of Briuelles-sur-Meuse, thence along northwest edge of Bois de Briuelles, north edge of Bois du Fays, north through Bois de Peut de Faux to the southwestern edge of Bois de Forêt, then north of Cunel, through Bois de la Pultière, Romagne-sous-Montfaucon and Côte Dame-Marie (both incl), to 2 km south of Landres-et-St-Georges, thence along south slope of Hill 216 near St-Georges, through St-Juvin, and along road Marcq to Grandpré via south limits of Chevières to Grandpré, Grandpré (excl). Oct 15, some progress is made west of the Meuse in the woods and hills between Romagne-sous-Montfaucon and Landres-et-St-Georges; late in the day, the First Army decides to have the I Corps continue its attacks on the extreme left and directs the other corps to consolidate their present positions in preparation for resuming the general offensive later on. Oct 16, Maj Gen Hunter Liggett takes over command of the First Army from Gen Pershing. The I Corps attacking in conjunction with the Fr Fourth Army on its left makes headway, temporarily occupying Grandpré; the Fr XVII Corps improves its position by gaining a foothold on heights of Bois de la Grande Montagne. The 91st Div is released from army reserve so that it may proceed to Belgium.

Oct 17, the army's main line of resistance continues to be improved by organization and consolidation.³⁴ Oct 19, local operations and ³⁴ FO 70, First Army, describes this line of resistance as follows: Côte 378, 1½ km east of Louvemont, northwest along spur to point 240 on Ravin de Vacherauville, to Hill 345 (1 km northwest of Beaumont), north by west through Bois des Caures to eastern edge of Bois d'Haumont, north along ridge to eastern edge of Bois d'Ormont, along northern edge of Bois d'Ormont, northwest Bois de la Reine, to Ravin de Molleville, thence along this ravine and along northern edge of Molleville Bois and Bossois Bois, north along eastern edge of forest (¼ km east of Hill 382 near Richêne), northwest along trail just north of Ravin du Plat-Chêne, along edge of woods south of Ravin de la Vaux de Mille-Mais, westerly through Bois de Chaume to Tr de la Vanne, west along Tr de la Vanne across the Meuse to Dannevoix, northwest to the eastern edge of Bois de Dannevoix (just east of Côte 294), along northern edge of Bois de Dannevoix and eastern edge of Bois du Ru to point about ¼ km from railroad on the Meuse flats, thence northwest generally parallel to the railroad to northwestern edge of Bois de la Côte Léumont, Côte 280, along northern edge of Bois de Briuelles, northwest to northeastern edge of Bois de Fays, west through Bois de Malaumont along ridge just south of Fond de Cunel, west along Tr de la Mamelle and Tr de Dantrise, northwest along northeastern edge of woods east and north of la Côte Dame Marie to Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, Sommerance road, thence along road and trail at base of Hill 288 to northern edge of western portion of Bois de Romagne south of la Musarde Fme, along northern edge of Bois de Romagne to northwestern corner, southwest through Côte de Maldah, following ridge to Hill 174 about 1 km north of Fléville, west across the Aire River to northern edge of Bois de Marcq, northwest to and along the northern edge of the Bois de Negremon.

RECORD OF EVENTS

systematic bombardment of hostile machine-gun nests, of occupied lines of resistance, of reserves, and of artillery emplacements continue along the III and V Corps fronts. The Fr 5th Cav Div is returned to the French. Gen Pershing, conforming to Marshal Foch's new plans for the general offensive, directs the First Army to be ready about Oct 28 to carry out its plans for an assault against Buzancy and the heights east thereof with the object of occupying that town and the Barricourt Heights, turning the forest north of Grandpré and establishing liaison with the Fr Fourth Army near Boulton-aux-Bois.³⁵ Further efforts by the First Army in the Argonne Forest and the Bantheville region are to be subordinated to strong attacks toward Boulton-aux-Bois and Bois de la Folie in which the Americans will utilize the wide exits the army has secured north of Romagne-sous-Montfaucon and Bois de Loges.

Oct 22-24, the III and V Corps secure the heights of Cunel and the Bois de Bantheville while the Fr XVII Corps gains the heights of Bois d'Etrayes and Bois Belleu. The First Army issues instructions for the proposed new offensive calling for continuation of the effort east of the Meuse and for an attack on the front west of the river on a date to be later announced. The 33d Div and Fr 18th Divs are transferred to Second Army. The 2d Div is moving into the First Army zone after release from Fr Fourth Army control. Army Artillery announces its plan for the new offensive.³⁶ Oct 25-26, consolidation continues and the Fr XVII Corps improves its front with strong local attacks. Enemy positions are being shelled at intervals by army artillery; readjustment of boundary between III and V Corps is made. The 79th Div from Second Army is now in Fr XVII Corps reserve, while the 6th Div, moving from the Fr Seventh Army zone in the Vosges toward Clermont, is placed in reserve of First Army.

³⁵ The combined maneuver of the First and Fr Fourth Armies seeks to secure the Buzancy region by the First Army and the Le Chesne region by the Fr Fourth Army, and to clear, by the east, the line of the Aisne. The Fr Fourth Army is to maintain liaison with the First Army at Grandpré and direct its efforts, rapidly and in force, by Vouziers toward Quatre-Champs, Vandy, and Terron-sur-Aisne, and farther north, toward Les Alleux and Le Chesne, widening its attack. The maneuver seeks to cut the Carignan-Sedan-Mézières railroad.

³⁶ Artillery strength totals 2466 guns of which 1813 will participate in main attack, assigned as follows: I Corps, 60 trench mortars, 300 light and 200 heavy guns; V Corps, 48 trench mortars, 224 light and 240 heavy guns; III Corps, 36 trench mortars, 228 light and 176 heavy guns; Army Artillery, 24 light and 277 heavy guns. In addition, the Fr XVII and Fr XXXIII Corps have a total of 84 trench mortars, 276 light and 293 heavy guns.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Oct 27, the First Army issues its attack order;³⁷ the I Corps completes occupation of Grandpré and gains foothold on high ground and woods to east and northeast of Talma Fme. Oct 28-30, the First Army prepares to resume battle; it occupies Aincreville and shells enemy positions in the Bois de Tilly, Bois de Mont, Bois de Barricourt, le Fey Bois, and Bois de Andevanne. The Fr XVII Corps is taking over the Fr XXXIII Corps zone on the army right by extending its front eastward and the corps troops of the Fr XXXIII Corps are concentrating at Souilly whence the Fr Second Army command is to move them out of the First Army zone and into the zone of the Fr Group of Armies of the East. Oct 31, First Army boundaries are announced as follows:

First Army Boundaries: Right: Willeroncourt, Salmagne, Géry, Lignières, Levoncourt (all incl), Villotte-devant-St-Mihiel (excl), Ville-devant-Belrain, Nicey, Pierrefitte, Courouvre, Benoitveaux (all incl), Récourt-le-Creux, Villers-sur-Meuse, Ambly-sur-Meuse, Mouilly (all incl), Mesnil-sous-les-Côtes, Bonzée-en-Woëvre (both incl), Fresnes-en-Woëvre (excl).

Left: Heiltz-le-Hutier, Blesmes, Étrepy, Heiltz-le-Maurupt, Villers-le-Sec, Vernancourt, Charmont (all incl), St-Mard-sur-le-Mont (excl), Le Châtelier, Givry-en-Argonne, La Neuville-aux-Bois, Bournonville, Ante, Braux-St-Rémy, Daucourt, Verrières, Ste-Menehould, Molremont, Vienne-la-Ville (all incl), Vienne-le-Château.

Rear: Willeroncourt, Ligny-en-Barrois (excl), Maulan, Fouchères, Dammarié-sur-Saulx, Morley, Ménil-sur-Saulx, Stainville, Lavincourt, Montplonne (all incl), Bazincourt, Rupt-aux-Nonains, la Houquette (all excl), Cousances, Cousances-aux-Forges, Roches-sur-Marne, Valcourt, Moëslains, Laneuville-au-Pont, Sapignicourt (all incl), Heiltz-le-Hutier (excl).

Night Oct 31-Nov 1, the First Army is ready to begin its attack in the renewal of the general offensive.³⁸ The Fr XVII Corps (Claudel)

³⁷ FO 88, First Army, states that the Fr Fourth Army will attack toward Le Chesne and Chatillon-sur-Bar, its right corps (Fr XXXVIII) directing effort toward La Croix-aux-Bois. Objectives for the First Army the first day: Cunel Heights, the heights north of Andevanne and Bayonville-et-Chennery, Sivry-les-Buzancy, the heights south of Verpel, the eastern half of Bois des Loges. Subsequent objective: Buzancy, Barricourt, ridge 2 km north of Briquenay, Boul-aux-Bois (where connections will be made with Fr Fourth Army).

holds the army sector east of the Meuse between La Wavrille and the river. Three American corps, the III, V, and I, hold the army front west of the Meuse River from a point 2 km west of Vilosnes-sur-Meuse to Grandpré where contact is made with the Fr Fourth Army. The Army reserve includes the 3d (Brown), 29th (Morton), and 36th (Smith) Divs.³⁹ The Fr Eighth Army holds the army sector on the right of the First Army and the Fr Fourth Army the sector to the left.

Third Phase: Nov 1-11: Nov 1: the First Army renews the general offensive west of the Meuse with an artillery preparation commencing at 3.30 AM. Two hours later the infantry begins its advance⁴⁰ between Cunel Heights and Grandpré, the center corps (V, Summerall), supported by the III Corps (Hines) and I Corps (Dickman) on its right and left respectively, making the main effort toward Barricourt Ridge on a front that extends from the north edge of Bois de Bantheville to St-Georges.

First Army Zone of Action: Right Boundary: the Meuse River (excl).

The V Corps (Summerall) breaks through the enemy's last organized defensive system, the "Freya Stellung," gaining the Barricourt Ridge and the heights northeast of Bayonville-et-Chennery, while the exterior corps (III, Hines and the I, Dickman) assist by conforming with their inner flanks to the V Corps advance. On the right of the army the III Corps (Hines) occupies Briuelles-sur-Meuse, Cléry-le-Grand, woods east of Fme de Chassogne, south slope of Côte 243, and the northeast edge of la Carpière Bois 1 km north of Andevanne. Advancing with the left of the V Corps (Summerall), the right of the I Corps (Dickman) occupies Imécourt but the left of this corps is unable to make much progress. During the afternoon German GHQ orders German Third and German Fifth Armies to withdraw; and at 8.20 PM (Nov 2) the German Army Group Gallwitz, in front of the First Army, is directed to withdraw all its troops to the east of the Meuse. Nov 2, west of the Meuse, the First Army maintains contact with the retiring enemy, and it begins an operation to gain the heights overlooking Dun-sur-Meuse, Sasseys-sur-Meuse, and Halles, with a view to establishing a bridgehead south of Dun-sur-Meuse in preparation for crossing the Meuse. Its right occupies Cléry-le-Petit, reaching the river east thereof, and clearing the Bois de Babiémont, les Dix-Jours, and Villers-devant-Dun; it also aids the army center (V Corps) in occupying the Bois de la Folie. V Corps occupies Tailly. The army left, relieved of pressure, advances rapidly in pursuit of the enemy through Champigneulle, Bois des Loges, Beffu-et-Le-Mort-homme, Verpel, Thénorgues, Briquenay, western part of Bois de Thénorgues and Harricourt. East of the Meuse the Fr XVII Corps patrols to the front ready to advance on the enemy if he withdraws. The 82d Div is moving under American GHQ control to a training area.

³⁹ Line of departure—Ja Wavrille, Belleu Bois, south of Côte 370, in the Bois de la Grande Montagne, Bois de Chaume, Bois de la Côte Lémont, river Meuse south and north of Briuelles-sur-Meuse, north of Bois de Forêt, Aincreville, northern and western edges of Bois de Bantheville, south of Landres-et-St-Georges, and St-Georges, north of St-Juvin, north of Aire River, Grandpré, Talma.

Nov 3, at 6.00 AM the army artillery begins shelling important points with long-range guns preliminary to an attack that has for its objective the general line: Sasseys-sur-Meuse, Halles, Sommauthe, St-Pierremont.⁴¹ The army right (III Corps) attacks the heights of the Meuse overlooking Dun-sur-Meuse, Sasseys-sur-Meuse, and Halles, and its troops reach the river from a point south of Briulles-sur-Meuse to Villefranche; patrols are crossing the Meuse north of Briulles-sur-Meuse; heights south of Halles are occupied. The army center (V Corps) pursues the retreating enemy; its right is advancing through Nouart and Tailly to Beauclair and Champy-Bas. The army left (I Corps) reaches the position north of Fossé, les Taronnes Fme, St-Pierremont, Verrières, Briulles-sur-Bar, Châtillon-sur-Bar. East of the Meuse the 26th Div extends to the right and relieves the Fr 26th Div so that latter may pass from First Army control to that of ⁴¹ (1) First Army FO 98 issued at 4 pm, Nov 2, giving the III Corps the mission of securing heights overlooking Dun, Sasseys, and Halles; this corps to send also strong patrols east of the Meuse, south of Dun, and toward Mousay and Stenay. The V Corps was to secure the heights overlooking Beauclair, Champy-Haut, and Vaux-en-Dieulet, and was also to push strong reconnaissance toward Stenay and Beaumont. The V Corps left was to assist the right of the I Corps by carrying the ridge south of Vaux-en-Dieulet. The I Corps was to seize the high ground overlooking Vaux-en-Dieulet, Sommauthe, and St-Pierremont, and maintain close liaison with the right of the Fr Fourth Army.

(2) Nov 3 Gen Pershing had formulated the idea of an attack to the east, in addition to this. Nov 4 Marshal Foch suggested the same plan; for orders issued accordingly see Second Army, Nov 5.

Nov 4, the First Army advances toward the Meuse and during the day begins establishing bridgeheads across the river in the III Corps sector,⁴² while the I Corps occupies Vaux-en-Dieulet, Sommauthe, Osches, Bois de Sy and Les Petites Armoises. Between the V and I Corps, the zone-of-action boundary is extended northwest through La Bagnolle (to V Corps), La Besace (to I Corps), Hill 275 which is about 1 km west of Yoneq (to V Corps), and Mouzon (to V Corps). East of the Meuse the Fr XVII Corps is progressing against determined resistance. The 4th Div is ordered from the Second Army to the First Army to enter army reserve upon arrival at Blercourt. Nov 5, the First Army is now in positions overlooking the Meuse along both its right and center; its right has crossed the river and occupied positions north of the river from Bois de Châtillon to Milly. The I Corps has reached the general line: west outskirts of Beaumont, la Thiabaudine Fme, Warniforet, La Bagnolle, La Besace, south edge of Bois de Raucourt, Stonne, heights of la Grange-du-Mont, la Raillère Dieue Fme, north edge of Bois du Mont-Dieue, and south of La Neuville-à-Maire. Nov 6, the First Army advances its front east of the Meuse through the woods and its French corps is crossing the river at Vilosnes-sur-Meuse.⁴³ On the Army left, the I Corps arrives on the heights overlooking the Meuse and patrols into Villers-devant-Mouzon and Remilly-sur-Meuse. East of the Meuse, the Fr II Cl Corps exchanges hq with the Fr XVII Corps which has advanced its front to the general line: Fresnes-en-Woëvre (excl), Mandre Fme, Damloup, Bezonvaux, Beaumont, Bois d'Ormont, Bois d'Etrayes, la Borne de Courouiller, point south of Sivry-sur-Meuse and Vilosnes-sur-Meuse, to Bois de Châtillon (excl). Nov 7, the First Army continues clearing enemy from west of the Meuse and now dominates the river along the entire front within the army zone; the extreme left is on the heights south and southwest of Sedan. East of the Meuse, the Fr II Cl Corps and part of the III Corps have progressed rapidly. The Fr II Cl Corps is now occupying Haraumont, Hill 370 (in the Bois de la Grande-Montagne), la Vaux-Nonette, Hill 398 (north of Solférino Fme), and Bois de Bugny-Fays; the III Corps approaches Brandeville and occupies Bois du Corrol and Lion-devant-Dun as well as positions north and east of Sassey-sur-Meuse. The 35th Div, until now in the reserve of the First Army, departs to join the Second Army. The 4th Div from the Second Army joins First Army reserve.

Nov 8, the enemy is slowly withdrawing north from the Meuse and the First Army is completing its occupation of the river heights east of the river and south of Lion-devant-Dun, by employing the III and Fr II Cl Corps. These latter occupy Brandeville, the east and north outskirts of le Haut-Gron, Bréhéville, Peuvillers, and Flabas. West of the Meuse, the V Corps, which is holding the river line, prepares to cross the river and also to extend its front northward, relieving the I Corps which is to come out of line to proceed to the rear area.

Left: Parfondrupt (incl), Conflans (excl), Tannay, Stonne, Mouzon, Carignan (all incl) Florenville (excl) after relief of I Corps.

The Fr IX Corps (Fr Fourth Army) begins relieving I Corps units west of the new boundary. Nov 9, east of the Meuse the Fr II Cl Corps moves its right into Manheulles and Moranville while its left occupies la Wavrille, Hill 238 west of Ville-devant-Chaumont, and the Thinte River from Moirey northward to Peuvillers; at this latter place, patrols from the III Corps extend this front farther north by an advance to the northern edge of the Bois de Jametz, Rémoiville, and to a point 1 km northeast of Charmois. III Corps is also crossing the Meuse at Sassey-sur-Meuse and entering Mouzay. The V Corps initiates relief along the I Corps front.⁴⁴ The 4th Div leaves the army reserve for the Second Army.⁴⁵ Nov 10, the Fr II Cl Corps, east of ⁴⁴ Nov 10, the 77th Division took over from the 42d, completing this relief.

⁴⁵ Nov 7, Fr GQG telegraphed the First Army that the boundary between the Fr Group of Armies of the Center and the First Army was to traverse the following towns: St-Mard-sur-le-Mont, Somme-Yèvre, Dommartin-sur-Yèvre, Dampierre-le-Château, Rapsécourt, Voilemont, Dommartin-la-Planchette, Maffrecourt, Berzieux, Ville-sur-Tourbe, Cernay-en-Dormois, Séchault, Challerange, Olizy, La Croix-aux-Bois, Boul-t-aux-Bois, Briouilles-sur-Bar, Les Petites-Armoises, Tannay, Stonne, Mouzon. South of Boul-t-aux-Bois the new boundary was to be effective at noon November 9.

Other units of the III Corps have crossed the Meuse at Sassey-sur-Meuse and Dun-sur-Meuse and are in Baâlon, La Jardinnelle Fme and part of Stenay and occupy nearly all of the Forêt de Woëvre. The V Corps is crossing the river west of Pouilly and east of the Bois de l'Hospice with troops along the heights between Pouilly and Mouzon; it holds also the former I Corps front west of the Meuse between Mouzon and Pont Maugis, the I Corps relinquishing its command at 6.00 AM and moving its headquarters and corps troops back to the Chéhéry region.

First Army Zone of Action: Right: Fresnes-en-Woëvre (excl), Parfondrupt, Thumeréville (both incl), Lantéfontaine (excl).

Left: Les Petites-Armoises, Tannay, Stonne, Mouzon, Carignan, Les Deux Villes, Williers, Pin, Jamoigne, Etalle (all to Fr Fourth Army except Stonne).

Nov 11, First Army troops continue crossing the Meuse and progress to the east until halted by the signing of the Armistice at 11.00 AM, at which time the army front is along general line: Fresnes-en-Woëvre, Grimaucourt, Abaucourt, Ville-devant-Chaumont, Chaumont-devant-Damvillers, Peuvillers, Jametz, Rémoiville, Baâlon, Stenay (south exit), Meuse River, Autreville, Moulins, Meuse River, Pont-Maugis. The army begins to organize this front in depth in preparation for further advance.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES, NOV 12, 1918-APR 20, 1919

Nov 12, the First Army establishes an outpost zone in front of and parallel to the armistice line and begins policing and salvaging its battle area; it provides for the reception and repatriation of destitute civilians and released allied prisoners of war, buries the dead and registers graves. Nov 13, the divisions comprising the First Army reserve (3d, 29th, 36th, 78th, and 80th Divs) are assigned to the VII spring 1918-1919, troops in the First Army engage in field training and attend schools;⁴⁹ much of its personnel is transferred to the SOS and Third Army. Jan 29, 1919, GHQ directs First Army to prepare its artillery for return to the US through the SOS. Feb 11, transfer of V Corps to other organizations begins and is completed Mar 5, when the hq of that corps is released to the SOS. Mar 20-25, similar transfer of I Corps troops is underway and on Mar 25 the Hq I Corps goes to SOS. Apr 15, the IX Corps is assigned to the First Army. Apr 20, the army hq and its remaining troops are placed at disposal of the SOS for return to the United States and on Apr 30 the army hq ceases to function when detachments are formed at Marseille, France, to embark for US.⁵⁰

OPERATIONS OCT 12—NOV 11, 1918

Oct 12—Nov 9, the Second Army occupies a defensive sector in Lorraine. Oct 12, the Army assumes command of a defensive sector in Lorraine, formerly held by the First Army. The front of this sector extends from Port-sur-Seille (east of Pont-à-Mousson) to Fresnes-en-Woëvre (southeast of Verdun-sur-Meuse). The Fr Eighth Army is to the right, the First Army to the left. Along the Second Army front, in line from right to left, are the IV Corps (Hq Boucq) and the Fr II Cl Corps (Hq St-Mihiel). The IV Corps holds from Port-sur-Seille to the Etang de Lachaussée with the 92d, 7th, and 37th Divs in line from right to left. The Fr II Cl Corps prolongs the front to Fresnes-en-Woëvre with the Fr 39th, Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav, and 79th Divs in line from right to left. The staff of the VI Corps with hq at Saizerais is attached to the Second Army awaiting opportunity to assume sector command. The 28th Div is in reserve in the region of Ménil-la-Tour.

Oct 16, the 28th Div moves into IV Corps line, replacing the 37th Div in the Pannes Sector, and releasing it for service in Belgium. Oct 18, the Fr 39th and the 79th Divs, by extending their fronts in the Fr II Cl Corps, relieve the Fr 2d Dism't'd Cav Div which has been ordered to First Army control. Oct 23, the VI Corps enters the line, relieving the IV Corps of that portion of its zone comprised in the Marbache Sector situated east of the Moselle and held by the 92d Div. The new VI Corps front extends along the general line: Port-sur-Seille, Morville-sur-Seille, northern edge of Bois de la Fourasse, Lesménils, hilltop 1 km west of Lesménils, la Vitrée, east bank of the Moselle north of Pont-à-Mousson. On the right of the VI Corps is the Fr XXXIII Corps, Fr Eighth Army. Oct 24-26, the 33d Div enters Fr II Cl Corps line, relieving the 79th Div. Oct 25, the 4th Div takes station in the Forêt de la Reine, in army reserve. Oct 26, reorganization of the Second Army zone begins: the VI Corps extends across the Moselle to the left, taking over part of the IV Corps sector; thereafter the front of the VI Corps extends from Port-sur-Seille to the east edge of the Bois des Rappes. In like manner the IV Corps widens its sector to the west to include the former zone of Fr II Cl Corps as far as the Bois des Haravillers. The Fr II Cl Corps now holds the front from Bois des Haravillers to Fresnes-en-Woëvre.² Oct 29, readjustments in the army zone continue. The Fr 39th Div is withdrawn from the front and the boundary between the IV and Fr II Cl Corps is changed, the 33d Div holding the entire front of latter corps. Oct 30-Jan 12, the 4th Depot (85th Div) is under Second Army control, functioning as a Regional Replacement Depot with Hq at Toul. Oct 31, the communes of Rambluzinet-Benôtevaux, Benôtevaux, and Courouvre, by minor alteration of boundary, are transferred to the First Army. Nov 1, instructions issue from GHQ outlining the course to be followed by the Second Army in case the enemy on its front begins a withdrawal.³ Nov 3, hq of the IV Corps moves to Woinville. Nov 4, Marshal Foch, having learned that by reason of the Austrian armistice new dispositions are being made by the enemy between the rivers Meuse and Moselle, suggests that Gen Pershing begin local operations in order to develop the situation. Nov 5, Gen Pershing directs the Second Army to advance between the Moselle River and Etang de Lachaussée, toward Gorze and Chambley. Nov 6, enemy withdrawal along the Second Army front is under way. Second Army orders attack for 7 AM Nov 10, to begin with vigorous assaults against selected points. The left corps of the Second Army is to be directed on Conflans, conforming to the First Army movement. Center corps advances toward Vionville. Right corps stands fast maintaining contact with enemy by patrols. The Fr II Cl Corps and the Fr XVII Corps exchange staffs, the former's staff departing for First Army and the Fr XVII Corps staff assuming command of original corps sector. Nov 7, the 4th Div is placed under First Army control. Nov 8-10, the 35th and 88th Divs, from First Army and Alsace respectively, become Second Army reserves.

Nov 9, the 4th Div reverts to Second Army control. The 35th Div is released from reserve to control of the Fr XVII Corps. GHQ, AEF, directs close contact with withdrawing enemy, ordering attacks where decisive gains are likely.

Nov 10-11, Second Army participates in attack northeast of Pont-à-Mousson. Nov 10, at 7 AM the Second Army begins attack.⁴ Its right, the VI Corps (Menohér), attacks east of the Moselle, driving in enemy outposts and occupying Bois de Fréhaut, Bois de la Voivrotte, and Bois de Cheminot. Its center, the IV Corps (Muir), pushes forward to general line extending from the Bois des Haravillers to the Fme des Hauts-Journaux. Marimbois

Fme and Bois de Dommartin are occupied. Its left, the Fr XVII Corps (Hellot), occupies Bois de Marville, Bois les Hauts-Epines; enters Marcheville-en-Woëvre and penetrates the enemy position in the Bois d'Harville. Nov 11, the advance of the right corps is halted by enemy artillery and machine-gun fire; the center corps approaches Bois Bonseil, and the quarry west of Rembercourt, and attacks Mon Plaisir Fme. The left corps occupies Butgnéville, St-Hilaire, and Château et Ferme d'Aulnois. At 11 AM the armistice terminates hostilities.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES, NOV 11, 1918-APR 15, 1919

Nov 12, the Second Army establishes outpost zone along its armistice front; it polices the forward area, begins repairing roads within its sector, and at the same time makes preparation to resume the advance if necessary. Nov 13, the Second Army begins transferring to the Fr Tenth Army that part of its sector lying east of the Moselle River, formal command of the territory passing to the French Nov 16; 92d Div troops within this area are moving west of the Moselle. General readjustment of sector follows. The Fr XVII Corps is released to the French. The IV and VI Corps, extending their sectors to the left, now occupy the entire front of the Second Army; the IV Corps takes over from the Fr XVII Corps command of the 33d Div, in line, and the 35th Div near St-Mihiel. The VI Corps receives from the IV Corps, the Puvenelle Sector held by the 7th Div. The 88th

RECORD OF EVENTS

Div, near Toul, is assigned to the VI Corps and released from army reserve. Artillery heretofore serving the Fr XVII Corps is redistributed within the army zone and similar distribution is made of the American corps troops serving in the army area.⁵ Nov 15, the 3d Div is temporarily transferred from the First to the Second Army, establishing hq at St-Maurice-sous-les-Côtes. Nov 17, the new American Third Army begins its march across the front of the Second Army toward Germany, taking with it the staff and corps troops of the IV Corps, and the 3d and 4th Divs. The 28th and 33d Divs on the armistice front, and the 35th Div grouped around St-Mihiel, are designated Second Army reserves. The 7th and 92d Divs continue to hold their positions on the armistice front of the Second Army. Nov 26, the IX Corps transfers its hq from Ligny-en-Barrois to St-Mihiel and assumes command of that part of the Second Army front along the armistice line between Jonville and Fresnes-en-Woëvre held by the 33d Div.⁶ Nov 27, the 28th Div is released from army reserve and assigned to the VI Corps; the 88th Div north of Toul returns to army reserve. Nov 28, the Pannes Sector, occupied by 28th Div, is added to the area of the VI Corps, extending the front of that corps through the northern edge of Bois de Dommartin, Marimbois Fme, northern edge of Bois des Harvillers, to the Fme des Hauts-Journaux. Nov 29, the 88th Div leaves the area of the Second Army en route to the 1st (Gondrecourt) Training Area. Nov 30, to facilitate troop movements the French establish a zone of passage across Second Army sector. Dec 5, the 33d Division is detached from the IX Corps, and, on Dec 7, moves to join the Third Army; 79th and 88th Divisions are assigned to IX Corps. Dec 9, the 79th Div, in the region of Verdun outside the zone of the Second Army, is assigned to the IX Corps. Dec 12, the 5th Div in Luxemburg, also outside the Second Army zone, is placed under army control. Dec 15, the 92d Div, which since Oct 12 has held the right sector on the army front, begins moving to American Embarkation Center (Le Mans), passing to control of American GHQ Dec 19. Dec 17-20, the 33d Div, moving into the northern part of Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, comes under Second Army control.

⁵ The right boundary of the army, north of Marbache, is now along the Moselle as far as Vandières.

⁶ See IX Corps record for additional information.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Dec 19, 1918–Mar 31, 1919, the Second Army Occupies an area in Luxemburg and Belgium. Dec 19, the Second Army extends its territorial limits forward to include the American zone of advance from the Meuse to the Luxemburg-Germany frontier, where the enemy has left large quantities of war materials, which the Second Army now takes over pending final disposition. Control of the 5th and 33d Divs, located in this new area, passes to the VI Corps. Second Army boundaries change.

Second Army Boundaries: Right:⁷ Viterne (excl), Sexey-aux-Forges, Villy-le-Sec, Velaine-en-Haye, Sexey-les-Bois, Aingeray (all incl), Vandières (excl), Jaulny, Rembercourt-sur-Mad (both incl), northward to and along the frontier past Vionville (excl), St-Marcel (incl), Vernéville (excl), to Joeuf (incl), turning north to Angevillers, Angevillers (incl), thence northeast to Sierck, Sierck (excl), northward past Grevenmacher and Rosport (both incl), thence northwesterly past Wallendorf, Wallendorf (excl), to junction with the army's left boundary south of Heinerscheid.

Rear: Same as the Oct 12 boundary.

Dec 22, the 7th and 28th Divs, located along the armistice front, pass from the VI Corps to army reserve. Dec 23, the VI Corps Hq moves to Villerupt, near the Luxemburg border, to facilitate its administration of the 5th and 33d Divs which are occupying forward sectors in the army zone. Dec 25, the boundary of the army, north of Chambley, is modified and follows the French frontier of 1914 as far as the Luxemburg line, continuing thence eastward along the south boundary of Luxemburg as far as the Moselle River.

⁷ Second Army Field Orders No. 31, issued at 24 hr 18 Dec 1918 describes the right boundary from Rembercourt-sur-Mad to Sierck as being the same as the right boundary of the American Zone of Action, and fixes it from Sierck to Heinerscheid as following the Luxemburg-Germany frontier. The left boundary in the same order is defined as beginning at Gremilly (incl), and following general line through Pillon (incl), Grand-Failly (excl), Vilette, Ruette, and Ethe (all incl), Bellefontaine (excl), thence along left limit of American Zone of Action to Heinerscheid.

American troops east of the Moselle are withdrawn to the west side. The 85th Div prepares to move to the SOS but control of it remains with the Second Army until Jan 13. Dec 26, the 79th Div, located north of Verdun, within the army zone, moves to south of Verdun and is transferred from VI to IX Corps control.

During winter and spring, 1918-1919, the Second Army engages in terrain exercises and maneuvers. It also collects, lists, and guards enemy war matériel. Salvage and demolition work is being carried on; troops are being prepared for return to US. Jan 6, the 28th Div leaves the armistice front, and the Second Army zone to train in the 6th (Colombey-les-Belles) Training Area; it remains under Second Army control. Zones of passage for French troops are being established across the rear area of the army zone to facilitate troop movements. Jan 10, a readjustment of the boundaries of the Second Army is made: ⁸

⁸ Within the Second Army zone, lying between Metz and Virton, are three military areas, which divide the zone of the VI Corps. These areas are controlled by the French and in them are large quantities of captured military stores. The French maintain in the southern portion of the Second Army zone two zones of passage for their troop movements, one such passage being on a generally east and west line connecting Toul with Ancerville, and the other south thereof across the Second Army's rear limit.

ORGANIZATION, NOV 7-16, 1918

Nov 7, 1918, GHQ, AEF, issues General Orders No 198 establishing the Third Army and announcing its hq staff.¹ Nov 15, officers selected for staff of Third Army gather at Ligny-en-Barrois (Meuse), formal organization of the hq takes place and Maj Gen Joseph T. Dickman assumes command. Nov 16, Third Army prepares to take control of the III and IV Corps which are to march in conjunction with the Allied forces to the Rhine.²

THIRD ARMY ADVANCES INTO GERMANY, NOV 17-DEC 17, 1918

Advance to Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, Nov 17-20, 1918.

Nov 17, Third Army takes tactical control of the III (Hines) and IV (Muir) Corps; at 5:30 AM, crosses Nov 11 armistice front, between Charey and Mouzon, marching northeast toward Luxemburg as part of the Allied³ advance in direction of Germany with the Fr Tenth Army to the right and the Fr Fifth Army on left.⁴ The two corps are

² The III Corps, at this time, held, under First Army command, a part of the Nov 11 armistice front, between Peuvillers and Stenay. The IV Corps held, under the Second Army, another part of the Nov 11 armistice front, between Thlaucourt and Fresnes-en-Woëvre. The corps sector of the Fr II Cl Corps separated the two fronts.

The 1st and 3d Divs, selected to lead the advance for the IV Corps, moved from the First Army zone to assembly positions on the IV Corps front. 2d and 32d Divs assembled to left of IV Corps between Jametz and Stenay to lead advance for III Corps.

⁴ When the armistice was signed it was not a permanent termination of hostilities and therefore the Commander in Chief of the Allied Armies, Marshal Foch, retained his command while delegating much of his authority to the Commanding Generals of the separate Allied Armies. Foch directed the advance into Germany and partitioned the German territory to the four occupying countries. In accordance with principles laid down in the Hague Convention, Inter-Allied Control, beginning with the advance from France, was to be exercised by the Commanding Generals of the Allied Armies under the supreme command of the Marshal.

Advance Through Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, Nov 21-30, 1918. Nov 21, General Pershing reviews the army as it marches into Hollerich, Luxemburg Nov 22, 1918 Grand Duchy of Luxemburg ⁶ reaching general line: Cattenom (Lorraine), Rentgen, Schuttrange (Luxemburg), Mersch, Vichten. Nov 22, army hq established in suburbs of Luxemburg City; ⁷ German withdrawal from Grand Duchy completed; VII (Haan) Corps is placed in Third Army reserve and ordered assembled by Nov 25 in area bounded by Etalle, Jamoigne, Florenville, Carignan, Mouzon (all incl), Meuse River line to Dun-sur-Meuse, Marville, and Virton (all incl), after which it is to follow and cover the III and IV Corps when they cross the Luxemburg-German frontier. The advance reaches general line: Schengen, Remerschen, Remich, Wormeldange, Betzdorf, Erpeldange. Nov 23, Third Army halts on the Luxemburg-German frontier to make necessary preparations for its entry into Germany; its front line now extends along the Moselle River from Thionville to Grevenmacher, continuing thence along west bank of Sauer River from Wasserliesch to Wallendorf.

⁵ Gen Howze commanded 4th Div from Nov 17-18, taking command of the 3d Div on Nov 19, Maj Gen Hersey relieving him of command of the 4th Div.

⁶ Luxemburg was a disarmed neutral state. Marshal Foch included it in the American Zone but detailed a French regiment as body guard in Luxemburg City where he established his secondary hq. He appointed a French general with authority to control postal traffic and circulation by rail and highway and was proposing further authority when Gen Pershing suggested that the United States did not consider it necessary or desirable to so administer Luxemburg intimating that American troops would be withdrawn from the Grand Duchy if the contemplated action persisted. The American viewpoint was then accepted.

⁷ Brig Gen Harry A Smith arrived at army hq preparatory to taking station at Trier (location of Advance GHQ) as Officer in Charge of Civil Affairs.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Nov 25-27, VII Corps completes assembly near Montmédy; 5th Div moving to operate as line of communications troops for Third Army; pause in advance being utilized by Third Army to train its troops in accordance with General Orders 207, GHQ, AEF. Nov 29-Dec 1, VII Corps (90th Div on the right, 89th Div on left) closes on III and IV Corps, marching to Lommerange (Lorraine), Audun-le-Tiche, Esch-sur-Alzette (Luxemburg) and Thiaumont (Belgium). Nov 30, Third Army numbers 9937 officers and 233,770 enlisted men.

THIRD ARMY PARTICIPATES IN THE OCCUPATION OF GERMANY
Third Army Advances Through Rhineland, Dec 1-12, 1918.

At 5 AM, Dec 1, Third Army, begins crossing frontier into Germany and marches toward the Rhine River with the Fr Tenth Army on its right and the Br Second Army to the left.⁸

Third Army Zone of Advance; Right Boundary; extended from Schengen (see Nov 17 boundary) along general line: Saarburg, Siterath, Mühlfeld, Zusch, Kempfeld, Kellenbach, Dichtelbach, Trechtingshausen.

Left Boundary; between Carignan and Merzig, Ober-Feulen, Neider-Feulen, Bourscheid, Hoscheid, Consthum, Bockholz (all incl), Munshausen (excl), Marbourg and Roder (both incl), Heinerscheid, Kalborn (both excl), thence along eastern frontier of Luxemburg, thence the administrative boundary separating the districts of Coblenz and Trier from those of Cologne and Aix-la-Chapelle. (Approximately the general line: Lommersweiler, Manderfeld, Kronenburg, Waldorf, Rohr, Hilberath, Oberwinter).

⁸ Administration of the civil government of the occupied area became an important duty as the Third Army began its entry into Germany, and continued as such throughout the period of occupation. On Nov 21, 1918, GHQ, AEF, had designated Brig Gen Harry A. Smith as Deputy Chief of Staff, Civil Affairs, Nov 28, 1918, the Third Army, by memorandum, outlined the procedure whereby its commanders would inform the civilian authorities that military government had been established in their towns and fixing responsibility for proper cooperation. Commanding officers of American units stationed in such towns imposed the regulations deemed necessary on the civil population. Dec 10, 1918, GHQ, AEF, in General Orders 225 placed the responsibility for control and management of civil affairs throughout the American zone in the hands of an Officer in Charge of Civil Affairs (Brig Gen Harry A. Smith) defining the organization and manner by which such affairs should be regulated. The Civil Affairs Officer was made the personal representative of Gen Pershing with office at Advance GHQ, Trier. He had full power to promulgate the orders of the military government and to supervise them. Supervision of the control of civil affairs in lesser military units was exercised by the Army Commander through his own Officer in Charge of Civil Affairs. Division commanders were responsible for the administration of civil affairs in their districts. The Civil Affairs Officer of the Third Army maintained direct relations with the highest German official of the occupied territory, the Oberpräsident of the Rhine Province at Coblenz, and in June when Advance GHQ was discontinued he became the principal authority of the Commander of the Third Army in civil matters. May 7, 1919, a new system of civil government was inaugurated because of departure of so many American troops, officers of civil affairs being installed to take over military government powers from the division commanders. The principal matters in the occupied territory over which the Civil Affairs officers exercised control were: public works and utilities, fiscal affairs, sanitation and public health, schools and charitable institutions, and legal matters growing out of the relationship between the military and the civilian authorities.

Third Army Advances into Coblenz Bridgehead, Germany, Dec 13-17, 1918. Dec 13, Third Army begins occupying North Sector of the Coblenz bridgehead in accordance with plan of action outlined in Field Orders No 10, Third Army.¹² III Corps crosses the Rhine River, its 1st Div at Coblenz, 2d Div at Remagen, 32d Div at Engers and Neuwied, preparatory to organizing their positions; forward limit of bridgehead is defined as the arc of a circle the radius of which is 30 km centering at the Pfaffendorf Bridge at Coblenz, the perimeter passing through the following villages:

Malmeneich (point of liaison with Fr Army), Hundsangen, Molsberg (both incl), Salz (excl), Mällren, Elbingen, Obersain, Wölferlingen (all incl), Seeburg (excl), Mündersbach, Hilgert, Steimel (all incl), Lahrbach, Döttesfeld (both excl), Heckerfeld, Eulenburg, Borscheid, Fernthal, Neschen, Weissenfels, Arnsau, Hähnen, Rotheckreuz, Ariendorf.

¹¹ Third Army Field Orders No 10 of Dec 12 describe in detail how the American position on the Rhine and its support will be occupied and organized for defense. A first or outpost position follows the outer perimeter of the bridgehead, the second or main position of resistance is on general line, Limbach, Asbach, Neustadt, Ober-Hümmerich, Willroth, Kirchdorf, Giershofen, Brückrachdorf, Sessenhausen, Ellenhausen, Eberhahn, Montabaur, Holler, Isselbach, Holzappel. The third position follows general line, Gratzfeld, Windhagen, Lorscheid, Hönninger Wald, Ehlscheid, Thalhausen, Alsbach, Höhr, Kadenbach, Welschneudorf. The fourth or reserve position follows generally the left bank of the Rhine from Rolandseck to Rhens.

¹² Terms of the Armistice provide that the Kreise west of the Rhine River shall be assured by garrisons holding the principal river crossings—Mayence, Coblenz, and Cologne—together with bridgeheads at these points of a 30 km radius. The bridgeheads were thus originally prescribed as segments of circles, whose centers were centers of the cities mentioned and with radii as stated. Terms of the Armistice provide further that a neutral zone 10 km wide shall be established beyond the Rhine with the perimeter of the bridgehead starting from the Dutch frontier and extending to the Swiss frontier.

During Jan the Third Army is engaged in training and preparing the troops under its command for any contingency that may arise. Letter of instruction is circulated to lower commanders prescribing plan of action in case hostilities are resumed. Installations are set up throughout the army area to facilitate command.

In Feb new four-week training period begins, military schools are opened throughout the area; readjustments of billets and billeting areas are being made; a quartermaster depot is organized at Coblenz-Lützel, eliminating necessity of direct shipments to divisions of Third Army from SOS depots; nearly 2000 officers and enlisted men leave to take courses in British and French universities; better leave facilities are created; plans for sending American divisions to the United States are being made. Feb 4, military control of the Stadtkreis of Trier is transferred from GHQ to the Third Army. Feb 26, boundary, within the neutral zone, between the Br Second Army and the American Third Army is announced to be the administrative boundary of the Kreis of Siegburg.

¹⁵ Plan of bridgehead organization was prescribed Dec 12, 1918, in Field Orders No 10, Third Army.

¹⁷ Gen Pershing desires repatriation of Americans as speedily as possible, but Marshal Foch wants twenty-five American combat divisions maintained in the theatre of operations until the peace treaty is signed and several conferences ensue because of this difference of opinion. Dec 31, 1918, Marshal Foch is informed that commencing Mar 1, 1919, there will be a monthly reduction of five American divisions in the occupied area.

RECORD OF EVENTS

ORGANIZATION AND TRAINING, JAN 15-JULY 3, 1918

Jan 15, GHQ of the AEF, directs the organization of the I Corps, the establishment of corps hq at Neufchâteau, south of Toul, and designates the staff and corps troops. The Fr XXXII Corps (Fr First Army), which is holding a quiet sector, assists in the organization and training of the I Corps. Jan 20, Maj Gen Hunter Liggett takes command of the Corps, which assumes administrative control and training supervision over the following American divisions in France, namely: the 1st Div which is in line affiliated with the Fr XXXII Corps (Fr First Army) northwest of Toul, the 2d, 26th, and 42d Divs in nearby training areas, and the 41st (Base and Training) Div near Blois. During the winter and spring the several combat divisions occupy portions of the battle front under French corps. During Feb the 32d Div, then the Corps replacement division, reaches France and occupies a training area adjacent to corps hq. Mar 21, the enemy launches a series of offensives interrupting training and causing the combat divisions to be prepared for immediate service. The 1st Div moves to the Somme theatre northwest of Paris where it occupies a position in the rear area. The 26th and 42d Divs move into quiet sectors along the front of the French Eighth Army so that the French divisions holding these sectors may be released for participation in the Somme Defensive Operation. During Apr the 32d Div is transformed into a combat division, and the 41st Div becomes the replacement unit for the entire AEF. Apr 25, the 1st Div relieves two French divisions in the Cantigny Sector near Montdidier. May 17, the 32d Div moves into the area of the Fr Seventh Army, prior to its entering the line in the Vosges. May 27, the enemy attacks the Chemin des Dames and threatens Paris, resulting in the 2d Div being placed under French command. May 28, the 1st Div captures Cantigny. May 30, the 5th Div is ordered to the zone of the Fr Seventh Army, and passes to the I Corps for administrative control. June 1-5, the 2d Div is in line astride the Château-Thierry, Paris highway, where it assists the Fr Sixth Army in stopping the enemy. June 6-16, the 2d Div holds a sector near Château-Thierry under the Fr Sixth Army. June 8-15, the enemy attacks between Montdidier and Noyon; the 1st Div is on the defensive with the Fr XX Corps (Fr Tenth Army); the 4th, 28th,

RECORD OF EVENTS

35th, 77th, and 82d Divs begin to move south from stations behind the British lines as follows: the 4th and 28th Divs to reserve positions in the Marne salient; the 77th and 82d Divs to the Fr Eighth Army in Lorraine, where they release the 26th and 42d Divs for more active fronts, and the 35th Div to the zone of the III Corps. June 10, the I Corps assumes administrative control of all the American troops serving in the zone of the Fr Eighth Army, the front of which extends from St-Mihiel to a point northeast of Epinal, including the 26th and 42d Divs. The 5th and 32d Divs, which are in the zone of the Fr Seventh Army, pass to the III Corps. June 12, the 77th Div enters the zone of the Fr Eighth Army, in order to relieve the 42d Div in the Baccarat Sector. June 13, the Corps learns that it is to have tactical command of a sector on the Marne. June 18, the Corps Commander and staff move to the vicinity of Château-Thierry, report to the Fr Sixth Army, and open an advance hq at La Ferté-sous-Jouarre, preparatory to the relief of the Fr III Corps, which occupies a sector of this front with the 2d and Fr 167th Divs in line along the river bank. The 82d Div, which is arriving in the zone of the Fr Eighth Army, passes to the administrative control of the Corps. June 21, the IV Corps assumes administrative control and supervision of training of American troops in the zone of the Fr Eighth Army, including the 26th, 42d, 77th, and 82d Divs. The I Corps retains administrative control of the 2d Div, of the 1st Div which is in line under the Fr First Army near Cantigny, and assumes similar control over the 3d, 4th, and 28th Divs near Château-Thierry. Late in June the I Corps establishes a hq for corps arty and corps air service, though these troops continue to operate under the French. June 27, the I Corps Replacement Bn is formed near Chelles. June 30, the 26th Div, then arriving in the area of the Fr Sixth Army, is placed under the administrative control of the Corps.

La Ferté-sous-Jouarre, Seine-et-Marne, June 18, 1918.

CORPS OPERATIONS, JULY 4–NOV 11, 1918

July 4–14, the Corps occupies a defensive sector in Ile de France. July 4, the Corps relieves the Fr III Corps (Fr Sixth Army) west of Château-Thierry, assumes tactical command of the 2d, 26th, and Fr 167th Divs, organizes the position, and guards the Marne bridges between Charly and Mary-sur-Marne; the outpost line extends from Vaux to northwest of Bussiares, the line of resistance from Tafournay Fme, through Champillon, to les Granges Fme;

ORGANIZATION AND TRAINING, DEC 1917–SEPT 1918

Plan for training American Troops with the British. The commanders-in-chief of the American and British forces during Dec 1917, and Jan 1918, formulate a plan to move six American divisions in British ships from the US to France, and agree that these divisions should be trained behind the British lines. The training program, adopted during the winter, provides primarily for ten weeks of training of the American infantry and machine-gun troops; for affiliating American battalions with British brigades and regimental staffs with brigade headquarters; next for the reassembly of the American battalions into regiments and brigades and their training with Br divisions; and lastly for the placing of American regiments under their own division commanders. The American commanders are to retain full responsibility for the training and discipline of their commands even when affiliated with the British. In order to facilitate this plan, GHQ, AEF creates the American II Corps.

Preliminary Organization. Feb 20, Lt Col George S. Simonds is appointed Chief of Staff of the II Corps and charged with the execution of the plans for the service of American troops in the British area. Feb 23, Lt Col Simonds, with assistants, proceeds to Br GHQ at Montreuil-sur-Mer; the corps hq becomes a part of Br GHQ reserve, but American GHQ retains direct command of the American divisions. Mar 19, GHQ announces the temporary organization of the corps hq. Mar 21, the German offensive launched against the British and French interferes with the training plan. Mar 23, the corps hq opens in Br First Army area. Apr 13, the 77th Div occupies stations in the area of the Br Second Army near St-Omer. Apr 14, the War Dept designates the 4th, 28th, 30th, 35th, 77th, and 82d Divs (less arty) for training in British areas.

Apr 15–June 15, American Troops train in British areas. The Br Fourth, Third, First, Fifth, and Second Armies are in line from right to left between Amiens, France, and Ypres, Belgium. Apr 15, elements of the 77th Div begin their training in the area of the Br Second Army. May 11–12, the leading elements of the 35th and 82d Divs arrive in the area of the Br Fourth Army near Amiens. May 14–June 6, the 154th Inf Brig (77th Div) trains in the Br Third

Army near Doullens. May 20, the 4th Div arrives near Montreuil-sur-Mer in the area of the Br First Army. May 22 and 27, the 28th and 30th Divs, respectively, arrive near St-Omer in the area of the Br Second Army. May 29, the 27th, 33d, 78th, and 80th Divs (less arty) are added to the list of divisions scheduled for training in British areas; the 33d Div is near Amiens in the area of the Br Fourth Army, troops of the 27th Div enter the same area, the 80th Div is arriving at French ports, and the 78th Div is en route to France. May 30, the organization of a corps replacement battalion is ordered. June 3, decision is reached to withdraw certain American divisions to replace French reserves and, accordingly, June 6-16, the 4th, 28th, 35th, 77th, and 82d Divs move to French sectors. June 5-11, the 27th Div arrives in the Br Fourth Army area, the 80th Div in the Br First Army area, and the 78th Div in the Br Second Army area. June 10, the Corps begins to exercise administrative control and training supervision, but not tactical command, over all American troops serving in the British theatre except the base hospitals and engineer railway regiments. June 13, Maj Gen George W. Read is appointed Corps Commander, and assumes command two days later. June 21, the 27th Div moves north to the vicinity of Beauval in the Br Third Army area. June 23, the Corps Replacement Bn is stationed at Eu and Hesdigneul-lès-Boulogne, from which points it receives and forwards replacements. June 25, the formal organization of the Corps, including the assignment of staff and divisions, is announced and the Corps Commander directed to prepare it for active service. July 2, the 27th Div moves north to the area of the Br Second Army; the 30th Div moves toward the Br II Corps area west of Poperinghe, Belgium.

July 3-Aug 24, American Troops train with the British in the forward areas. July 3, units of the 33d Div enter the line of the Br Fourth Army where they participate in the attack of the Australian Corps, which is attempting to clear the plateau of Villers-Bretonneux near Amiens. July 4, the 80th Div moves south to the vicinity of Beauval for training in the Br Third Army area. July 6, the units of the 33d Div are withdrawn from the line. July 9, the 27th and 30th Divs are entrusted with the organization of the East Poperinghe line, a secondary position in the zone of the Br Second Army; units of the 27th Div begin to train in the front line of the Dickebusch Lake and Scherpenberg Sectors, southwest of Ypres. July 18, the 78th Div moves south to the vicinity of Arras where it trains in rear of the Br First Army. July 23, units of the 80th Div begin their training in the front line in the Artois Sector of the Br Third Army. Aug 8-20, units of the 33d and 80th Divs participate in the Somme Operation, where they are affiliated with the Br Fourth and Br Third Armies, respectively. Aug 12, units of the 78th Div enter the front line of the Br Fourth Army. Aug 18, the 33d, 78th, and 80th Divs are selected for duty with the First Army, and between Aug 19 and 24 these divisions are withdrawn from the front lines and clear the British theatre by Aug 25.

Aug 18-Sept 4, Activities of the Corps in the British Second Army Area. Aug 18, the front of the Br Second Army extends from Hazebrouck, France, to Ypres, Belgium; the Br Fifth Army is on the right, the French and Belgian Army on the left. The 30th Div assumes command of the Canal Sector on the right of the Br II Corps (Br Second Army) relieving Br 33d Div; the 27th Div is training in the Dickebusch Lake and Scherpenberg Sectors to the right of the Canal Sector in the zone of the Br XIX Corps. Aug 19, the sector occupation of these divisions merges into the Ypres-Lys Operation.¹ Aug 23, the 27th Div assumes command of the Dickebusch Sector. British artillery and corps troops are assigned to the II Corps with the understanding that the latter will assume tactical command of the American divisions on the thirtieth. Aug 30, the plan is changed, and the corps hq is withdrawn to the Br GHQ reserve in the area of the Br Third Army south of Doullens; the 27th and 30th Divs remain in the Ypres-Lys Operation under the Br Second Army continuing attacks. Sept 3-4, the 27th Div withdraws to the vicinity of Doullens, and the 30th Div to the area of the Br First Army near St-Pol-sur-Ternoise, where both resume training. Sept 17, the 30th Div moves to the Br Third Army area. Sept 20, the Corps is ordered to join the Br

¹ During April 1918 the Germans launched an offensive along the Lys River which was successful in driving a salient into the Allied position south of Ypres. The Allies, counter-attacking July 18th in the Aisne-Marne theatre, Aug 18th in the Oise-Aisne Operation, and in the operations by the British beginning the same month against Amiens, Bapaume, and Scarpe River, drive the Germans back along the entire front making it necessary for them to shorten their lines in the Lys salient. The British Second Army operating against this salient compel further withdrawals and during the night Aug 29-30 the Germans retire rapidly along the entire Lys front so that by Sept 2d most of the salient has been recovered.

² Since Aug 8th the British and French Armies have been attacking the German positions with marked success and by the middle of September the British have reached the outer defenses of the German Hindenburg position. Marshal Foch's plan for simultaneous and convergent offensives along the Western Front begins: Sept 26, the American First and French Fourth Armies launch their offensive between the Meuse and Champagne; Sept 27, the British Third and Fourth Armies attack the Hindenburg Line near Cambrai. Sept 28, the British attack in Flanders. Sept 29, the British Fourth Army, with the French First Army on its left, launches the main British attack, and it is with this Army that the American II Corps is affiliated.

During the afternoon the Australian support divisions reinforce the American troops in the front line and make additional gains in the sector of the 30th Div. Sept 30, the Australian divisions assume control, while elements of both forces are in the front line and American troops remain in support. Oct 1, the American divisions withdraw to the vicinity of Péronne for reorganization.

Oct 1-5, the Australian Corps continues the attack. Night Oct 1/2, a brigade of the Australian 2d Div relieves the Australian 5th Div. Oct 3, the Br XIII Corps relieves the Br III Corps; the Australian 2d Div, which holds the front of the Australian Corps extending from Joncourt to Mont-St-Martin, attacks and reaches a line from Montbrehain through Beaufort to Guisancourt Fme (all excl). Night Oct 3/4, a brigade of the Br 50th Div (Br XIII Corps) relieves the Australian 3d Div, and troops of the same Corps relieve units of the Australian 2d Div north of Torrens Canal and la Motte Fme. Oct 4, Beaufort is attacked. Night Oct 4/5, the Australian 2d Div extends the corps front to the right by relieving units of the Br IX Corps north of a point $1\frac{1}{4}$ km southeast of Ramicourt. Oct 5, the Australian Corps captures Montbrehain, and the Br XIII Corps takes Beaufort.

Oct 5-6, the 30th Div moves into line from army reserve and relieves the Australian 2d Div from Montbrehain to Beaufort. Oct 6, the ¹ Oct. 8, Br GHQ orders this general assault, participated in by the Br Thrd and Fourth Armies, to exploit successes thus far gained in the attacks against the Hindenburg Line. This attack is launched more specifically for the purpose of impeding the retirement which the Germans are forced to make as the successful operations of the American First and French Fourth Army in the Champagne-Meuse, coupled with the success of the Allies in northern France, have widened the breach in the Hindenburg Line.

RECORD OF EVENTS

ORGANIZATION AND TRAINING, MAR 30—AUG 3, 1918

Mar 30, GHQ, AEF, designates Lt Col Alfred W. Bjornstad as Chief of Staff of the III Corps, in addition to his duties at the Army General Staff College at Langres. During Apr, personnel is assigned to the corps hq, which functions directly under GHQ. Apr 13, the 3d Div, then arriving in the 9th (Châteauvillain) Training Area, is attached. May 1, the 5th Div, which is landing in France, is attached. May 4, the 5th Div opens its hq in the 13th (Bar-sur-Aube) Training Area. May 15, a corps replacement bn is authorized. During May, corps hq supervises the training of 3d and 5th Divs. May 30, the 3d Div moves to the zone of the Fr Sixth Army near Château-Thierry, to participate in the Aisne Operation; the 5th Div receives orders to move to the Fr Seventh Army in the Vosges, and passes to the I Corps; part of the corps staff, including the Chief of Staff, moves from Langres to Mussy-sur-Seine. June 1-10, the officers of corps staff observe current operations. June 10, the Corps is directed to supervise training and exercise administrative control, but not tactical command, of American troops serving in the zone of the Fr Seventh Army, the front of which extends from near Montbéliard on the Swiss border to Badonviller in Haute Alsace. [June 11, the Corps Replacement Bn is in operation at Laignes.] June 13, the corps hq, now in the Fr Seventh Army zone, assumes training supervision and administrative control of the 5th and 32d Divs, which are in line in the Anould and Center Sectors under tactical control of the Fr XXXIII and Fr XL Corps (Fr Seventh Army); and 35th Div, which is arriving in the army zone from a British area en route to the Fr XXXIII Corps. June 17, Maj Gen William M. Wright assumes command. June 25, GHQ announces the organization of III Corps. [June 26, the Corps Replacement Bn moves to Bains-les-Bains.] July 7, GHQ notifies the Corps Commander that his staff will be transferred and a new staff formed at Remiremont, pursuant to the plan of organizing the American First Army near Château-Thierry. July 8, Chief of Staff is directed to proceed to the 1st Div, near Beauvais, and report to Maj Gen Robert L. Bullard, Commanding; the 1st and 2d Divs are designated to constitute components of the new III Corps. July 9,

RECORD OF EVENTS

Maj Gen Bullard is designated as III Corps Commander. July 12, the corps staff leaves Remiremont. July 14, Maj Gen Bullard assumes command at Meaux, in the zone of the Fr Sixth Army; III Corps hq is attached to the French army and kept temporarily in reserve; the 1st and 2d Divs are attached to the Corps, and move toward Soissons to participate in an attack of the Fr Tenth Army directed against the western face of the Marne salient. [The Champagne-Marne and Aisne-Marne Operations delay the formation of the First Army.] July 15, the corps hq moves into the Fr Tenth Army zone west of Soissons, and assists the French in the control of the 1st and 2d Divs, which are preparing to attack under the tactical command of the Fr XX Corps. July 20, the 2d Div moves to an area between Soissons and Compiègne and passes to army reserve. July 23, the 32d Div, en route from the Vosges to the Fr Tenth Army, is assigned; the 1st Div is withdrawing from the front. July 24, the corps hq moves to a rest area near the 1st and 2d Divs, and supervises their training. [The Corps Replacement Bn moves to Pontoise.] July 26, the 32d Div passes to the I Corps. July 30, the corps hq, after releasing the 1st and 2d Divs, moves to the Fr Sixth Army zone northeast of Château-Thierry, and temporarily affiliates with Hq Fr XXXVIII Corps in the Aisne-Marne Operation pending the latter's relief. July 31, the 3d, 28th and 32d Divs, which are under the tactical command of the Fr XXXVIII Corps, are attached.

CORPS OPERATIONS, AUG 4-NOV 11, 1918

Aug 4-6, the Corps participates in the Aisne-Marne Operation.—Aug 4, the Corps relieves the Fr XXXVIII Corps (Fr Sixth Army) northeast of Château-Thierry, assumes tactical command of the 3d Div (less 6th Inf Brig, attached to the Fr III Corps) in a rear area south of the Marne, of the 28th Div in support on the Marne, and of the 32d Div, in the front line extending from St-Gilles to the vicinity of Villesavoye; the Fr III and American I Corps (Fr Sixth Army) are on the right and left, respectively. On this day the 32d Div enters Fismes and approaches the Vesle River.

RECORD OF EVENTS

ORGANIZATION AND TRAINING, JULY 7-AUG 20, 1918

July 7, GHQ, AEF, notifies Maj Gen William M. Wright, in command of the III Corps at Remiremont which is charged with the administration and training of the American troops in the Fr Seventh Army zone, that his Corps will be redesignated the V Corps, that he will command the new V Corps, and that he will receive a new staff. July 8, Col Wilson B. Burtt, upon appointment as Chief of Staff of the new V Corps, proceeds to Remiremont. July 10, CORPS HEADQUARTERS. the organization of the new V Corps staff begins. Remiremont, Vosges, July 12, 1918. the organization of the V Corps receives the approval of GHQ, whereupon the III Corps staff leaves for Fr Sixth Army zone. July 14, GHQ redesignates the III Corps as the V Corps; and the new corps hq exercises the same administrative control over the American troops in the Fr Seventh Army zone as the old III Corps. (The Fr Seventh Army alternates American and French divisions on the line from the Swiss border near Montbéliard to Badonviller. The 5th and 35th Divs are in line under the Fr XXXIII Corps, and the 32d Div is in line under the Fr XL Corps). The III Corps Replacement Bn furnishes the necessary personnel to organize a V Corps Replacement Bn at Bains-les-Bains. July 18, the V Corps staff sections assemble at Remiremont, where they attend conferences with the French and study the situation; the 29th Div arrives in the army zone. July 22, the 32d Div passes to the French, and leaves the army zone. July 25, the 29th Div moves into line under the Fr XL Corps. Aug 1, the Corps Replacement Bn moves to Froidos. Aug 9, the plans for the formation of the First Army contemplate the use of the V Corps in the St-Mihiel Operation. Aug 12, the 92d Div arrives in the army zone. Aug 16, the V Corps receives information that the hq of a VII Corps is to be organized at V Corps Hq, and that Maj Gen George H. Cameron will command the V Corps when its staff is relieved by that of the new VII Corps.

Aug 19, GHQ formally announces the organization of the V Corps under command of Maj Gen Cameron; Maj Gen Ligny-en-Barrois, Meuse, Aug 19, 1918. Wright then assumes command of the new VII Corps; the V Corps staff moves to a new hq at Ligny-en-Barrois for the impending operations.

RECORD OF EVENTS

CORPS OPERATIONS, AUG 21, NOV 11, 1918

Aug 21, Maj Gen Cameron assumes command of the V Corps; plans are being prepared for the St-Mihiel operation. Aug 26, the Corps staff proceeds to the western face of the St-Mihiel salient, where it opens a hq southeast of Souilly and studies the sector which it is to take over from the French. Aug 27, the 3d Div in the 1st (Gondrecourt), the 4th Div in the 4th (Rimaucourt), the 26th Div in the 12th (Mussy-sur-Seine), and the 80th Div in the 14th (Aignay-le-Duc) Training Areas, and the 33d Div which is in rear of the Fr II Cl Corps, near Bar-le-Duc are assigned. Aug 28, the 26th Div leaves for the St-Mihiel theatre, and on the following day, reaches the Vavincourt Area, north of Bar-le-Duc, in the zone of the Fr Second Army.

Aug 29-Sept 11, the Corps occupies a defensive sector in Lorraine. Aug 29, the Corps takes over portions of the sectors of the Fr XIII and Fr II Cl Corps (Fr Second Army) southeast of Verdun-sur-Meuse, and assumes tactical command of the Fr 2d Dismounted Cav Div, and units of the Fr 10th Cl Div, which are holding the line from a point 2 km east of Mouilly to Haudiomont; the Fr II Cl and Fr XIII Corps (Fr Second Army) are on the right and left, respectively. Aug 30, the First Army relieves the Fr Second Army south of Watronville and assumes command of the V Corps, which becomes the left of the army; the 4th Div replaces the 26th Div in the Vavincourt Area and the latter moves to the Sommedieue Area. The corps front is extended to the north to include Watronville.

ORGANIZATION AND TRAINING, JULY 23-OCT 22, 1918

July 23, GHQ, AEF, notifies Maj Gen Omar Bundy that he will be designated as the temporary Corps Commander, and on July 26, appoints Col Briant H. Wells as Chief of Staff of the VI Corps.

July 30, Col Wells arrives at Neufchâteau in the 2d Training Area, and on Aug 1, opens the corps hq. The organization of this hq is completed during the month. Aug 12, the VI Corps relieves the IV Corps hq at Neufchâteau, and takes control of the training of the 6th Div in the 9th (Châteauvillain) Training Area, the 36th Div in the 13th (Bar-sur-Aube) Training Area, the 79th Div in the 10th (Prauthoy) Training Area, and the 91st Div in the 8th (Nogent-en-Bassigny) Training Area. Aug 13, the hq moves to the 11th

(Bourbonne-les-Bains) Training Area, southeast of GHQ. Aug 19, GHQ confirms the corps organization and designates Maj Gen Bundy as temporary

Corps Commander. Aug 23, the Corps assumes administrative control of the divisions. Aug 26, the First Army assumes administrative control of the Corps; Maj Gen Bundy assumes command of Corps. During late Aug and early Sept, the staff holds conferences in Belfort and formulates plans for an offensive, while the troops reconnoiter the front lines, in order to make it appear to the enemy that an attack is pending toward Mulhouse from the vicinity of Belfort, and thereby divert attention from the St-Mihiel salient. Aug 27, the 6th Div moves to the Fr Seventh Army zone and passes to the VII Corps. Sept 2, the 7th Div in the 15th (Ancy-le-Franc), the 81st Div in the 16th (Tonnerre), and the 88th Div moving into the 21st (Semur), Training Areas, are attached to the Corps. Sept 6, the 91st Div, selected as part of the First Army reserve, moves via Gondrecourt toward the St-Mihiel salient. Sept 8, a Corps Replacement Bn, including units at Chalindrey, Torcenay, and Culmont, is formed in order to furnish replacements for the divisions. Sept 9, the 79th Div, en route to the Fr Second Army, is detached. Sept 14, the 81st and 88th Divs move toward the Fr Seventh Army, and are released. Sept 15, the Corps relinquishes its duties in the training areas and the staff moves to the hq of the I Corps in order to take over a part of the Toul Sector upon formation of the Second Army. [Sept 17, the hq of the Replacement Bn moves to

ORGANIZATION AND TRAINING, AUG 16-NOV 8, 1918

Aug 16, GHQ, AEF, designates Maj Gen William M. Wright as the temporary Corps Commander. Aug 19, Maj CORPS HEADQUARTERS. Gen Wright assumes command, and the VII Corps Remiremont, Vosges, relieves the V Corps from the administrative control Aug 19, 1918. and training supervision of the American troops in the Fr Seventh Army zone. The 5th and 35th Divs, under the Fr XXXIII Corps, and the 29th Div, under the Fr XL Corps, alternate with French divisions in the line on the quiet front extending from Montbéliard, near the Swiss border, to Badonviller. The 92d Div prepares to enter the line. Aug 23, the 5th Div is withdrawn from the line. Aug 27, the 6th Div arrives and begins to relieve the 35th Div. Aug 29 and Sept 4, the 5th and 35th Divs, respectively, move to the First Army. Sept 15 and 18, the 88th and 81st Divs arrive in the zone of the Fr Seventh Army. Sept 22 and 23, the 92d and 29th Divs, respectively, move to the First Army. Sept 28, a corps replacement battalion is organized at Bains-les-Bains. Oct 5, the Corps creates the administrative sectors of Remiremont, Bains-les-Bains, Belfort, Epinal, Granges, and St-Dié. Oct 12, the Corps is now under the Second Army for supply; the 6th Div withdraws from the line, trains in the army area until Oct 26, and then moves to the First Army. Nov 1, the 81st Div is transferred. Nov 5, the Regional Replacement Bn absorbs the Corps Replacement Bn; a rearrangement of the administrative sectors leaves under Corps control the sectors of Epinal, Granges, Vagney, Giromagny, and Bains-les-Bains. Nov 8, Benoitevaux, Meuse, the corps hq and corps troops, after relief from Nov 8, 1918. duties in the Fr Seventh Army zone, move to the First Army; the 88th Div is detached.

POST-ARMISTICE ACTIVITIES, NOV 12, 1918-MAY 11, 1919

Nov 13-21, the Corps functions under the First Army. Nov 13, the reserve divisions of the First Army, including the 3d Div in the Tronville-en-Barrois Area, the 29th Div in the Vavincourt Area, the 36th Div in the Triaucourt Area, the 78th Div in the Verrières Area, and the 80th Div in Les Islettes Area, are assigned to the Corps. Nov 14, the 26th Div, en route from the army front to the Laheycourt, Meuse, Souilly Area, is attached. Nov 15, the corps hq moves Nov 15, 1918. to the region northwest of Bar-le-Duc; the 3d Div passes to the Second Army, and the 78th Div, en route to the 21st

RECORD OF EVENTS

CORPS OPERATIONS, SEPT 22-NOV 11, 1918

Sept 22-Oct 7, the Corps occupies a defensive sector in Lorraine.¹ Sept 22, the Fr XVII Corps comes under control of the First Army, when this army relieves the Fr Second Army between Mesnil-sous-les-Côtes and La Harazée. The corps sector includes the region about Verdun-sur-Meuse and its front extends from Mesnil-sous-les-Côtes, through Haudiomont, Watronville, La Fièveterie, Bezonvaux, Beaumont and Samogneux, to the Meuse River; the Fr 15th Cl Div, with hq at Sommedieue, holds the line from Mesnil-sous-les-Côtes to Moulainville-la-Basse; the Fr 10th Cl Div, with hq at Belrupt, is on the left as far as Bezonvaux; and the Fr 18th Div, with hq at Belleville, extends this line to the Meuse; the defenses of Verdun-sur-Meuse are under the tactical command of the Corps; the Fr 26th Div is in rear area of Corps with hq at Ancefont. The Fr II Cl Corps and American III Corps are on the right and left, respectively.

CORPS HEADQUARTERS.

FOREWORD

Mar 15, 1918, Treaty of Brest-Litovsk is ratified, providing for Russian withdrawal from World War. Immediately thereafter, Murmansk Soviet, with authority of Central Soviet, begins negotiations with Allied representatives in North Russia, seeking intervention to protect Murmansk railroad threatened with capture by Finnish White Guard. During Mar and Apr, Great Britain sends small force of engineers and marines to guard this railroad as far south as Kandalaksha. Mar 23, Allies receive word that force of more than 25,000 Czecho-Slovak soldiers are proceeding across Russia toward Cheliabinsk, from Ukraine, en route to North Russian ports, where they hope to embark for France and join Allied armies. Apr 27, Supreme War Council, in Joint Note 25, recommends transportation to France of Czechs through ports of Archangel and Murmansk, voting June 2 (Joint Note No 31) for intervention at said ports, an inter-allied force of six battalions under British command to be used. The original objectives are to establish a rallying point for Czech troops in Russia, to guard stores assembled for the Imperial Russian armies, and to prevent the establishment of German submarine bases. The Czechs are expected to furnish the majority of the necessary troops. Pending transport to France, it is planned to hold the Czech army temporarily at Archangel and Murmansk. A Mission is organized in England, consisting of about 500 troops under Maj Gen F. C. Poole, to train and equip the Czechs when they arrive at Archangel; another detachment of about 600 infantrymen, machine gunners, and engineers, under Maj Gen C. M. Maynard, is to take station at Murmansk. May 24, Gen Poole arrives at Murmansk and shortly thereafter becomes Commander-in-Chief of all Allied forces in North Russia, there being contingents from Great Britain, France, and Serbia in Murmansk at this time. In June, Bolshevist forces attack the Czechs near Ekaterinburg and prevent further movement of the Czechs toward North Russian ports. June 23, the force under Gen Maynard arrives at Murmansk. July 17, President Wilson agrees to furnish an American contingent of three battalions of infantry and a battalion of engineers to the North Russia Expedition of the Allies and on July 22 the War Department directs Gen Pershing to organize the American contingent. July 31, an Allied force numbering about 1400 troops of eleven nationalities under Gen Poole sails from

RECORD OF EVENTS

Murmansk for Archangel; the United States is represented with a detachment of 50 sailors commanded by Capt Bion B. Bierer of the U S S "Olympia." Aug 1, the Bolshevik rule is overthrown by the Russians in the Archangel District. A new government, "The Provisional Government of the Northern Provinces," including the Murmansk District, is set up. Aug 3, the expedition under Gen Poole arrives at Archangel and during the late summer and autumn detachments are engaged in frequent affairs with troops of the Bolshevik military forces.

AMERICAN ARCHANGEL CONTINGENT

July 30, Gen Pershing, by order of the President, selects the 339th Inf, the 1st Bn 310th Engrs, and adds the 337th F Hosp, and the 337th Amb Co, all from the 85th Div arriving in Europe, to form the expedition. These units are assembled and equipped at Cowshott Camp, Surrey, England. Aug 9, 1918, these units are officially designated to form the "Murmansk Expedition," with Lt Col George Evans Stewart (later Col) of the 339th Inf as commanding officer of the expedition. Aug 27, 1918, the expedition, 143 officers and 4344 enlisted men, sails from Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, arrives Archangel, North Russia, Sept 4, where, with other Allied forces, it becomes part of the command of Maj Gen F. C. Poole, British Army. American Headquarters is established at Archangel. Distribution of American troops begins along a front 450 miles long, extending from Onega in the west to Pinega in the east, and at some points 200 miles distant from the Archangel base. Elements of the 339th Inf and attached units operate with the Allied forces to cover the main avenues of approach to Archangel from the south as follows: on the Onega River near Chekuevo; on the railway from Archangel to Vologda near Obozerskaya; on the Vaga River at Shenhursk and Ust Padenga; on the Dvina River at Toulgas; and on the Pinega River at Pinega. These forces are opposed by the Bolshevik Sixth Army. Sept 12, 1918, the expedition is redesignated "American North Russia Expeditionary Forces." Sept 30, 1918, reinforcements, consisting of 17 officers and 486 enlisted men from the 85th Division, join. Between Sept 1918 and May 1919 many minor operations take place against the Bolshevik forces resulting in more than 500 American casualties. Oct 26, 1918, Maj Gen Edmund Ironside, British Army, succeeds Maj Gen Poole as commander of the Allied force. Apr 9, 1919, the American contingent is again redesignated, becoming the "American Expeditionary Force, North Russia"; Brig Gen Wilds P. Richardson assumes command of all American troops in North Russia, supreme command however continuing with the British. During May the Archangel contingent is concentrated in the region of that town preparatory to return to the United States. June 3, 1919, the contingent begins moving via Brest to the United States. June 27, 1919, last element, the 1st Bn of the 310th Engrs, sails for Brest, en route to United States.

THE MURMANSK CONTINGENT

The 167th and 168th Cos, Transportation Corps, in the Murmansk Region

ORGANIZATION

Feb 12, 1919, President Wilson, upon initiative of British Government, decides to send two companies of railway troops (720 officers and enlisted men) to operate and maintain the Murmansk Railway in North Russia, so that a line of withdrawal for the icebound Allied force at Archangel might be kept open. The companies, the 167th (Operations) and 168th (Maintenance) Cos Transportation Corps, forming the "North Russia Transportation Corps Expeditionary Forces," are organized and equipped at St-Pierre-des-Corps, France. Mar 5, 1919, Maj Edward E. MacMorland, CAC, is designated to command the contingent, the actual tactical commander in North Russia being Maj Gen C. M. Maynard, Br Commander-in-Chief of the Murmansk region. Administrative control is vested in Maj Gen Wilds P. Richardson. Mar 10, 1919, the contingent leaves St-Pierre-des-Corps for Park Royal Camp, near London, England, where organization is completed and arctic equipment issued. Mar 17, 1919, the 168th Co embarks at Hull, England, and arrives Murmansk, North Russia, March 25. Apr 1, 9, 1919, the 167th Co embarks at Harwich, England, and arrives Murmansk, April 8, 17.

The expedition, except a detachment left at Murmansk (the base port) for construction work, begins operation and maintenance of the Murmansk-Petrograd Railway from Soroka, where headquarters is established, reconstructing the track and telegraph line, and carrying forward railway operations as the Allied troops advance. Detachments, detailed for combat duty operating an armored train between May and July 1919, participate in several minor engagements with the Bolshevik Seventh Army, during the Allied advance to Lake Onega. July 12, 1919, railroad operation and maintenance are transferred to the Russians. July 28, 1919, the companies embark at Murmansk for Brest, France, arriving there Aug 5, sailing thereafter Aug 8, as casual companies, for the United States. Aug 5, 1919, Hq AEF North Russia is discontinued.

RECORD OF EVENTS

FOREWORD

Early in 1918, Allies contemplate dispatching to Siberia an expedition around which Allied adherents in that country might rally and reestablish an eastern military front along which the enemy would be compelled to maintain large forces. At this time President Wilson discusses with Sec of War Baker the advisability of contributing a small American military force with limited objectives to the proposed expedition. In the summer of 1918, United States Government decides to join in limited military action in Siberia and in pursuance of this decision suggests to Government of Japan, with concurrence of other Allied powers, that United States and Japan each send a few thousand men to Vladivostok, Siberia, to assist the Russians in that region to regain control of their own affairs, and to aid friendly Czecho-Slovaks who have broken away from Austria and who are represented by the Allies as being in danger from followers of the Soviet Government. Japanese Government agrees.

ORGANIZATION

July 1918, War Dept designates 27th and 31st Regts of Inf (91 officers and 2692 enlisted men), in the Philippines, for duty in Siberia, and directs Maj Gen William S. Graves to select 5000 sturdy, well-trained infantrymen from 8th Div at Camp Fremont, Calif, to bring these two regiments to war strength. Aug 3, Sec of War, at Kansas City, Mo, instructs Gen Graves to proceed to Vladivostok and assume command of American military forces, with orders to guard military stores at Vladivostok, aid the Czecho-Slovaks, and help the Russians, if they desire help, in any effort at self-government or self-defense. These orders specifically forbid Gen Graves to intervene or take sides in Russian politics. War Dept orders Philippine Dept to send 27th and 31st Regts of Inf, a field hospital, an ambulance company, and Co D 53d Tel Bn, together with staff and intelligence personnel, to Vladivostok. Aug 6, War Dept designates Evac Hosp 17, Med Sup Depot 7, two sections of Bakery Co 391, a veterinary field unit, and a headquarters detachment, for service with AEF in Siberia. Aug 7, the 27th Inf, Col Henry D. Styer commanding, sails from Manila for Vladivostok; Aug 12, the 31st Inf, Col Frederic H. Sargent commanding, follows. Aug 14, Gen Graves, with 43 officers and 1888 enlisted men, leaves Camp Fremont, and sails from San Francisco for Siberia. Aug 15-16, the 27th Inf arrives at Vladivostok and Col Styer organizes the staff and headquarters for the AEF in Siberia. Aug 18, Gen Kikuzo Otani, Japanese commander-in-chief, informs Allied commanders that Allied powers have intrusted him with supreme command of Allied forces in the Far East. Joint military operations begin immediately under Japanese command.

RECORD OF EVENTS

OPERATIONS

Aug 18, 1918, Cos F and G, 27th Inf, land and begin work as railroad guards between Vladivostok and Nikolsk-Ussuri; remainder of regiment moves into quarters in Vladivostok. Aug 21, the 31st Inf moves into quarters in Vladivostok; its 3d Bn begins relieving 27th Inf railroad guard. Aug 24-Sept 16, the 27th Inf participates in an Allied advance to Ussuri and Habarovsk; units of it form the eastern flank guard of the main force as far as Ussuri; a detachment of two companies accompanies a Japanese force west along the Trans-Siberian Railroad from Habarovsk to Ushumun, rejoining main force of 27th Inf at Habarovsk Oct 10. Sept 2, Gen Graves arrives at Vladivostok, assumes command of AEF in Siberia, and notifies Gen Otani that he desires to cooperate with the Japanese, but has no orders to place American troops under Japanese command. About 1200 replacements, fresh from U.S., join the 27th Inf. Sept 14, 18, F Hosp 4, Amb Co 4, and Co D, 53d Tel Bn arrive at Vladivostok from Manila. Sept 29, with the arrival of 98 officers and 3584 enlisted men from San Francisco, the American force is complete; total strength on this date, 253 officers and 8699 enlisted men. During Oct American troops begin garrison duty and throughout winter 31st Inf, less Cos B, F, G, L, and M, is stationed in Vladivostok area. Co B is at Harbin, Cos F and G at Spasskoe, Co L at Razdolnee, and Co M at Suchan mine. The 27th Inf, less the 1st Bn, is stationed at Habarovsk; Co E assumes charge of the Krasnaya Rechka prisoner of war camp, near Habarovsk, and reorganizes it for the welfare of some 2000 Austro-Hungarian prisoners; 1st Bn is stationed at Spasskoe with one platoon at Ussuri.

Early in 1919, accord is reached among the Allies to use the Russian Railway Service Corps, which begins to supervise the railroad activities along the Trans-Siberian and Chinese-Eastern Railways within the zone of Allied operations. (The Russian Railway Service Corps is a group of trained railroadmen, under Colonel George Emerson, drawn from the railroads of the United States, who have been in the Far East more than a year for the purpose of assisting Russian railroad operations.) Spring of 1919, Allies decide to divide the Siberian railways into guard sectors to assure maintenance and operation, control to be delegated to Japanese, Chinese and American troops. Japanese guard the major portion of the railways, controlling the sections between Nikolsk-Ussuri and Spasskoe (both inclusive), between Guberovo and Verhnudinsk (both exclusive), and between Manchuria (exclusive) and Karymakaya (inclusive); total, 2,500 miles. The Chinese sections extend from Ussuri to Guberovo (both inclusive), from Nikolsk-Ussuri (exclusive) to Manchuria (inclusive), and from Harbin south to Chanchun (both inclusive), total, 1,225 miles. Americans in Apr assume control of several widely separated sections, totaling 316 miles, as follows: Vladivostok (inclusive) to Nikolsk-Ussuri (exclusive) and a branch line from Ugolnaya (inclusive) to the Suchan mine; Spasskoe (exclusive), about 100 miles north of Vladivostok, northward to Ussuri (exclusive); and a section about 1700 miles by railroad west of Vladivostok, near Lake Baikal, from Verhnudinsk to Mysovaya. After Americans assume these duties, there are several encounters with armed partisans, which result in the death of 36 Americans.

On July 1, 1919, the AEF in Siberia comprises 338 officers and about 8050 men, 17 female nurses, and 17 field clerks. At Vladivostok are 115 officers and 1972 enlisted men, as follows: Hq AEF in Siberia; Hq Co less the one-pounder and signal sections, MG Co less two platoons, Sup Co, one platoon from Co A, Co G, and one platoon from Co I, all of the 31st Inf; Amb Co 4, F Hosp 4, Evac Hosp 17, Co D Training Bn, detachments of engineers, signal corps, quartermaster corps, veterinary corps, dental corps, nurses, field clerks. Co B, 31st Inf is on detached service at Harbin. Guarding the railroad section between Vladivostok and Nikolsk-Ussuri are 16 officers, 521 enlisted men comprising Cos F and L, 31st Inf. Guarding railroad from Ugolnaya to and including the Suchan mines, 72 officers, 1860 enlisted men, as follows: Cos A less one platoon, C, D, E, H, I less one platoon, K, M, two machine gun platoons and one signal section, all 31st Inf, with medical detachment. Col Frederic H. Sargent is commanding the base at Vladivostok and these two railroad sectors. Guarding the railroad between Spasskoe and Ussuri, Col Robert H. Sillman commanding, 61 officers, 1648 enlisted men, comprising Cos C, D, E, F, G, H, and MG detachment, all 27th Inf, with medical detachment. Guarding railroad from Verhndinsk to Mysovaya, Col Charles H. Morrow commanding, 65 officers, 2047 enlisted men, as follows: Hq, Hq Co, Sup Co, MG Co, Cos A, B, I, K, L, M, all 27th Inf, with medical detachment. With the exception of the withdrawal of American troops in the Suchan mine area, completed Aug 20, these dispositions remain practically unchanged until concentration for withdrawal begins.

RECORD OF EVENTS

RETURN TO THE UNITED STATES

December 31, American forces receive orders to withdraw and outlying garrisons begin concentrating at Vladivostok. Jan 16-29, 1920, American troops at Verhndinsk, who have been aiding the withdrawal of Czecho-Slovak troops from west Siberia, proceed to Vladivostok, last units arriving Vladivostok Feb 25. Jan 17, first units of American force, six companies 27th Inf, sail from Vladivostok for Manila. Feb 15, Mar 10, 20, and 31, additional detachments embark at Vladivostok. Apr 1, Hq AEF in Siberia, together with all remaining units of expedition, sails from Vladivostok for Manila.

 RECORD OF EVENTS

 AMERICAN FORCES IN FRANCE

AF IN F FUNCTIONS AS LIQUIDATING AGENCY FOR THE AEF IN EUROPE (GERMANY, GRAND DUCHY OF LUXEMBURG, AND BELGIUM EXCEPTED), SEPT 1, 1919-JAN 1, 1920

1919

Aug 22, 1919, GHQ, AEF, designates, effective Sept 1, the "American Forces in France" (AF in F) to comprise all organizations and personnel of the AEF in Europe not assigned to American Forces in Germany. AF in F is to continue the existing activities of the SOS in repatriating more than 50,000 soldiers and closing out the remaining American installations, liquidating surplus supplies,¹ adjusting thousands of claims by civilians against the United States arising out of our military participation,² repatriating German prisoners of war,³ carrying on cemeterial work,⁴ and matters incidental to final liquidation of the AEF.

Sept 1, Brig Gen William D. Connor, until today commander of SOS, assumes command of AF in F, announcing his staff. Base AF in F Headquarters Section No 9 (Antwerp, Belgium) is placed under AF Tours, Indre-et-Loire, in G. Sept 5, Hq US Troops in Arrondissement of France. Sept 1, 1919 Tours abolished. Sept 25, Intermediate Section, AEF, discontinued, its troops and establishments passing to AF in F. Sept 30, Base Section No 2 discontinued, its troops and establishments passing to AF in F. In Sept about 26,000 troops are returned by AF in F to the United States.

In Oct 16, 675 troops are returned by AF in F to United States. Oct 7, Hq District of Paris transferred to Hq Commandant, AF in F. Oct 8, Advance Section, AEF, discontinued, its troops and establishments passing to AF in F. Oct 20, Base Section No 1 (St-Nazaire) discontinued, its troops and establishments passing to AF in F.

¹ An agreement was made between the United States and France July 25, 1919, whereby the United States, for $400,000,000, sold to France its remaining installations, together with surplus property other than that previously sold for $360,000,000 to liberated and allied nations, and corporations. AF in F continued the SOS responsibility for proper delivery to the buyers. It also attended to the return of several hundred thousand tons of property to the United States.

² By agreement made Dec 10, 1919, France substituted herself for the United States as party to such claims growing out of torts, rentals, and requisitions.

³ 38,000 German prisoners of war were being held Sept 1, 1919, and their repatriation was effected between Sept 15-Oct 1, 1919.

⁴ Col Leon B. Kromer, since Aug 1919, had been directing the improvement of the American battlefield cemeteries in France and through concentration had reduced the number of cemeteries from 831 to 512. The QMO took over this work in Dec 1919.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Oct 26, AF in F issues memorandum outlining final phases whereby its troops, installations, lines of communications,⁵ and records will be transferred to the United States, or to other agencies. Reduction of troops is to proceed so that by Nov 30, 1919, only a skeleton force of 95 officers, 201 enlisted men, and 33 Army Field Clerks will remain to attend to final dispositions. American quartermaster depots are to be transferred to the French by Nov 15, and on the same date all field work of the Rents, Requisition and Claims Service must be completed; Finance Bureau to be absorbed by QMC. Principal main lines of communication must be turned over by the Chief Signal Officer by Nov 20, a date set also for military personnel serving the Polish Relief Expedition to be transferred to control of American Forces in Germany. By this date all AEF records, with minor exceptions, must be dispatched to the United States. The Hq Commandant is to have office space available for the skeleton force functioning from Dec 1 to Dec 31, closing his own office permanently Dec 1. Curtailment of Base Section No 5 (Brest) activities and personnel is to proceed with object of discontinuing it at close of Dec 1919, remaining personnel of AF in F to be returned home through Port of Antwerp.

In Nov 4700 troops depart for the United States and, on Nov 30, remaining personnel is placed on commutation of rations and quarters.

Dec 1, American military mail service is discontinued, the French postal authorities thereafter handling mail for AF in F; Postal Express Service is transferred to AF in G. Dec 18, Graves Registration Service activities and personnel transferred to QMC. Dec 31, SS George Washington leaves Brest with troops of AF in F for United States; Base Section No 5 is then discontinued as a port of embarkation for United States. At midnight all sections and services of the AF in F are discontinued except a small force handling final disposition of personnel, supplies, and records; a cadre of 27 officers, 12 enlisted men, and 7 Army Field Clerks remaining in France and England indefinitely to complete liquidation. In Dec return of AF in F to United States is practically completed with departure of 3000 troops.

Jan 1, Provisional District of Great Britain discontinued, and the United States Army Liquidation Mission in England created from its ⁵ About July 20, 1919, main line of railroad operation between Tours and Le Mans was abandoned by the Americans and no service thereafter was operated by them east of Le Mans. Aug 1, 1919, the 14th Railway Grand Div, Hq Nantes, discontinued operations; Aug 5, the 13th Railway Grand Div, Hq Is-sur-Tille; Aug 15, the 15th Railway Grand Div, Hq Gièvres; Aug 23, the 16th Railway Grand Div, Hq Le Mans.

RECORD OF EVENTS

remaining personnel, to be commanded by Lt Col Junnius Pierce, to be attached to the Office of the Military Attaché, American Embassy, London, but to operate independently. In France administrative control and direction of continuing activities of permanent liquidation personnel now rest with the Military Attaché, American Embassy, Paris. Jan 8, Hq AF in F discontinued; Brig Gen Connor and members of staff sail Jan 11 from Antwerp, Belgium, for the United States.

RECORD OF EVENTS

AF IN G FUNCTIONS IN GERMANY AS THE AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, JULY 3, 1919-JAN 27, 1923
1919

July 3, 1919, Third Army having been dissolved July 2, 1919 the staff and troops remaining in Germany are designated "American Forces in Germany" (AF in G). Maj Gen Edward F. McGlachlin, Jr, assumes temporary command, pending arrival of Maj Gen Henry T. Allen, selected as permanent commander. AF in G takes over the former Third Army area, comprising the North Sector of the Coblenz bridgehead and the area to the west of the Rhine. The 1st and 2d Divs are in the Coblenz bridgehead, the 3d Div on the left bank of the Rhine River, adjacent to the bridgehead, between Coblenz and Brohl. The 4th Div (under SOS) is preparing to move from the Kreis of Ahrweiler to Brest, the 5th Div (under SOS) from Luxemburg to Brest. American military police companies are stationed within former Third Army limits,¹ one to each Kreis, assisting AF in G in its civil administration of occupied territory. The Fr Tenth Army is on the right of the American zone, the British Army of the Rhine to its left. July 5, 2d Div released to SOS for return to United States. July 9, 5th Div clears the area. July 10, the 1st Div area is expanded to include the entire American sector in the bridgehead, effective upon departure of III Corps and 2d Div units from present stations; the perimeter guard by the 2d Div, in the bridgehead, to be taken over by 1st Div by July 11. July 13, 8th Inf arrives from France to become part of the permanent American force of occupation which is being organized through Oct; during the same period army, corps, and divisional troops are leaving for the United States. July 14, 4th Div clears the area. July 19, the 1st Div occupies the bridgehead. On the same day the port commander's office at Coblenz is discontinued, G-4 AF in G hereafter handling SOS matters, including supply, transportation, depots at Bendorf and Andernach, and railheads, coördinating these agencies. Signal corps land telephone and telegraph service to France is discontinued. July 21, 2d Div clears area. July 24, 1st Div hq moves from Montaubaur to Neuwied. July 25, 3d Div is released to SOS and moves to Brest Aug 5. Aug 8, the 1st Div is transferred to SOS, and on Aug 12 the Fr 38th Div relieves it in bridgehead, allowing it to move Aug 21 to Brest.³ Aug 21, a permanent military police detachment is created to take care of the entire occupied area.

Sept 3, those Kreise lying in the Regierungsbezirk of Trier, together with the Kreise on the left bank of the Rhine (part of the Regierungsbezirk of Coblenz heretofore in the American area), are transferred to the French Army of Occupation. Sept 18, Quartermaster Depot, Coblenz-Lützel, absorbs the Sinzig Depot. Sept 20, the Chief QM, AF in G, now operates the Andernach and Bendorf depots directly without recourse to G-4 AF in G. Other important activities during Sept include, in addition to regular military and civil government routine duties,³ the sale of 13,000 surplus animals to Bavarians; closing of the Wengerohr Remount Station and return of its squadrons to the United States; discharge of 750 officers and 35,000 enlisted men of the German Army transported into the American area from France; consolidation and abolishment of supply agencies; and surplus property sales.

Oct—troop departures reduce AF in G to a permanent occupation force of less than 10,000 men. Civil affairs in the Kreise of Coblenz, Ahrweiler, Adenau, Cochem, Neuwied, Montabaur, and Mayen continue to be supervised by American civil affairs officers. Shipments of surplus property sold to Poland are sent out of the area, also large quantities of supplies are shipped to Warsaw for Polish typhus relief.

Nov—Brig Gen W. H. Sage, detailed to command an expedition to North Silesia, arrives with his staff from the United States together with a provisional brigade of infantry (5th and 50th Regts of Inf and a mg bn) which are to proceed to the Polish plebiscite region;⁴ these organizations take temporary stations at Andernach, Mayen and vicinity. Two brigades are formed from units now with AF in G as follows—1st Brig: Brig Hq, 8th Inf, 2d Bn 6th FA, 7th MG Bn, and Mounted Det; 2d Brig: Brig Hq, 5th Inf, 50th Inf, Provisional MG Bn, Co D 1st Engrs, Provisional Sn Tn, Motor Command No 34, Sig Corps Det, Service Park Unit No. 540, Mobile Ordnance Repair Shop

¹ The 1st Div was the last of the American divisions to leave Europe. No territorial organization of civil affairs existed in the American bridgehead during its occupation by combat divisions. Departure of the 1st Div necessitated such an organization and for purposes of administration that part of the Kreis of Altenkirchen lying in the bridgehead was added to the territory under the jurisdiction of the civil affairs officer, Neuwied. Similarly, strips of Kreise of Westerburg and Marienburg were placed under the administration of civil affairs officer of the Kreis Unterwesterwald. The Landkreis and Stadtkreis of Coblenz were united under a single civil affairs office. Companies of 8th Inf relieved Fr 38th Div units in these areas. Elements of 8th Inf and 7th MG Bn, upon withdrawal of 1st Div, took positions in the bridgehead, of importance in possible defense action. Such elements, later, were gradually concentrated, and finally withdrawn to Ehrenbreitstein and Coblenz where the bulk of these organizations were stationed.

² Routine duties comprised troop training, preparations for possible future hostilities, matters in connection with administration of civil government, supervision of enemy activities relating to the occupation and kindred duties performed by AF in G regularly through entire period of occupation.

⁴ Orders changes in Dec 1919 when it became part of AF in G.

RECORD OF EVENTS

No. 12, and Provisional Bakery Unit No. 1. Disciplinary Barracks, AF in G, are organized at Fort Alexander. The facilities of the port of Antwerp, Belgium, are being reorganized so as to function exclusively for the American overseas forces, in contemplation of the closing of the port of Brest.

Dec 31, the port of Brest is discontinued in so far as American activities are concerned; Antwerp, Belgium, now handles all traffic for AF in G.

Jan—peace between the Allies and Germany is concluded. German prisoners of war in France are repatriated through the occupied areas. The Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission now administers civil affairs of occupied areas in place of the Allied Armies. The American army, however, continues its existing policy of administration through its own agencies (civil affairs officers), but in conjunction with the Rhineland High Commission, except in such matters as it considers necessary to control exclusively.⁵ Large quantities of supplies in the Coblenz-Lützel Depot are sold this month to Czecho-Slovakia.

Feb—the Office of Director of Renting, Requisition, and Claims Service is established in AF in G. Telegraph and telephone censorship discontinued throughout the area.

Mar—troop concentration of the AF in G takes place in Ransbach region preparatory to field maneuvers and a review. Thousands of claims received from Germans, under Act of Congress Apr 18, 1918, for damages alleged to have been caused by Third Army.

June—AF in G reorganizes its civil affairs office and takes over the duties of the American civilian representatives on the Inter-Allied High Commission. The American Area for the purpose of the administration of civil affairs is re-divided into four districts; District No 1 comprises the Kreise of Coblenz and Cochem; its civil affairs office is combined with that of the Office of Civil Affairs, AF in G, with hq at Coblenz. District No 2 comprises Kreise of Montabaur and Neuwied, hq at Montabaur; District No 3 comprises the Kreis of Mayen, hq at Mayen; District No 4 comprises the Kreise of Ahrweiler and Adenau, hq at Ahrweiler.⁶ The Liquidation Commission, handling administration of claims, leaves the area en route to United States. Repatriation of Polish-Americans is taking place. The AF in G strength on June 30 is 723 officers and 15137 enlisted men.

⁶ New assignment of duties was given Kreis officers, among which were supervision of prisons, investigation of appeals, power to deport vagrants, supervision of civil administration, liaison between the military forces and civilian officials, supervision of sanitation, surveillance of German courts. The complete supervision of civil police was taken over by Provost Marshal, AF in G. Kreis representatives of the Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission report economical and political conditions of the area.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Sept—the Office of Civil Affairs is reorganized; Kreis civil affairs officers are relieved and their duties taken over by the representatives of the Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission; the Office of Civil Affairs, AF in G, continues to function.⁷

Oct—organization of Air Service, AF in G, is initiated.

Nov—about 1000 replacements arrive from the United States for assignment to the AF in G.

Dec—Port of Antwerp is made an independent station. 500 replacements arrive. Strength of AF in G on Dec 31 is 654 officers and 15598 enlisted men.

Feb—usual tactical inspections of the command are made and preparations are made for training during period Apr–Oct. Reorganization of the inf brigs and regts according to National Defense Act is taking place.⁸

Mar—the Germans' refusal to comply with peace treaty terms causes Allies to occupy Düsseldorf and other towns in the Ruhr District of Germany; it is proposed to establish an Allied customs border along the Rhine.⁹ The Commanding General AF in G studies these problems as applicable to his own area. The ordnance, medical, and motor transport organizations are being reorganized.

Apr—the 1st F Sig Bn is reorganized and designated 2d Sig Co.

June—the 2d Brig MG Training Center at Engers is discontinued and the 1st Brig MG Training Center is redesignated "Provisional ⁷ This agency comprised Office of Superior Provost Courts, Office of Chief Sanitary Officer, and Office of the Executive. A Superior Provost Court and Vagrancy Courts for the Kreis of Coblenz, and a Superior Provost Court at Mayen for the American area outside of Kreis Coblenz, functioned under the Office of Civil Affairs, AF in G.

⁸ The Provisional Guard Bn, Milly Prison Det, Hq Co, Casual Depot were disbanded and their personnel transferred to the infantry regiments. The 7th and Provisional MG Bns were also disbanded and their personnel used for forming new battalion machine-gun companies of the 5th, 8th, and 50th Regts of Inf. The machine-gun companies of the 2d Brig were concentrated at Engers under designation 2d Brig MG Training Center, and a similar center was established from detachments of the 8th and 50th Regts of Inf at Ehrenbreitstein for the 1st Brig. Units of the 3d Bn 5th Inf replaced units of provisional Guard Bn at the depots and hq.

⁹ Mar 8, detachments of British, French, and Belgian Armies occupy Düsseldorf, Duisburg, and Ruhrort. Germany meets sanctions with passive resistance.

RECORD OF EVENTS

MG Bn"; the Casual Depot is discontinued; the strength of AF in G June 27 is 470 officers and 13259 enlisted men.

Aug 25, peace between the United States and Germany is signed at Berlin, German Foreign Office, by Dr. Rosen, German Foreign Minister, and Mr. E. L. Dressel, American Commissioner.

Sept—the two inf brigs engage in maneuvers; Gen Pershing inspects AF in G; the Composite Bn is sent to Paris to take part in Unknown Soldier ceremonies. The customs barrier in the Rhineland is lifted by the Allies.

Oct—the United States Senate ratifies German-American Peace Treaty Oct 19. Composite Inf Bn participates in ceremonies to British Unknown Soldier at London. The 2d Sig Co is reorganized as the 20th Service Co, Sig Corps. The Mounted Detachment and the Med Training Center are redesignated Provisional Cav Sq and Provisional Medical Bn, respectively.

Dec—the following organizations are ordered disbanded: Provisional MG Bn, Provisional Disciplinary Barracks, 2d Brig AF in G, 50th Inf, Motor Command No 24, Motor Transport Cos 33, 34, 60, 63. The 5th Inf is assigned to the 1st Brig AF in G and 2d Bn 6th FA relieved from it. Some 2000 troops leave for the United States during the month.

Jan—the Composite Co is sent to Italy to participate in ceremonies held in honor of the Italian Unknown Soldier. Commanding General AF in G studies War Department orders to reduce his force to minimum.

Feb—Hosp Cos 58 and 60, and Det Transportation Service QMC are demobilized. About 1100 troops leave for the United States. The Post Schools at Andernach and Mayen close. Detachments of military police at the substations of Boppard, Bingen, Nieder-Lahnstein, Ailla-Chapelle, Antwerp, and also those in former 2d Brig Area, are withdrawn. The Superior Provost Court at Mayen is discontinued.

Mar—about 2000 troops return to the United States. The strength of the AF in G on Mar 31 is 325 officers and 4239 enlisted men. Cos A and B 1st Engrs leave for United States.

Apr—the 1st Brig, AF in G, is demobilized. The Military Prison is discontinued. 1500 troops leave for the United States. Training is suspended with exception of rifle practice and the usual organization training and inspections. The remaining military police detachments at substations Bad Ems, Wiesbaden, Bonn and Cologne are withdrawn. Property received from organizations is classified at supply depots for final disposal.

May—units of the Fr 4th Dragoon Brig, which are to be affiliated with AF in G, arrive. The 2d Bn 8th Inf leaves for United States. The Provisional Cav Sq and Provisional Police Co are ordered demobilized. The French Army of the Rhine places all French troops in the American zone under the Commanding General, AF in G, for district command, employment, and general policing. About 1000 troops leave for United States, including Co D 1st Engrs and Motor Transport Co 60.

June—the War Department authorizes a force of 1200 to continue occupation.¹⁰ 449 soldiers leave AF in G for United States. The Base Port Office at Antwerp closes. Agreement with Germany provides for future evacuations, at German expense, through various ports. French troops move into the American area.

July—AF in G designates the Senior Line Officer of the French Army in the American Area as Commanding Officer, French Troops, American Area. Demolition of German fortifications within the area is being supervised.

Oct—Co A 16th Engr Bn is made inactive. The QM Depot at Coblenz—Lützel is released to German authority. French troops continue to occupy stations in American Area.¹¹

Dec—the strength of AF in G on Dec 31 is 105 officers and 1060 enlisted men; strength of French troops in the American Area: 174 officers and 5399 enlisted men.

1923

Jan—early in Jan the Reparations Commission held Germany in default of reparations payments under the Versailles treaty, causing French and Belgian troops to again occupy towns in the Ruhr District. Jan 11, AF in G ordered to terminate its occupation and return to the United States. Jan 24, AF in G leaves Coblenz, en route to the United States. French replace the American Army of Occupation on the Rhine at noon Jan 27 when Gen Allen turns over command of the American area to Gen Marty, commander of the French troops in the American area

¹⁰ Immediately upon receipt of these orders continuing AF in G, plans were drawn up for a force of 98 officers, 9 warrant officers, and 1093 enlisted men.
